MITCHEL RENEWS ATTACK ON HEARST AND TAMMANY BOSS

Accuses Editor of Making Public Views Opposed to Country's Welfare.

TAKES SECOND NOMINATION

Tells City Democracy Murphy Is the Real Half of the Wigwam Ticket.

ASSAILS UNTERMYER AGAIN

Hints at a Conference at the Lawyer's House with Dumba and von Bernstorff.

Accepting a nomination for Mayor from the City Democracy, an organization of independent Democrats working for the overthrow of Charles F. Murphy's leadership of Tammany Hall, Mayor Mitchel at Cooper Union last night continued his attacks upon Murphy, William R. Hearst, Judge Hylan, the Tammany Mayoralty candidate, and Samuel Untermyer. The Mayor dwelt upon patriotism as being the keynote of the municipal campaign, and said that the forces behind Hylan's candidacy were not in sympathy with the Government's war policy.

The Mayor devoted most of his speech to assailing Murphy and Hearst, who, he said, are really the twin candidates for Mayor against him. The Tammany ticket, he said, had been put forward falsely in the name of Democracy, and in referring to Mr. Untermyer's denial that he had associated with Dumba or von Bernstorff, as charged by the Mayor in his City Hall speech on Monday, the Mayor wanted to know about conferences between Mr. Untermyer, Dumba, and von Bernstorff at the former's home. He also quoted an alleged newspaper interview in which Mr. Untermyer was quoted as saying he was opposed to the United States declaring war, had termed the German submarine zone a battlefield where people could not go without being hurt, and was opposed to sending young men to "fight for England, which has injured us as much as Germany has."

"Gentlemen," shouted Mr. Mitchel with deep earnestness, "that is Hearst's doctrine. Don't help England. Keep our men for Japan. Be fearful of Japan. The jingoism that tries to stir up trouble between the United States and one of her allies in this war."

The Mayor's remark was greeted with great applause from the crowd that filled the hall to capacity. After it had subsided, the Mayor continued:

"And any Jingoism that tries to stir up trouble between America and one of her Allies strikes at America in a vital interest. Yes, the submarine zone a battlefield. That is the German doctrine in good truth—the doctrine that justifies the sinking of the Lusitania with her American lives aboard, the doctrine that justifies striking at the merchant ships, that justifies the sinking of the defenseless—that is the German doctrine, the high seas a battlefield. Don't send our young men abroad. Don't help to win this war for democracy and liberty. Oh, no! Remain prostrate and let Germany succeed. This is the doctrine that inspires the men who stand behind this ticket which is headed by Mr. Hylan, and that is one reason why every decent self-respecting American must be against it."

The crowd was noisy in its enthusiasm and was plainly sympathetic. Every reference the Mayor made to the war was cheered, and when he denounced Murphy's methods of leadership the people jumped to their feet and shouted while two bands added to the racket.

Begins Attack on Murphy.

Delegations of Democrats from every Assembly district in the five boroughs were at the meeting and ratified not only the nomination of the Mayor but the entire Fusion ticket. The meeting was presided over by Martin W. Littleton, who offered resolutions denouncing the leadership of Murphy, which were adopted with a shout. The Mayor jumped right into his attack upon Murphy, saying:

"I remember a meting held in this hall four years ago, when Democrats, unbossed, gathered here to protest against the shame of Murphy that had come upon the Democratic Party of the nation, and to declare themselves free of his bondage and devoted to a Government for the service of the people without relation to a boss. That meeting was held to support the Fusion ticket of four years ago. The campaign was successful, the ticket was elected, and tonight again Democrats gather here in this meeting to protest against the re-establishment of the reproach of Murphy in New York, to protest in the name of the Democratic Party of the country against re-establishing in New York a control that has been repudiated by the national party, and that has done nothing but bring shame upon it wherever it has gone."

"I have come here tonight as an independent to talk to independents. The City Democracy represents to my mind a great forward step, both in independence in politics and in the purging of the Democratic Party in this part of the country of the thing that has been its greatest reproach.

"It seems to me that it is clear that the reason that men in thousands are leaving the organization of Tammany Hall today, and are affiliating themselves with this City Democracy, or are declaring their independence of Mr. Murphy, is that they are ashamed to be led by that kind of leadership. They look back and they remember how at the Baltimore convention of 1912 the Democracy of the nation slapped in the face and repudiated the Democracy of the City of New York, because of the shame of Murphyism. I notice that Mr. Murphy, one of the Tammany candidates upon the ticket for Mayor, one of the twin candidates, in making a re-

Three-Inch Cannon Mounted on Tank Tested by Germans

FRENCH FRONT IN FRANCE, Oct. 3, (by The Associated Press.)—The Germans are experimenting with a tank armed with a three-inch cannon and machine guns.

The forward end of the tank is fitted with a spur-like ram, while the upper part bears a superimposed cupola.

THREAT TO CHANGE AUSTRIA'S TERMS

Will Demand Indemnity if War Goes On, Says Czernin in Budapest Speech.

REJECTS AN ECONOMIC WAR

Teutonic Powers Must Be Assured Against Trade Boycott, He Asserts.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 3.—Budapest dispatches received here say that at a dinner given by the Hungarian Premier, Dr. Alexander Wekerle, in honor of Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, the latter, in reply to an invitation to make a statement concerning his peace policy, said:

"To Talleyrand has been ascribed the saying that words are given to conceal thoughts. It may be that this saying was true for the diplomacy of his century. But for the present time I hardly can conceive a phrase less accurate.

"The millions who are fighting in the trenches or behind the lines wish to know why and for what they are fighting. They have a right to learn why peace, which the entire world desires, has not yet come. When I was appointed to my post I utilized the first opportunity openly to declare that we did not want to oppress any one, but that on the other hand we would not suffer any oppression, and that we were prepared to enter upon peace negotiations as soon as our enemies accepted the standpoint of peace by agreement."

Count Czernin said a plain statement of war aims was indispensable. He explained the conversion of the Central Powers to the doctrine of disarmament by declaring that armaments were necessary until the world was convinced that Austria-Hungary was not a dying State, subject to dismemberment.

Threat to Revise Terms.

In conclusion, Count Czernin threatened that unless peace without annexations or indemnities were immediately accepted it would be necessary for Austria-Hungary to revise its program and seek compensation for further costs of the war.

Arguing that competition in armaments after the war would mean economic ruin for all States and declaring that Austria-Hungary had not been prepared for war and had only made up during the conflict for her former neglected military equipment, Count Czernin continued:

"This war taught us that we must reckon on a great increase in former armaments. With unrestricted armaments the nations would be compelled to increase everything tenfold and the military strength of the great powers would amount to billions.

"That is impossible. It would mean complete ruin. To return to the armament status of 1914 would be a great reduction, but there would be no meaning in not going further and actually disarming. Hence complete disarmament is the only issue from the difficulty.

"Gigantic fleets will have no further purpose when the nations of the world guarantee the freedom of the seas, and land armies will be reduced to the level required for the maintenance of internal order. Every State will have to give up something of its independence for the purpose of insuring the world peace."

"Probably the present generation will not live to see the completion of this great pacific movement. It can only be realized slowly, but I consider it our duty to place ourselves at the head of the movement to do everything humanly possible to accelerate its materialization."

Disarmament on High Seas Only.

Strongly emphasizing the necessity for naval disarmament on the high seas, Count Czernin said:

"I purposely say the high seas, for I do not extend the idea to narrow seas, and I freely admit that for sea communications special rules and regulations must obtain. With these factors made clear every ground for territorial guarantees disappears.

"This is the basic idea of the beautiful and sublime note which the Pope addressed to the whole world. If this basis is accepted by our enemies we can renounce the enlargement of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, always provided that the enemy completely evacuates our territory."

Count Czernin then came to the final principle which he said it was necessary to observe to insure the free and pacific development of the world, namely, economic freedom. He said economic war must absolutely be eliminated from every future arrangement.

"Before we conclude peace," said Count Czernin, "we must have the positive certainty that our present opponents have relinquished the idea of economic war. These, gentlemen, are the basic principles of the new world order, as they present themselves to my mind, and they are all founded on all-around disarmament.

Accuses Allies of Devastation.

"Even Germany in her answer to the Pope's note most emphatically professes adherence to all-around disarmament, and our present opponents also have made these principles, at least in part, their own.

"The question of indemnities which the Entente is always advancing assumes remarkable completion when one considers the devastation their armies have wrought in Galicia, Bukowina, Tyrol, the Isonzo, East Prussia, in Turkish territories and the German colonies. Does the Entente intend to compensate us for all this, or is it so completely mistaken in its judgment of our psychology that it hopes for a one-sided indemnification?

"This war will not be decided with high-flown phrases. First we heard that Germany was to be annihilated and Austria-Hungary dismembered. Then the tone became more reasonable. It was to be sufficient to reform our internal conditions. Our enemies appear now to be in the third phase, they demand neither our life nor our right to decide our destinies as a State, but

TRADE AGREEMENTS TO END

United States Undertakes to Replace Supplies Now Drawn by Entents from Neutrals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Officials here see in the action taken by Great Britain in announcing a complete embargo on shipments to the northern neutrals of Europe one of the most important developments since the United States entered the world war and shut the doors of its commerce to the Central Powers and to nations like Holland, Sweden, Denmark, and Norway, which have been accused of helping to feed and arm the Germans.

It is understood here that the United States had urged upon Great Britain for some time the necessity for taking this step and that negotiations have been carried on by this Government with France, Italy, and other countries in the alliance against Germany to induce them to take a similar course.

Great Britain, according to the understanding in official circles, has consented to abrogate all of its trade agreements with the northern neutrals, thus probably forfeiting the share of their products which it has heretofore obtained. This share in almost every instance was far below the quantity received from the same neutral countries by Germany, while Germany has to depend almost entirely upon these neutrals for essentials. Great Britain and the other allies of the United States will be able to obtain them from other fields.

The Untied States Government has agreed to bend every effort to aid its allies in obtaining those supplies which may be cut off by the abrogation of the agreements with the neutrals of Europe. Shipping will be directed and the commerce of the United States regulated with this point in view.

Aim to Present United Front.

By such concerted action a clean slate will be presented in so far as trade agreements between any of the countries allied against Germany and the northern neutral nations of Europe are concerned. Further negotiations with these neutrals will be carried on only upon the theory that the underlying principle will be the starving of Germany into submission.

This weapon, which many officials here are convinced is one of the most powerful in the hands of the United States, will be exercised to the full to isolate Germany. No new policies for the shipment of supplies to the northern neutrals of Europe will be approved, it is understood, without the agreement of all of the allied nations.

It is realized that an embargo on the drastic lines now adopted by the United States and Great Britain will involve many international questions of great scope. As a basis of its action the United States Government, it is understood, has arrived at the conclusion that, as a belligerent nation, called upon to conserve its food and other commodities, it cannot be expected to release any of its products if Germany gains by that process.

The abrogation of trade agreements by Great Britain and the embargo measures adopted come practically as a death blow to certain hopes of neutral nations. The action taken has ended their last chance, that, because of these agreements, they might obtain a portion of essential materials sent by this country to England and the other allies.

Pressure on South America.

Coupled with the action of Great Britain comes the information that the United States has practically decided upon a drastic course in connection with exports from South America to the northern neutrals which will effectively close that door of trade. In this connection, it is understood tonight that should any of the South American countries attempt to get their wheat or other materials to Germany or the northern neutrals, American coal, absolutely essential to the life of South America, will be refused, both in the shape of bunker coal to operate ships and coal needed for the operation of public utilities and manufactories.

Under such a ruling pro-German interests in South America or any interests which seek to take advantage of high prices that neutral nations might be willing to pay for the crops which are shortly to be available would find themselves in an impossible position. They would also find American and allied interests prepared to bargain for the wheat and supplies to relieve the shortage which those countries find confronting them.

The position now taken in regard to all of these phases of the embargo situation has been the subject of careful consideration and investigation. Surveys have been made and tables prepared which show the full extent of the traffic between Germany and the neutrals. Various trade agreements have been inspected, with the result that high officials became convinced that Germany was profiting in the trade with neutrals to an extent that could

The vast machinery that has been organized to push the campaign for subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan is working at high speed and the momentum is increasing daily. At the close of business yesterday—the third day of the drive—the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported that it had in hand notifications of subscriptions filed with the various banks of the district amounting to $48,802,850. The total of subscriptions reported thus far by the applicants themselves or through other mediums is in excess of $105,000,000, and it is estimated that there are in transit further applications which would bring the total for the three days up to at least $135,000,000, and in all probability considerably more.

Following are some of the larger subscriptions reported yesterday:

United States Steel Corporation, (through First National)	$10,000,000
Mutual Life Insurance Co., (through First National)	10,000,000

Confirming the statement in yesterday's TIMES that banks and trust companies would make loans to Liberty Loan subscribers at 4 per cent., the rate of interest which the bonds will bear, Everett B. Sweezy, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Distribution Committee, issued a formal announcement that institutions had agreed to make advances at 4 per cent. in order to encourage persons to buy bonds with borrowed money, if they did not have the ready cash. These loans, in most cases, will be made for a period of 90 days, and upon maturity it is expected that the borrower will pay off part of the principal and gradually liquidate his indebtedness. The notes taken by the banks will in turn be rediscounted at the Federal Reserve Bank.

No Change in Discount Rates.

Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank, at their regular weekly meeting yesterday, decided to make no change in the current discount rates for various classes of paper, and it was determined to continue the special rate of 3½ per cent. applicable to notes of Liberty Loan subscribers rediscounted by member banks. The action of the bank Directors is important for the reason that it removes the objection of institutions demanding more than 4 per cent. on advances made to Liberty Loan subscribers. This difference of one-half of 1 per cent. is suf-

CONGRESS SESSION TO END THIS WEEK

Senate Passes 8-Billion War Bill —Insurance Measure Scheduled to Pass Today.

MAY ADJOURN ON FRIDAY

Soldiers and Sailors' Civil Rights Bill Likely to Go Over to December.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Congress will end its extraordinary war session, which began April 2, on Saturday, or possibly on Friday.

Agreement of the Senate today to take a final vote at 5 o'clock tomorrow on the Administration Soldiers' and Sailors' Insurance bill and the adoption, with record-breaking speed, of the conference report on the War Deficiency Appropriation bill paved the way for adjournment until the regular December session.

Arrangements for the final formalities were made by Senator Martin and Representative Kitchin, majority leaders. Mr. Kitchin prepared to introduce in the House tomorrow a resolution proposing adjournment at 5 o'clock on Saturday. Such speed was made on legislation in the Senate late in the day, however, that Senator Martin said tonight that it might be possible to finish on Friday.

The military insurance and deficiency appropriation measures are the only important bills awaiting final action which will get through at this session. Leaders are determined to pass over all other legislation until December, including the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights bill, which the House took up today and probably will pass tomorrow.

It is believed that only a short time will be required for conference agreement on the insurance measure after the final vote in the Senate tomorrow, and prompt approval by the House of the deficiency appropriation final draft also is scheduled.

Before adjourning both houses will send a committee to President Wilson to inquire formally if he wishes any other matters disposed of, but so many members of both bodies have already left the city, and the demand for immediate adjournment is so insistent, that the program for adjournment not later than Saturday is regarded as certain to be carried out.

Quickly Passes War Bill.

Within less than three minutes today the Senate adopted the conference report on the Deficiency Appropriation bill, carrying $7,757,434,410 in cash and authorized contracts. Tomorrow the House is expected to adopt it and send it to President Wilson.

The measure is said to be the greatest of the kind in the history of any government. It emerged this afternoon from conference between the two houses in which items involving over $780,000,000 were in dispute, and went through the Senate without the formality of a roll call.

The bill carries $5,355,976,016.93 of direct appropriation and authorizes the Government to enter into contracts for $2,401,458,393.75 more, almost entirely for war purposes, including the Navy's great destroyer program.

The largest appropriation is for the Ordnance Department of the army, which gets $695,100,000 for purchase, manufacture and test of mountain, siege and field cannon, and $225,000,000 more of contract obligations authorized, together with $663,000,000 of cash and $777,000,000 of contract obligations authorized for ammunition.

When Chairman Martin of the Appropriations Committee called up the conference report late today, Senator Robinson asked what had been done with the proposed $500,000 appropriation for an employment bureau in the Department of Labor. Senator Martin replied

Air Ministry Forming for British Reprisals; Lloyd George Makes Promise to London Poor

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The Daily Chronicle says that the War Cabinet has practically decided in favor of creating an Air Ministry with a separate war service, and it comments upon this news as follows:

"There has long been a demand for an Air Ministry, as well as for reprisals. The former is a question of evolution; the latter of equipment. The war started with two distinct air services and these could not be co-ordinated and the existing organizations disturbed until the problem of supply had been solved. The airplanes had first to be supplied for the army to maintain our ascendency in the air at the front. Engines and guns had to be supplied in great numbers to our allies. The needs of the navy were imperative and had to be met. Machines and guns for home defense came last.

"Now munitions of all kinds are abundant for all purposes. Fighting and bombing machines are being turned out at a far greater rate than the enemy can produce them. Reprisals will come in due course, as the enemy is no doubt expecting, and he will know to his cost that the strategical advantage which he has in Belgium as a jumping-off place will be more than balanced by the superiority of our fighting machines and the greater daring of our men.

Lloyd George has brought about unity of production in airplanes under Lord Cowdray. He will before long be able to announce a new development in aerial warfare. Captious critics may say, 'Why was it not achieved a year or more ago?' The answer is that we could not fight with inferior weapons. Just as in 1915 the army had little or no time in offensive artillery action owing to the shortage of guns and munitions, so we had to postpone aggressive air warfare in the form of long distance raids until we were fully equipped. The enemy is now finding himself outmatched on the western front in artillery and in fighting power. Before long he will find himself outmatched in the air. The war in the air is only beginning."

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A crowd of poor people in the southwest district of London assembled yesterday to Premier Lloyd George, says The Daily Mail, for reprisals against Germany for the air raids on London. The Premier shouted to the crowd:

"We will give it all back to them and we will give it to them soon. We shall bomb Germany with compound interest."

The crowd cheered the promise of the Premier, whoh ad just completed a tour of the area damaged in the raids with Viscount French, Commander of the Home Forces.

The air raids of the last ten days have virtually convinced the entire British press and public that the policy of passive defense for England must be dropped, and that a strong air offensive against Germany must be waged immediately. Even papers like The Manchester Guardian, which took the line that air raids accomplished little, have changed their policy.

The Germans, by the employment of some fifty machines and at the most 200 men, including aviators and mechanics, have forced England to detach several hundred valuable guns and several thousand men, including skilled gunners, for home defense.

The direct results of this campaign, apart from these military factors, have been the killing or wounding of fewer civilians and the damaging of property to a much smaller degree than the German people believe. But the indirect damages cannot be taken lightly.

The normal life of the largest city in the world and of important coast cities has been disturbed for ten days and the industries and working capacity of the people of London have been seriously handicapped. For an average of more than two hours on six nights the majority of Londoners have been forced to give up their pursuits and take shelter in basements, public buildings, and underground railways, while the guns were roaring in battle above. Railway travel has been largely at a standstill during these periods and all classes of nightwork have been interfered with, while day work has been curtailed.

The prolonged bombardments of heavy guns would be trying to the nerves of all but the strongest, and physicians say the nervous strain and loss of sleep has had a serious effect upon women and children. What the people of London are asking now is why they should undergo these attacks without the Germans having to suffer similarly.

8% EXTRA TAX ON ALL EARNINGS EXCEEDING $6,000

"Joker" in War Revenue Bill Adds Heavily to Individual Income Taxes.

INSERTED IN CONFERENCE

Ascribed to Secret, Hurried Procedure—Hits Salaried and Professional Men.

PRESIDENT SIGNS MEASURE

No Ceremony Attends Final Stage of Greatest Taxation Bill in History.

The Joker That Adds 8% to the Tax on Many Incomes

Section 209 of the "War Profits Tax" Division of the Revenue Bill.

Sec. 209. That, in addition to the taxes imposed by existing law and by this act, in case of a business or trade having no invested capital or not more than a nominal invested capital, there shall be levied, assessed, and paid in lieu of the tax imposed by this tiele, [the excess war profits tax on corporations,] a tax of 8 per centum of the net income only of such business or trade, in excess of $3,000 in case of a corporation and $6,000 in case of a partnership or individual.

From Section 200 of the "War Profits Tax" Division.

The terms "trade" and "business" include professions and OCCUPATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—With the signing today by the President of the $2,534,870,000 War Revenue bill, members of both houses of Congress are awakening to the fact that the individual excess profits tax, written into the bill in the secret sessions of the conference between the two houses, will provoke great criticism and, they fear, bring about widespread injustice.

While it does not seem to have been the intention to bring about that result, a literal reading of the law apparently imposes upon every person in the United States engaged in an "occupation," whether an independent profession like that of the doctor or the lawyer, or the occupation of a salaried subordinate, a tax of 8 per cent. upon all his earnings above $6,000 a year, and this in addition to the heavy income tax.

This section, which has all the earmarks of a legislative "joker," is No. 209, levying an 8 per cent. "excess profits tax on the incomes of men in professions and occupations on all money above $6,000 a year. The conferees had in mind lawyers making large fees, contending that the $100,000-a-year corporation attorney should pay an excess profits tax, as well as a corporation earning that money; but the effect of the measure is to discriminate heavily in favor of the man who receives an income from invested money, the rentier class man, and the idle rich with plenty of income and no occupation.

This bit of legislation is the result of the nervous worry of the last hours of the conference and the determined effort to get a bill before both houses raising a certain amount of money. Many members of Congress now look upon it as an example of the evils to be expected from legislation framed in secret proceedings and then suddenly thrown into each branch of Congress to be adopted at high speed.

Owing to the insistence of Representative Kitchin, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, a cloak of secrecy was thrown around the proceedings of the conference, and inquiries for the most part were treated with scant courtesy or a gruff refusal. Behind this barbed wire the conferees sat down to their work in the last hours and framed an excess profits tax for individuals which will work out as a penalization upon industry and talent.

A Round-Table Product.

No member of the Conference Committee claims authorship of this section. It appears that it was the outgrowth of a round-table conference. As nearly as can be gathered from the reluctant conferees this outgrowth of ideas happened in this way:

After long and tiring sessions, the conference reached an agreement on the taxes for incomes and corporations. This was fairly well worked out, after many hours of give and take. When these taxes were agreed upon, the question of individuals making large fees was brought up. This produced a long wrangle. The Senators on the Conference Committee seemed to put the greatest obstacles in the way of any such tax, while the House members were all for it.

In this period of the discussions the question of the tax on farmers, or taxes which would reach farmers, was up for debate. The experts of the Treasury Department already had prepared a tentative section for levying an excess tax upon individuals and proposed that one-fifth of a man's income be taxed at an extra rate.

The conferees took this proposition, and, after a long session, in which all hands took part, Section 209 emerged, providing for an 8 per cent. tax on professional and business men, allowing them an exemption of $6,000. It was first aimed at individuals doing a large business, but after the conferees began to talk with one another about the large fees some lawyers and some surgeons and consulting engineers receive, they fixed the tax to hit professional men.

It is almost humorous to contemplate, but talks with members of the committee indicate that they resented attorneys lobbying in connection with the war tax measure and charging presumably large fees for doing very little. This circumstance, real or imaginary, seems to have had considerable influence in the framing of this discriminatory section.

J. Hampton Moore's Explanation.

The only member of the conference committee who could be found to talk for publication tonight was Representative J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia, who said:

"The excess profits tax on individuals is due to the fact that corporations were heavily taxed, and many individuals in professional and business life are capa-

Only 13 British Ships Sunk; Week's Record Lowest of War

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Eleven British merchantmen of more than 1,600 tons each and two vessels under 1,600 tons were sunk by mines or submarines last week, according to the British Admiralty statement made public this evening.

The ship arrivals were, 2,680, and the sailings, 2,742. The merchant vessels unsuccessfully attacked, including seven previously, were sixteen.

This statement of the Admiralty again shows a new low record of sinkings of British merchantmen since Germany began her intensified submarine campaign. The total of fifteen vessels sunk the previous week was the previous low record.

U-BOAT CAPTAINS MISLEAD BERLIN

ESTIMATES 50% TOO HIGH

Washington Cautions Optimists, but Says Convoying Policy Has Reduced the Losses.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A high naval authority, discussing Admiral von Tirpitz's recent statement, with its grotesque confidence in U-boats, suggested today that his optimism was based on German official figures, which were demonstrably wrong.

Submarine officers misled their superiors in reports, he explained. These probably enter as sunk many vessels which are torpedoed but reach port, and also exaggerate the size of the victims. Even if German officers tried to be accurate, the authority said, errors were inevitable, as submarines must submerge and make a quick getaway for their own safety.

Official German estimates of sinkings of enemy and neutral vessels since the beginning of unrestricted ruthlessness have just been received here. A little under a million tons a month is the total alleged. As an actual fact, the estimates are just 50 per cent. too high. This explains the extraordinary continuance of faith among the German people in the efficiency of U-boat warfare.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A warning not to take things too much for granted one way or another in the submarine campaign was voiced by high naval officials today. The German plan to starve England and France by unrestricted submarine warfare had failed, it was declared, but it was insisted that there was still a real job ahead of this country and the Entente in dealing with the menace.

In every possible way the fight against the U-boat was being pushed, it was insisted, and magnificent results had been accomplished, but this did not mean that the menace had been sufficiently overcome to warrant any let-up in the campaign of the destroyers and the efforts to supply more ships to take the place of lost tonnage.

The views of high officials as obtained today may be summarized as follows:

"The measures taken to meet the submarine issue are having effect. Last year no ships were convoyed, but now nearly every ship has a convoy. A year ago nearly all the naval authorities of foreign countries as well as of this country said that convoys would not do; that they would simply furnish more targets for the submarines. We have disproved that.

"It will not do, when things go bad, when sinkings increase, to lose our nerve, and say everything is going to pieces. We expect submarine losses to be lessened, but it is wrong to be either too optimistic or too pessimistic. Of course, we are going to win, but neither extreme of feeling is now justified. We will win because we have everything Germany has not, and our advantage will tell in the end.

"Submarine sinkings fluctuate. One week they may be way down, and it might not be accurate to say that measures taken by Germany's enemies are responsible for the decrease. The next week the sinkings may rise sensationally, and it might not be accurate to say that there has been any less efficiency on the part of the patrols. The reason for the fewer sinkings might be that Germany is short of torpedoes, and is holding up the submarines until sufficient torpedoes may be furnished, and when the submarines reappear better equipped they might have greater success, coming out in squadrons.

"The United States is making magnificent headway in the construction of new naval vessels. Before we entered the war the shortest time in which a torpedo boat destroyer had been built was twenty-two months. We are turning them out in eight months. Every one that is now building will be delivered next year or before.

"We have got the money and the authority of Congress to build everything that can possibly be built with our resources, and the Navy Department itself will erect plants so that it can build ships. In twelve months the United States will turn out more new tonnage than any other country has ever done in a similar period and more than it was ever dreamed that the United States could build."

U-BOATS REPULSED, CHURCHILL DECLARES

Tonnage of Shells Hurled at Germans Now Four Times the Somme Battle Average.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Winston Spencer Churchill, Minister of Munitions, speaking at a luncheon in London today, said it was too early to say that the submarine campaign had been defeated, but it was not too soon to say that this vital attack on the country had been checked, even repulsed.

The capacity of the country to wage war, declared the Minister, was unimpaired; the armies had been supplied on an ever-increasing high level of equipment and the reserves of food were greater than before the attack began. During the twenty-three weeks of the present offensive the tonnage of shells hurled against the German positions had doubled that of the whole Somme battle, while during the last and culminating week it had been four times that of the same period in the Somme operations. Next year, unless some extraordinary development took place, he said, the power of the British artillery would undergo another great lift.

BOLO PACHA GOT $1,700,000 FUND FROM BERNSTORFF

Money to Buy Up French Press in Germany's Interest Placed in New York Bank.

Banking Relay Employed, the Documents Found by State Attorney General Show.

HEARST DINED WITH BOLO

Hint That the Entire Web of German Plottings in America May Be Uncovered.

Attorney General Merton E. Lewis of New York, with the approval of Secretary of State Lansing and Jules J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, disclosed last night the secret of the traitorous activities in this country of Paul Bolo Pacha, the Levantine financier of Paris, now under arrest in France as a German spy.

Evidence in the possession of the Attorney General shows that the man who was behind the scheme by which Bolo proposed to betray France by corrupting its public press in favor of Germany was Count von Bernstorff, then the German Ambassador at Washington, who eagerly fell in with the plans of the traitor and advanced him nearly $1,700,000 with which to finance the plot in France.

The evidence also shows that it was through Hugo Schmidt, prominent before the war in New York banking circles, as the agent of the Deutsches Bank of Berlin, that Bernstorff advanced the money to the Levantine plotter, Adolph Pavenstedt, another former New York banker of German origin, appears as a go-between for the plotting Ambassador and the spy.

Bolo arrived in New York on Feb. 22, 1916, and left on March 17 following. He had rooms at the Plaza Hotel, and was careful not to be seen in public with German agents. He saw Bernstorff secretly in Washington. According to one of the witnesses in the case, he attended a large dinner at Sherry's, where he met, with others, William Randolph Hearst, whom, he told a bank employe, he hoped to "convert."

The documents in the possession of the Attorney General show the roundabout way which Bernstorff employed to get the corruption money into the hands of Bolo. Four banks were made use of in the relay.

As soon as the money reached the Royal Bank of Canada New York branch, in which it was deposited to the credit of Bolo, the latter began to check it out. The first check, for $170,000, was deposited with J. P. Morgan & Co. to the credit of Senator Charles Humbert, owner of Le Journal of Paris. The sum of $524,000 was transferred to Mme. Bolo in Paris, and $5,000 was placed to the credit of Jules Bois, a French lecturer then in the United States. About $1,000,000 was transferred to Paris and placed to Bolo's credit in a French bank.

Actors in the Drama.

The story given out by Mr. Lewis brings into the affair Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, the ex-German Ambassador to the United States; Hugo Schmidt, the German banker and agent in New York, up to the break with Germany, of the Deustches Bank of Berlin; Adolph Pavenstedt, former head of the New York banking house of G. Amsinck & Co., and a number of other persons whose names are for the present withheld from publication.

A great mass of documents, including letters, cablegrams, and photographs of checks will be turned over to Ambassador Jusserand today. M. Jusserand had an opportunity last week to inspect the evidence in the possession of Attorney General Lewis. Bolo Pacha's arrest immediatery followed a cabled synopsis of that evidence transmitted to Paris by the Ambassador. There are indications that the revelations in the case will go far to uncover the whole structure of German plotting in the United States.

The investigation by Attorney General Lewis began eleven days ago, and at the end of a week the case was in such shape that the main features could be cabled to Paris. The amount of money which Bernstorff, through his financial agent, Schmidt, turned over to Bolo totaled $1,683,500, the money coming into possession of Bolo after it had passed through a carefully prearranged system of transfers from one bank to another, the transfer of the money being made by cashier's checks and in such a way as to hide the origin of the money and to make it impossible for one bank to know what part the other institutions had in the transfer.

Banks in "the Circle."

The banking institutions which formed what the Attorney General termed "the circle around which the money traveled on its way to Bolo" were the Deutsches Bank, the National Park Bank, the Guaranty Trust Company, J. P. Morgan & Co., and the Royal Bank of Canada. With the exception of Pavenstedt, none of the New York bankers had any reason to believe that there was anything strange in the transactions. Pavenstedt, who was examined yesterday by Mr. Lewis, is said to have been fully cognizant of the purpose Bolo had in mind, which was the creation of discontent in France through the buying up, on behalf of Germany, of various influential publications, such as Le Journal of Paris.

Charles Humbert, owner of Le Journal, the documents in the possession of Attorney General Lewis show, had deposited to his account in the Morgan bank, by Bolo, 1,000,000 francs, which at the then rate of exchange amounted in American money to $170,068.05. The papers in the case show that on Feb. 14 of last year Humbert wrote J. P. Morgan & Co. in New York that Bolo would deposit "to my account the sum of 1,000,000 francs, converted into dollars." The letter was written twelve days before Bolo arrived in New York, indicating that the deal to acquire an interest in Le Journal was practically completed several weeks in advance of the transfer of the money by Bernstorff through Schmidt to Bolo.

The name of Jules Bois, the French lecturer and poet, who was lecturing in this country in the interest of France, also appears in the Bolo papers. The German agent, it appears, placed $5,000 in the Royal Bank of Canada to the credit of M. Bois. Attorney General Lewis says the disclosures in no way reflect on M. Bois, who, he adds, "was one of several decent men used by Bernstorff and Bolo as a cloak to hide the real nature of the work they were engaged in."

Pavenstedt's Secret.

Attorney General Lewis emphasized the statement that the developments in nowise reflect on any of the banks named, the Deutsches Bank, of course, excepted. Adolph Pavenstedt, he added, was the only member of the banking firm of G. Amsinck & Co. as that bank was then organized who knew the Bernstorff-Bolo-Schmidt secret. The money transferred to G. Amsinck & Co., he said, was not entered on the books of that concern, and Pavenstedt was the only official who knew of the transfers. A few employes who knew that hundreds of thousands of dollars were coming into the bank in the form of cashier's checks from the National Park Bank and the Guaranty Trust Company were enjoined by Pavenstedt to remain silent, and they did until brought before the Attorney General a few days ago.

The investigation which has revealed Bolo in his true status was made by Perley Morse & Co., certified accountants of 61 Broadway, to whom was given the necessary legal authority to examine the books of the various banks with which Bolo had dealings during the short time he was in the United States. It was a week before the accountants solved the secret of "the circle" and began to get results.

Not a word of what was going on was made public until 6 o'clock last night, when Attorney General Lewis met reporters from the New York newspapers at his rooms in the Murray Hill Hotel.

"I have sent for you, gentlemen," he said, "to give you certain facts having to do with the activities in the United States, last year, of the man, Paul Bolo Pacha, now under arrest in Paris. The conclusions, not all of which will be made public tonight, will be substantiated by a mass of documentary evidence and other proofs of the disposition of the money furnished to Bolo Pacha in this country by the former German Ambassador, von Bernstorff.

"Several weeks ago the French Ambassador sought the assistance of Governor Whitman in the effort to obtain information as to the activities of Bolo Pacha in this country. The Governor requested Attorney General Lewis to render such assistance as might be possible, and the Attorney General immediately began an investigation. He directed Perley Morse of New York City, certified public accountant, to make an examination of the accounts of Bolo Pacha in the banks of G. Amsinck & Co., the Royal Bank of Canada, New York branch, and J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Morse made such an examination and early last week submitted his preliminary report to the Attorney General.

"After he had inspected the report Attorney General Lewis, realizing that the information should first be submitted to the State Department, requested Robert C. Morris of this city, who has been assisting the Attorney General in the matter, to take the report to Washington and permit the Secretary of State to examine it first, and later on, if agreeable to the State Department, Ambassador Jusserand. Mr. Morris submitted the report to the Ambassador with the consent of Secretary Lansing. The Ambassador declared that the report provided him with valuable information which would be of much aid to his Government. He said that he wished the Attorney General to sift the affair to the bottom, no matter whom it might affect."

Mr. Lewis permitted an inspection of the records and documents in the case by the reporters. The most important of the documents is a letter written by Bolo Pasha to the New York City branch of the Royal Bank of Canada on March 14, 1916, three days before he sailed to return to France. That letter reads:

Disposes of $1,700,000.

The Royal Bank of Canada, New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen—You will receive from Messrs. G. Amsinck & Co. deposits for the credit of my account with you, which deposits will reach the aggregate amount of about $1,700,000, which I wish you to utilize in the following manner:

First—Immediately on receipt of the first amount on account of this sum pay to Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., New York City, the sum of $170,068.03, to be placed to the credit of the account with them of Senator Charles Humbert, Paris.

Second—Establish on your books a credit of $5,000, good until the 31st of May, in favor of Jules Bois, Biltmore Hotel, this amount to be utilized by him at the debit of my account according to his needs, and the unused balance to be returned to me.

Third—Transfer to the credit of my wife, Mme. Bolo, with agency T of Comptoir National d'Escompte de Paris a sum of about $524,000, to be debited to my account as such transfers are made by you at best rate and by small amounts.

Fourth—You will hold, subject to my instructions, when all payments are complete, a balance of not less than $1,000,000.

Yours truly, BOLO PACHA.

This is how the $1,683,500, which was the exact amount Bernstorff ordered Schmidt to place at the service of Bolo, came into the latter's actual possession.

Found Bernstorff Sympathetic.

Bolo arrived in New York on a French liner on Washington's Birthday of last year. He is said to have immediately sought out Pavenstedt, and to have outlined to that banker his scheme for creating an opinion favorable to Germany in France. Pavenstedt told Bolo that he was not in a position to get the money for him, and is said to have advised him to get in touch immediately with Bernstorff. This Bolo did. Bernstorff told Bolo he would consider the proposition and let him know his decision in a few days. His decision was that the scheme was a splendid one for Germany, and he sent word to Bolo that he would back him.

Bernstorff then instructed Hugo Schmidt, the Deutches Bank representative in New York, to give Bolo the money needed to carry out the plan to "buy up" the French press and to start other pro-German propaganda in France. Schmidt transferred the money in six payments, all by cashier's checks of the National Park Bank and the Guaranty Trust Company. Both of these institutions were correspondents at that time of the Deutches Bank. The six payments, all by cashier's checks to G. Amsinck & Co., were:

March 18, from Guaranty Trust Co..	$500,000
March 17, from Guaranty Trust Co..	200,000
March 21, from National Park Bank.	300,000
March 25, from Guaranty Trust Co..	200,000
April 1, from Guaranty Trust Co....	200,000
April 1, from National Park Bank..	283,500
Total	$1,683,500

All of these checks were transferred by Pavenstedt to the Royal Bank of Canada to the credit of Bolo Pacha, the name of the Levantine not appearing in any of the transactions until the money reached the Canadian institution. Not one reference occurs in any of the books of G. Amsinck & Co. to show that the money was ever in that bank. The fact that it did pass through G. Amsinck & Co. without the official knowledge of any one but Pavenstedt, was revealed by certain check stubs which have come into the possession of the Attorney General.

The money reached the Canadian bank through an exchange of checks on the following dates in 1916:

March 14	$500,000
March 17	200,000
March 21	300,000
March 25	200,000
April 3	483,500
Total	$1,683,500

"In tracing the transit of the above sums of money," said Mr. Morse last night, "we lost the trail several times in the 'circle' around which the money passed. None of the banks concerned knew what part any of the others had in the transactions."

As soon as the money had reached the Canadian bank and had been placed to his credit, Bolo Pacha began to check on it. One of the first checks was for the $170,000 concerning which M. Humbert wrote J. P. Morgan & Co. under date of Feb. 10, 1916, as follows:

[Translation.]

Le Journal, 100 Rue de Richelieu, Direction. Paris, 10 February, 1916.

Gentlemen: Mr. Paul Bolo-Pacha will deposit to my account with your bank in New York the sum of 1,000,000 francs, converted into dollars, (average rate of exchange as of Jan. 31 last). Very truly yours, C. HUMBERT.

To Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co.

Mme. Bolo, as per instruction from Bolo, received [illegible], the money being paid to her through the Comptoir National d'Escompte of Paris. The $5,000 ordered deposited to the credit of Jules Bois was placed at Bolo's disposal. The balance, $1,000,000, which Bolo was to use on his return to France, was checked from the Royal Bank of Canada to J. P. Morgan & Co., and transferred by the latter to the banking house of Perrier & Co. in Paris.

One of the men examined by the Attorney General was E. C. Pignatel, an employe of the New York branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. Mr. Pignatel stated that he saw Bolo several times and came to know him quite well.

Mr. Pignatel said he had been led to believe that Bolo Pacha was active in creating anti-German feeling in France, and that one of the reasons he had come to the United States was "to convert," as Mr. Pignatel put it, "William Randolph Hearst, who, Bolo said he understood, was pro-German in his views." Mr. Pignatel said he understood that Mr. Hearst and Bolo Pacha had attended a dinner at Sherry's, which was a very large affair. He did not give the names of any of the other guests.

Hugo Schmidt, who is one one of the prominent figures in the disclosures made, was arrested by agents of the Department of Justice the day after Congress declared war on Germany. He was subsequently paroled on his promise to strictly observe the war regulations of the United States.

G. Amsinck & Co., when Pavenstedt was its senior member, was the bank through which Captain von Papen transacted a large part of his business as chief assistant to Bernstorff.

BOLO PACHA FORCIBLY FED.

Questioned by Judge After a Meal of Milk and Vichy.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—The authorities apparently have carried out their decision to Feed forcibly Bolo Pacha, who, since he was taken to prison recently on the charge of having relations with the enemy, had refused all nourishment. It was believed he was undertaking a hunger strike.

A bulletin issued this morning says that he has improved, that his general condition is good, and that he had taken sufficient milk and vichy to allow the Prosecuting Judge to interrogate him.

FRENCH AIRMEN RAID BADEN.

Watering Place Attacked in Reprisal for Bombing Bar-Le-Duc.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Continuing their reprisals for attacks of German airmen on French cities, French aviators last night dropped bombs on the German town of Baden, the War Office announces. The statement follows:

"In reprisal for the bombardment of Bar-le-Duc two of our aviators dropped several bombs on the town of Baden.

"On the night or Oct. 1-2 and during the day of Oct. 2 our aviators bombarded the railway station at Fribourg, factories at Volkelgen and Hoftenbach, and railway stations at Brieulles, Longuyon, Metz-Woippy, Arnaville, Mezieres-les-Metz, Thionville, and Sarrebourg. In the course of these various expeditions projectiles to the amount of 7,000 kilograms (15,400 pounds) were dropped."

The town of Baden, in the Grand Duchy of the same name, is one of the most famous and beautiful watering places of Europe, best known for its medicinal baths. It has 15,000 inhabitants, and is about fifty-five miles from the French border.

Table of Payments Under Income Tax Schedules As Revised in New War Revenue Act, Just Made Law

Details of the income tax, as provided in the new Revenue act, are presented below as they apply to the income of a married man. The only alteration necessary in applying the figures to the income of a single man is to make the exemption $1,000 instead of $2,000, as in case of a married man.

It is to be noted, however, that, according to the "joker" discovered in the Revenue bill, 8 per cent. must be added on all earned incomes above $6,000.

ble of earning as much as some corporations. It was felt that farmers, speculators in foodstuffs, cotton planters, surgeons, lawyers, editors, engineers, and other professional men should be taxed for excess profits, but be given an exemption of $6,000 before the excess profits tax begins.

"There were many cases pointed out where professional men without capital absorb the business of other men, and charge as much as the traffic will bear. It was felt they should share in payment of an excess profits tax, along with the corporations."

Members of the Conference Committee admit this section will provoke an angry outcry from salaried men who see themselves taxed an extra 8 per cent. while their neighbors who have incomes from invested money and do no work escape this burden. They seem to think, however, that there will be few of these cases.

How It Would Work Out.

A typical instance would be the comparison between a professional man with a $10,000 income and an idler with an income of $50,000 from 3½ per cent. tax exempt bonds. Upon his $10,000 the first man now pays a total income tax of $355, and under the excess profits tax he pays 8 per cent. on $4,000, which is $320—a total of $675. The $50,000 man, who does no work, pays no taxes on his tax exempt bond income.

Members of Congress have little chance to scrutinize thoroughly the contents of a conference report. Consequently many things are slipped into the statute books by the subterranean passages of a conference committee and are never understood until too late. Conferences have a sacred aspect to Congress. The members become imbued with the atmosphere of a plane a little high than that of the ordinary legislator, and it seems to be bad form to criticise a conferee.

After the conference has agreed on something it makes a formal report to the Senate and House, and under the rules the report lies upon the table for one day. During this time it is printed, and usually, on the day following, if the measure be a big and important one, the managers in charge of the legislation take it up, make brief explanations, and show all signs of a desire to close up with a vote and conclude business. It is in this rush atmosphere, where men rarely exhibit the firmness necessary to uncover a "joker," that ludicrous and dangerous and unfair legislation is cultivated.

No formalities attended the signing of the war tax measure. One of the immediate effects of the signing of the bill will be an increase in distilled beverage prices to meet the new tax of $2.10 a gallon, which reaches even the stocks of retailers in excess of fifty gallons.

Final official estimates of Treasury Department and Senate Finance Committee experts of revenue expected from the bill during the first year of its operation follow:

When New Taxes Take Effect.

All new taxes in the bill become effective with the signing of the bill by the President, except certain specified rates. The one-cent letter and postcard tax becomes operative in thirty days and the second class mail increases July 1. All stamp taxes, including those on parcel post packages, become effective December 1. Amusement admissions and club dues taxes go into effect November 1, as do taxes on freight and passenger transportation, sleeping car, drawing room and steamship berths; pipe line transportation, insurance policies and telegraph and telephone messages costing fifteen cents or more.

Postmaster General Burleson has assured Congress that before the new increased second class mail rates become effective next July he will use his influence to have the entire subject reopened by the Senate and House Postal Committees and a modified system established as a substitute. The conferees accepted the compromise in the Revenue bill, it was stated today, with the express understanding that the department and Congressional committees would take up the question before the rates become effective and present some new plan.

Members of Congress prominent in the fight for increasing the rates said today that they did not expect the Revenue bill's rates to go into effect. Postmaster General Burleson is said by Congressmen to oppose increasing the rates on reading matter, especially that on newspapers.

they demand more or less large frontier rectifications.

"Further phases will follow, although a majority of the population of all the enemy countries already definitely take their stand on the basis of peace by agreement, which we were the first to propose six months ago and the fundamental principles of which I have just stated.

Does Not "Demand Utopia."

"We do not seek strength in big words, but in our glorious armies, the firmness of our alliances, the steadfastness of our people and the wisdom of our war aims. We do not demand a Utopia. We can neither be bent nor destroyed. Conscious of our power and clear as to what we must attain, we go our ways."

Saying that he had been blamed both at home and in unfriendly countries for plain speaking with regard to the Austro-Hungarian peace terms, Count Czernin proceeded:

"I withdraw nothing, being convinced that an overwhelming majority of the people approve my viewpoint. I feel compelled to say something publicly regarding the Government's ideas as to the restoration of Europe's shattered relationships.

"In broad outline our program for the re-establishment of order in the world has been laid down in our reply to the Pope's note. It may appear to be inconceivable to any people that the Central Powers desire to make renunciation with respect to military armaments, but the war has produced new facts, conditions, and conceptions which have shaken the foundation of European politics as they previously existed.

"Especially has the idea crumbled which held that Austria-Hungary was a moribund State. It was the dogma of impending dissolution of the monarchy which made our position in Europe difficult. By proving ourselves in this war thoroughly sound, and, at least, equal to the others, we destroyed the hopes that we could be overthrown by force of arms.

"Now that this proof has been given, we are in a position simultaneously with our allies to lay aside arms and regulate future conflicts by arbitration.

"This new competition which has forced its way into the world war affords us the opportunity not only of accepting the idea of disarmament and arbitration, but also of working with our whole energy toward its realization. Europe, after the war, must be placed on a basis of right, offering a guarantee of permanence. This basis must offer security against any future war of revenge. We must bequeath to our children's children as a legacy that they will be spared such a terrible war as this, and that is only possible through disarmament and arbitration.

"It is superfluous to say that disarmament must never be directed against any particular State or group of powers, and that it must comprise land, sea, and air in the same degree.

"On an international basis and under international control universal equal and gradual disarmament in all States of the world must occur and the defensive force must be limited to what is absolutely necessary. I know this goal is extraordinarily difficult to reach and its pathway is long and thorny, but it must and shall be trodden, no matter whether individuals consider it desirable or not.

Free Hand if Conflict Goes On.

"We have from the beginning stated our aim and adhered to it. But let no one cherish the delusion that this pacific and moderate program of ours can and will hold good forever. If our enemies compel us to continue the war we shall be obliged to revise our program and demand compensation.

"I speak for the present moment, because I am convinced that world peace can now come on the basis which I have set forth. If the war, however, continues we reserve for ourselves a free hand. I am absolutely convinced that our position a year hence will be incomparably better than today. But I would consider it a crime to carry on the war for any material or territorial advantages for a single day longer than is necessary for the integrity of the monarchy and our future safety.

"If our enemies refuse to listen and compel us to continue this murder, then we reserve the right to revise our terms. I am not very optimistic of the disposition of the Entente to conclude peace by agreement on the above basis. An overwhelming majority of the entire world wants peace by agreement, but some few men are preventing it.

"We shall in this case pursue our way with sang froid and steady nerves. We know that we can hold out at the front and at home. Our hour will come, and with it a sure guarantee of the free and peaceful development of Austria-Hungary."

Minister's Speech Commended.

Count Czernin's speech, which was received here by way of Berlin, was very considerably delayed. Commenting on it, the Fremdenblatt says:

"Our enemies must recognize that their continuous refusal to terminate the war in a manner satisfactory to both parties is not without danger, and they must not continue the war indefinitely."

The Freie Presse says:

"Count Czernin loosely sketched a peace treaty, which almost only requires a sharp division into articles."

The Neue Wiener Tageblatt says:

"Entente politicians may cast suspicion on our readiness for peace, but among the people the speech, if received undistorted, will create the impression that it springs from an honest conviction."

The Arbeiter Zeitung believes that it is Count Czernin's desire to serve peace and to remove the obstacles opposing it. The Zeitung says:

"He has pushed the peace car a bit further along."

The papers report from Budapest that the speech was favorably received and vigorously applauded.

OUTBURST IN AUSTRIA AGAINST MICHAELIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 3.—Information reaching The Hague tonight from Austria shows that fury and bitter disappointment in Austria and Hungary followed the speeches on peace of Michaelis and Kühlmann to the Reichstag Main Committee. With the sole exception of the inspired semi-official papers, including only two in Hungary, the speeches were denounced as futile and treacherous.

The Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung printed on Saturday the angriest outburst about Germany yet published in an Austrian paper. It said:

"Every expectation built upon this Mr. Michaelis is an error. The man lacks any trace of warmth, any ounce of personality. Everything he says is so wooden and stiff that his speech was condemned in advance to futility.

"The Foreign Secretary, who followed, produced little more than poetical flummery. He talked about the desire of Germany, in reply to the Pope's note, of producing an atmosphere favorable to peace negotiations, but how is such an atmosphere to be created when the Chancellor refuses to specify the German terms and talks about having a free hand as regards Belgium?

"Political conditions in Germany are so miserable that it is possible Michaelis meant only to say something pleasing to the Pan Germans, and if his words really were meant to convey any serious annexationist program, all the chatter about honorable peace would be a pure and simple swindle. Even if he did not mean annexation, such ambiguous words must necessarily extinguish the last lingering hopes of peace.

"Too often we have seen Germany take a half step forward and a whole step backward. After every moderately intelligent utterance the row begins afresh and the so-called authorities promptly retract. It looks just as if all this peace talk were nothing whatever but a convenient alibi intended to appease popular opinion and pacify the Socialists."

The same issue of the paper contains a frank article on Austrian finances, which are represented to be in desperate straits.

DENIES SEPARATE PEACE BID.

No Proposals Made to France or Great Britain, Says Kuehlmann.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 3.—Germany has made no proposals whatever for a separate peace, either to France or Great Britain, Dr. von Kühlmann, the German Foreign Secretary, announced, according to an official statement received here from Berlin, in answering the speech made by General Verkhovsky, the Russian Minister of War, before the Democratic Congress in Petrograd.

The statement reads:

"The Russian War Minister, General Verkhovsky, asserted at the Petrograd Democratic Congress that the Imperial Chancellor (Dr. Michaelis) had stated among other things at Stuttgart that Germany was ready to return Alsace-Lorraine to France. The Imperial Chancellor's utterances at Stuttgart are generally known, and the assertion of the Russian War Minister is an invention.

"General Verkhovsky further stated that it was Germany's intention to make a separate peace with Great Britain and France at the cost of Russia, and that Great Britain and France had informed the Russian Government that they would not be parties to any such proposal. I herewith state that Germany has made no proposals whatever for a separate peace, either to France or Great Britain."

ANNOUNCES CAPTURE OF AMERICAN AVIATOR

Dnesseldorf Paper Tells of It to Throw Ridicule on Kaiser Reward Story.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 3.—The Düsseldorf General Anzeiger announces the capture of the first American prisoner, an aviator who landed within the German lines. The paper says that this fact puts an end to the story that the Kaiser was to give 300 marks reward and three weeks' holiday for the first American captured. It says:

"This prize is in every respect a fantastic one, as no American is worth 300 marks and morover the whole story is an invention." * * * The best part of the story is that the first American was captured long ago when an American aviator landed within the German lines."

This dispatch may refer to Harold Willis of Boston, a Corporal of the Lafayette Escadrille, who was originally reported missing in early August after a big raid on German bases.

It was first thought he was dead, but a month afterward word reached Paris that he had been taken prisoner. He is a young Harvard graduate, and had received the war cross.

CONGRESS SESSION TO END THIS WEEK

that the conferees had felt compelled to cut it to $250,000. Then the report was adopted.

The proposal to examine for military service all men registered for the army draft and not yet called was killed for the present, at least, today when the House and Senate conferees eliminated the appropriation for that purpose from the War Deficiency bill.

Most of the Senate's time today was devoted to an explanation of the Insurance bill by Senator Williams and debate over the advisability of continuing the insurance plan after the war. Senator Weeks opposed this feature of the bill and Senator Smoot introduced an amendment providing for turning over to private companies all insurance policies held by enlisted men, the Government paying the difference in cost.

Another amendment by the Utah Senator would establish the same family allowances as were operative during the Spanish-American war.

LOAN SALES HERE NOW $135,000,000

ficient to compensate the banks for their overhead expenses in connection with loans made to their customers.

It will be recalled that during the first Liberty Loan campaign for the sale of 3½ per cent. bonds, the Reserve Bank's special discount rate was 3½ per cent., and that the few institutions which agreed to carry the purchases of bonds by their customers at the same rate received no compensation whatever, and that consequently the 3½ per cent. rate was criticised, and most institutions refused to grant it, excepting in certain special cases. The action of the Reserve Bank in making the rate 3½ instead of 4 per cent. will, it is expected, greatly facilitate the flotation of the second Liberty Loan. The Federal Reserve Bank issued this statement in connection with the announcement of the rate:

"It should not be understood that the rates now in force will necessarily remain so for any fixed period of time. The rates established by the bank must be governed by business and monetary conditions, but the Directors of this bank see nothing in the present situation and outlook requiring any changes in the rates now established."

Further evidence of the disposition of financial institutions to help the public in every reasonable way in financing Liberty bond purchases was given yesterday when the committee announced that thirty of the thirty-two trust companies in New York City had agreed to sell bonds on a partial payment plan of $1 down on the filing of subscriptions and a dollar a week until the bonds are paid for.

On the basis of subscriptions totaling $5,000,000,000 for the whole country, the New York Federal Reserve District, which is composed of the whole of the Empire State, Fairfield County, Conn., and twelve northern counties of New Jersey, is expected to raise 30 per cent., or $1,500,000,000. The apportionment for the five boroughs of New York City is $1,075,861,500, and the rest of the district is expected to send in subscriptions amounting to $424,138,500. The following figures give the quota for this city:

Borough of Manhattan	$1,012,813,500
Borough of Brooklyn	44,148,500
Borough of Queens	5,487,000
Borough of the Bronx	2,611,000
Borough of Richmond	901,500
Total, New York City	$1,075,861,500

The apportionments have been made on the basis of banking resources and population. The territory outside of New York City has been divided into eight districts, and these in turn into 550 communities. Each community and each district is organized, and encouraging reports are arriving from all points. That the farming districts are taking a great interest in the loan campaign is indicated by the telegrams received at the Liberty Loan headquarters from thirty-two of the forty-five farm bureaus, all of which report satisfactory responses to the appeal for subscriptions.

The Directors of The Associated Press, in session here yesterday, unanimously resolved to transfer the sum of $300,000 which the association has in its Emergency Reserve Fund to an investment in Liberty Loan registered bonds, as was done in the case of the first issue. In addition it was unanimously resolved that the executive officers be authorized to encourage the subscription for Liberty Loan bonds by employes on a partial payment plan, the association to carry the bonds and deferred payments until fully paid for by employes.

At a meeting of representatives of various organizations held yesterday at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory plans were formulated for a monster Liberty Loan pageant and parade which is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 24. The parade is expected to visualize the participation of every class of citizenship in the service of the country, whether that consists of military duty, work in factories or on farms, or the purchase of bonds for the purpose of helping to finance the struggle. Major Lorillard Spencer of the Fifteenth (Negro) Federalized National Guard will assist in perfecting the military features of the demonstration.

The Liberty Loan Committee is also making plans for a Navy Day, when the city can line the sidewalks to cheer marching battalions of bluejackets of the regular service, drawn from ships in the immediate vicinity, applaud the "First to Fight" corps of marines and acclaim the men of the Naval Reserve, some three or four thousand of whom are in nearby cantonments. One of the features will be the naval flags of all our Allies, carried by men of the various nationalities, clad in their respective uniforms. There will also be a float carrying a lifeboat filled with survivors of the Lusitania, and there will be another float carrying one of the naval rapid-fire guns with which our merchantmen are now armed.

A Liberty Loan drive, the purpose of which is to enlist the active co-operation of every hotel in the United States, is to be started by four New York hotels, the Park Avenue, Majestic, Martha Washington, and the Hargrave, next week. According to the announcement of George C. Brown and Copeland Townsend, proprietor of these hotels, every cent taken in the restaurant departments for seven days, beginning Monday, will be invested in Liberty Bonds.

ORDERS ARMY TO HELP LOAN.

Gen. Bliss Directs That All Officers Join in Bond Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Major Gen. Bliss, Chief of Staff, issued a general order today directing army officers to institute an "aggressive campaign" for voluntary subscriptions to the Liberty Loan.

The order is addressed to Major Gen. Pershing, commanding the American expeditionary forces in Europe, and to the commanding officer of each territorial department, tactical division, coast artillery district and separate brigade. Similar action is to be taken by bureau chiefs respecting officers, enlisted men, and civilian employes under their control at Army Headquarters and by commanding officers of arsenals, depots, hospitals, recruiting stations or other places under direct control of the War Department.

"This campaign," says General Bliss's order, "will be so thorough that every officer, enlisted man, and civilian employe, including also the members of the Marine Corps or other United States forces attached to the army, will be reached and his services utilized in this patriotic movement."

EXPECT REPUBLICANS TO SELECT MITCHEL

But Bennett Promises a Big Fight in County Committee Tonight.

'REGULARITY' TO BE ISSUE

Meanwhile Chairman Koenig Indicates That He Will Not Support the Mayor.

When the Republican County Committee of New York meets tonight at Bryant Hall to take action as a result of the recent primaries it is likely that Mayor Mitchel will be indorsed, notwithstanding the fact that William M. Bennett was the victor in the primaries over the Mayor. The Bennett and the Mitchel forces drew up their battlelines yesterday. It was predicted that the meeting would be one of the most tumultuous in the history of the local Republican organization.

The whole fight is to be made upon the question of party regularity. The Bennett forces will insist that the County Committe cannot do other than formally indorse the regular party candidate, while the Mitchel supporters will make the plea that the present municipal situation far transcends party lines, and that the primary vote was not representative of the true party feeling. The Bennett forces will be led by Albert B. Ottinger, leader of the Seventh District, who has been a Bennett enthusiast, while the Mitchel leaders will be Job E. Hedges, James R. Sheffield, former President of the Republican Club, and others.

That the Mitchel sentiment within the organization is overwhelming was admitted by all sides yesterday, but whether the members of the County Committee will throw regularity overboard is another matter. The indications yesterday were that the Mitchel men would carry their point, and that for the first time in its history the New York organization would refuse to indorse its regularly accredited candidate. It was admitted that much will depend upon the attitude of County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig. Mr. Koenig said yesterday that he considered it his duty to remain "neutral," despite all other considerations. Mr. Koenig, it is expected, will insist that the organization must, in the nominations for the primaries, but that it can be left to the individual members to decide what to do on election day. If the indorsement of Bennett goes through, it is expected that many of the various district organizations will "revolt" and declare for Mitchel.

The whole matter will be considered first at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the county committee during the afternoon. This committee is composed of the district leaders. Should it be shown at this meeting that the majority of the district leaders are in favor of Mitchel's indorsement, it is expected that the fight will be at an end in the meeting tonight. On the other hand, a compromise may be effected whereby the organization will not go on record in favor of either candidate. Much depends upon the action taken by the New York and Kings County Committees of the other boroughs are holding off to see what Chairman Koenig's organization will do. The Queens and the Richmond County committees have already met, but adjourned without taking action. The Kings County committee will meet next Tuesday.

It is expected that at tonight's meeting the Mitchel resolution will be presented by Clarence Schmidlel, leader of the Seventeenth Assembly District, which is known as the "Diamond Back" district, because of the number of wealthy and prominent Republicans living there. Job Hedges, who had already advised that the organization support Mayor Mitchel, is a resident of this district. That there is strong anti-Bennett feeling in the Republican party in New York is shown by the fact that no county chairman in any borough has consulted with Mr. Bennett since the recount of the primary votes showed that he had defeated Mayor Mitchel. It is customary for the local organization of the various boroughs to meet after the selection of candidates and arrange for the campaign. Apparently no official attention has been paid to Mr. Bennett by the Republican leaders in any way.

Americanism the Issue.

Emory R. Buckner, campaign manager of the Fusion Committee, declared yesterday that Americanism was the big issue in the Mayoralty campaign, notwithstanding what Charles F. Murphy said to the contrary. He said that Mr. Murphy was simply patterning after Mayor Thompson of Chicago.

"The best proof in the world that Americanism is a paramount issue in this campaign," said Mr. Buckner, "is because Murphy says it is not. So does Mayor Thompson of Chicago. Murphy doesn't want Americanism to be an issue, because Tammany Hall's representatives in the Board of Elections have given the election advertising, which they control, to newspapers, some of which are pronouncedly pro-German in their sympathies. This shows that Murphy is going fifty-fifty in his public statements. He bids for the patriotic vote in his statements and in the distribution of patronage he seeks to get unpatriotic votes.

"Patriotism must be the paramount issue in the greatest city in the United States at a time when we are engaged in the greatest war in history. Mr. Murphy will not obtain votes by calling a former Democratic candidate for President of the United States a 'hoodlum.' Murphy's statement for patriotism reads like a carbon copy of one of Mayor Thompson's speeches. Thompson would agree with Murphy that patriotism should have no place in a campaign either in New York or in Chicago. If the people of New York do not want in the City Hall the Siamese twin of William Hale Thompson, they should vote for Mitchel. Every man who wants America to take a strong, patriotic stand in this war, now we are in it, wants an American issue in the campaign. No man who believes in Americanism in this war is afraid to have Americanism made an issue. When Murphy says Americanism has no place in this campaign, it shows that they want un-American votes. We don't want un-American votes, therefore we want it to be an issue."

In speaking of the progress of the work of building up a machine to carry on the Mitchel campaign, and the work to be done on election day, Mr. Buckner said that yesterday he had received 100 letters from men who want to be Mitchel minute men, and that only one of the hundred demanded pay for his services.

Mayor Mitchel spent a busy day yesterday in Morris Heights. Socialist candidate for Mayor, refusing Mr. Hillquit's request that he be allowed to hold a mass meeting in his interest in City Hall Park. This is the Mayor's letter:

The City Hall is and has been my official residence for the last four years. Several days ago I was advised that a group of citizens would call upon me there and present certain demands that I become a candidate for re-election to the office of Mayor. Because of the limited space inside City Hall it was necessary that I meet those citizens on the steps of the building, where I made answer to their demands.

If you desire to receive a number of citizens who may call upon you at your official or business residence, and it is necessary for the police to make special traffic arrangements, I shall be very happy to ask the Commissioner to accommodate you in every way in his power.

You are in error in assuming that I have set a precedent in permitting City Hall steps and park to be used for political purposes. It would be most inadvisable to create any such precedent. For the Mayor to receive any and all who come to see him at his office is one thing. For political organizations to make of the steps of City Hall a business is quite another. Therefore, in spite of my high personal regard for you, I am compelled to decline your request for permission to hold a public meeting in the City Hall Park on Saturday, Oct. 6, at 12 o'clock, noon.

The Mayor received a letter yesterday from the Rev. John P. Peters of St. Michael's Church, and Chairman of the Committee of Fourteen, indorsing his candidacy. Mr. Peters wrote:

"It seems to me essential to the welfare and progress of this city that you should serve a second term as Mayor. In view of the vote in the Republican primaries, I understand that you will run only if a strong sentiment is expressed in some way for your re-election. Hence this letter to you to state what my opinion is on the matter."

Ministers for Mitchel.

The Mayor also received a letter from the Conference of Baptist Ministers, telling him that it was voted unanimously to request him to allow his name to be placed in nomination for Mayor for a second term, "in the interest of morality in civic government and of American patriotism." A letter was also received from Albert E. Seibert, a lawyer, of 10 Wall Street, which read:

"I am a lifelong Republican, and voted for you as the anti-Tammany candidate, but without enthusiasm. Your record as Mayor now abundantly entitles you to re-election, and I shall gladly vote for you again. Much, very much more important than your administrative achievements, however, is your uncompromising and aggressive Americanism, and that has made you necessary to America's greatest city."

Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens who is the Democratic candidate for re-election, has threatened to bring a libel suit against Robert W. Higbie, the Fusion and Republican candidate, unless the latter disavows or retracts statements purported to have been made by him, in which he accused the Borough President of malpractice in connection with the renaming of Myrtle Avenue, Ridgewood. Higbie was quoted as stating in a speech before the Republican County Committee on Monday night that the repaving of Metropolitan Avenue was a "rotten job," and that Connolly knew it was to be so when he awarded the contract, but that he did it just the same.

Mr. Connolly wrote a letter to Mr. Higbie yesterday in which he said that Mr. Higbie knew the utterances were a tissue of falsehood, and that unless Mr. Higbie withdrew and retracted in writing that he did not make the statement credited to him in the press, he would have his attorneys at once institute an action for libel, and that he would use as evidence against Mr. Higbie the records of the office of the Borough President, of the Board of Estimate, and of the Controller's office.

MITCHEL ON SEDITIOUS IRISH.

Tells Labor Men of His Contempt for Soapbox Revolutionists.

Mayor Mitchel had a "heart-to-heart" talk yesterday at his headquarters at the Manhattan Hotel with a labor committee representing nearly every sort of union in the city which called to offer their services to help re-elect him. The delegation was presented to the Mayor by Judge Emil E. Fuchs.

In reply the Mayor expressed his opinion of the group of Irishmen in the city who, he said, preached soapbox sedition. The Mayor said:

"I also noticed the other part of your communication, in which you referred to my own ancestry and the misinterpretation which has been put upon that by a few Irishmen who, for purposes of their own, choose to attempt to create a misunderstanding in the community. I do not know, gentlemen, whether any of you are as well acquainted with the developments and the underlying motives in Irish politics in this city as I am. I was pretty active in them at one time, when Devlin, Denman, Redmond, and their colleagues were here to organize in the interest of the United Irish League for the fight in Ireland which resulted in the land and labor legislation, following Mr. Windham's Coercion act and the organization that was undertaken.

"We met then with precisely the same forces that are now preaching soapbox sedition on the sidewalks of New York. They were animated by the same purpose. There is a group of Irishmen in this city—thank God! just a small group—who have profited and promoted themselves in the political life of American communities, preaching Irish matters and practicing American profit. I understand their motives and their mental processes very well and allow me to say that I join in the feeling that every man of Irish blood has, who is worthy of it, that when, after this war, the nations sit down at the council table to consider terms of peace, the voice of the United States may be raised in behalf of a fair measure of autonomous government for Ireland. It won't be as a result of the work of the soapbox sedit ionist. It will be because the majority of the Irishmen in the United States have demonstrated that the great mass of Irish people of this country stand just where they always have in every other war—and that is with the Government and flag of the United States.

"Let me say further, as I said last night and today, that there is no group of people for whom I have a more hearty and hole-hearted contempt than Irishmen who are disloyal to the United States, because it is predicated on the profoundest ingratitude; this country, that has offered the opportunity that England has denied at home, that has offered all that opportunity for wealth and prestige and happiness and comfort and development, that Irishmen should turn on this country in a struggle that involves our nationality, perhaps, certainly the lives of many of our men, surely our democratic institutions—is an ingratitude that is not typical of the Irish race, but is merely typical of that small group.

"I have a mighty profound contempt for these Irishmen who preach the impossible revolution. If there was an opportunity to achieve it they had a fighting chance. It would be well, but for men who preach that there is a chance for Irishmen in Ireland, while they remain smugly comfortable and safe in the United States, holding public offices, sitting on the Supreme Court bench of the State, secure in their own persons and in their own property, and urging these unfortunate people to action that means that they will be shot down by machine guns on the streets of Dublin there can be only contempt."

MAYOR SPEAKS IN QUEENS

Opens Campaign by Recalling What Administration Did for Borough.

Mayor Mitchel started his campaign in Queens last evening at the headquarters in the Queens Plaza Court Building in Long Island City. Among those present were those Republicans, who announced their intention of supporting the Mayor: John W. Crawford, William T. Vale, Eugene N. L. Young, Ira G. Darrin, Charles Lee Andrews, the Rev. H. B. Belcher, the Rev. Lincoln H. Caswell, the Rev. Herman Lilienthal, John A. Rapelyea, David Ogden, Dr. William M. Stone, Charles A. Tipling, and R. F. Woodin. The Mayor said in part:

"The material development of your borough has been supported by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. I remember when the delay occurred in obtaining the material for the construction of these transit lines which pass this building. Groups of citizens from your borough asked me to interest myself in that matter with the Public Service Commission. Though it was no obligation of the Mayor, a concern for the city's interests made it incumbent upon me to go with your committee, as I did to the Public Service Commission, and call into conference the representatives of the Interborough who were delaying this matter, and secure from the Public Service Commission some pressure that finally resulted in the construction, opening, and operation of these lines.

"You have heard of Randall's Island and its Superintendent, Mrs. Dunphy. In the days when that institution was administered by her the little children were permitted to go half clothed, half fed, compelled to lie in the same room with children with contagious diseases, attended by the same nurses; cripples sleeping on the top story of fireTrains without possible escape in case of conflagration, neglected and even beaten.

"Immediately after the removal of that Superintendent I made a trip to Randall's Island. We found the children afraid to talk to the visiting officials because they had learned it was not safe to tell the truth to visiting officials. We put in place of her a competent medical director to make it a real hospital. Today those children get healthful recreation, they are fed, they are clothed, and they are housed comfortably."

Mooney Witness Freed of Perjury.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 3.—A complaint charging that Frank C. Oxman, an Oregon cattle dealer, perjured his testimony against Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of murder as an outgrowth of a preparedness Day bomb explosion, was dismissed today by Superior Judge Franklin A. Griffin.

MITCHEL RENEWS ATTACK ON HEARST

joinder to something that I had to say, stated that I was not a National Democrat, that I had not voted for President Wilson, but had voted for Governor Hughes in the last campaign. Now, Mr. Murphy knows that what he said is false. I am not here to defend my Democracy, but I do not propose to let him get away with that falsehood."

Did Vote for Wilson.

The Mayor had difficulty in proceeding, so many of the delegates interrupted to cheer and shout for him to "Give it to Murphy." The Mayor went on:

"I have the utmost admiration and respect for Judge Hughes, a great American, but in the nine districts supported and voted for President Wilson, and if the conduct of the national campaign in the City of New York had not been in the hands of Mr. Murphy and his friends to the extent that they excluded me from deliberation, the candidacy of President Wilson was presented to the people, would have been in active support of him. The fact is that the only meeting at which they consented to permit me to appear was the meeting in Madison Square Garden, and there they were careful not to permit me to speak for him.

"That gentlemen, is the kind of support that he got from Mr. Murphy and his organization in this city, carefully excluding the support that the President ought to have had in that campaign, with the result that you all know that the vote in this city showed he preached very that Tammany Hall exercised then as it always has whenever it believes its own advantage is at stake. Why, the reason Democrats are leaving the ranks of Tammany, are abandoning Mr. Murphy, and refusing the shame of association with Hearst.

"You will remember that back in 1909 Mr. Murphy was asking the electorate for the election of Mayor McClellan, a clean and upstanding young Democrat against whose record there was nothing material to criticise. But at that time Mr. Hearst, through the columns of his paper, took occasion to express his opinion of Mr. Murphy and of the organization, and to say what he thought would happen if a candidate elected by Murphy and Hearst's friends should be thrown down in the city. On Oct. 30 of that year Mr. Hearst, in a speech at Durland's, declared: 'If you elect Murphy and McClellan for four years more you surrender unconditionally to as brutal a gang of corrupt spoilsmen and public plunderers as ever banded together to rob an outraged and helpless people.'

"The crowd expressed its delight at Mr. Hearst's one-time opinion of Murphy and applauded as the Mayor continued:

"And now, gentlemen, it is perfectly clear to all that can be obtained from the political organization whose leaders have made a secret alliance with open looters of the municipality. That was his opinion of Murphy in 1909—yes, and it was his opinion of Murphy in later campaigns, when he pictured him in the cartoons in prison stripes, and denounced Murphy and those around him in Tammany Hall as looters, grafters, and dishonest men. Gentlemen, his opinion in those days was not far wrong, but today he is associated with Mr. Murphy, and he does not appear to have very little respect for a leader who will so far degrade and prostitute himself as to snap at the hand of any man and then take his hand and act with him in a movement.

"Prudence and sound policy demand a definite settlement of our war aims and our terms upon which we will make peace. The question naturally arises as to why we are at war. The Congress says in the declaration of war that the German Government has committed many hostile acts and has forced us into a state of war, and that, therefore, we recognize and accept a state of war. If this means anything, it means that we have gone to war with Germany because she has sunk American ships, because of American lives, and has ordered her submarines to continue sinking American ships within the blockade zone she has drawn around England, France, and Italy.

Attacks Untermyer Again.

"That is Hearst's opinion of what our place in this war means to us and to the world. I say to you, gentlemen, that this Government guided by a man who has been put forward as the puppet of this man who preaches this doctrine will be inspired by principles and by a doctrine that is not loyal to the United States or to the flag. Another reason, it seems to me, why you men are unwilling to support this ticket is that has been put forward falsely in the name of Democracy is that he who heads it has taken his commission from the lips and hands of Samuel Untermyer.

"I said, down on the steps of the City Hall and I repeat, New York is offered Hylan, the nominee of Murphy and Hearst, the candidate of Untermyer and of his kind, who, out of association with Dumba, von Bernstorff and their like, raise their heads to spit venom at any one who takes a strong stand for America and against Tammany, and I see by the newspapers that Mr. Untermyer says, 'What does he mean by my association with Dumba and Bernstorff? I never met either of them more than three times in my life and never sustained any association or a professional relation to them.

"What of the conferences at his home? The result of one of these conferences with Dumba and with Bernstorff is thus told by The Evening Telegram:

"Mr. Untermyer also took occasion to declare that he was opposed to the United States declaring war, and termed the German submarine zone a battlefield, and said persons cannot go on a battlefield without being hurt. 'I do not think we should send our young men over to Europe to fight with England, which has injured us just as much as Germany has. We have troubles enough of our own with Mexico and Japan without getting into this.'

"It was here that Mr. Mitchel made his reference to Jingoism that tried to stir up trouble between the United States and one of her Allies. The Mayor then recited the fact that Tammany had selected as the five Democratic newspapers for the election advertising this year The New York American, The Evening Journal, The Staats-Zeitung, Die Warheit, and The Morning Telegraph, and continued:

"Now, election advertising means $15,000 to each newspaper, and the four papers clearly German in their sympathies, I mean sympathetic with the German cause and with the German Nation, received $60,000 out of the $75,000 of that advertising. Straws sometimes show how the wind blows.

"Let me say this, and say it with the utmost emphasis lest there be some misapprehension concerning my position on this question. God knows I do not see how there could be, as I have made it clear so often before. The great body of our citizens of German birth and blood are just as loyal to the country and the flag as you and I. The great rank and file of the men of Tammany Hall are just as loyal to the flag as any other citizens. But we are at war with Germany, we are at war with the German Government, we are at war with the German Kaiser and the German military system, and those, whether they be of pure Anglo-Saxon stock of French stock, of German, or any other stock who sympathize with those forces against which we are arrayed in this war, are not loyal to the United States. Let that be clearly understood.

"There apparently have been primary frauds committed," the Mayor continued, "and I would rather never hold a public office than be elected by a ballot that rested upon that was predicated upon one single fraudulent vote. It was for that reason that I instituted the proceedings which has disclosed these frauds and has remedied them, and has handed over to Mr. Bennett the nomination of the nominal nomination, of the Republican Party, to which he is entitled by virtue of that scant vote. And now let me say that I trust that every man responsible for the perpetration of any one of these frauds, or any one of the other frauds that might not yet have come to light on either side, will be apprehended and punished, because if there is one thing in this country that we must keep free from suspicion of dishonesty it is our elections, for upon the honesty of elections rests the whole structure of democracy in this country."

HYLAN'S SILENCE EXPLAINED

Judge Refuses to Talk to Reporters of Opposing Papers.

Judge John J. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, will open his campaign tonight in Brooklyn, speaking at Prospect Hall. On Oct. 9 he will attend a dinner at the Hotel Biltmore, to be given the Democratic candidates by the Real Estate Men's League for Hylan.

Judge Hylan continued his silent spell yesterday, and refused to see reporters. It was said at the headquarters of the Democratic Fusion Committee, 50 East Forty-second Street, that the Tammany Mayoralty candidate had adopted a policy of silence so far as talking to reporters from newspapers opposed to him would follow throughout the campaign.

In explaining the candidate's position, it was said that Judge Hylan took the ground that he did not intend to answer questions put to him by reporters of hostile newspapers. All that the candidate would have to say, it was stated, would be spoken from the platform.

Judge Hylan told the members of the Queens County Democratic Committee at its meeting in the Democratic Club in Long Island City last night that he did not wish to make a speech until he opened his campaign tonight. "Then I will have plenty to say," he added.

Richard S. Newcombe and Edward Lasansky, candidates for Supreme Court Justice, spoke, and Maurice E. Connelly, Borough President of Queens, introduced Judge Hylan, who said that he would open his campaign tonight.

ALAN MUDIE KILLED IN WAR.

Word was received in this city yesterday of the death in battle of Alan Mudie, an English actor, who was also well known in this country. Mudie's last appearance on the stage was in "The White Feather," early in 1915, and in the Spring of that year he returned to England to enlist. He received a commission as a second lieutenant and later won his promotion to a Captaincy. The news of his death in Flanders was received here by his cousin, Leonard Mudie, now appearing in "Out There."

Mudie was brought to this country by Charles Frohman for "The Arcadians," and later appeared in "The Girl from Montmartre," "The Sunshine Girl," and "The Debutante."

SEABURY COMES OUT FOR MAYOR MITCHEL

Former Democratic Candidate for Governor Attacks Murphy and Hearst.

Samuel Seabury, who resigned from the Court of Appeals last year to run as the Democratic candidate for Governor, came out yesterday in support of Mayor Mitchel. In a letter to Martin W. Littleton, Chairman of the City Democracy, Mr. Seabury wrote that not only as a Democrat but as an American citizen it gave him great pleasure to support the Mayor. He added that he took this action, first, because he considered it a patriotic duty; second, because the best interests of the city required it, and third, because his election will be a good thing for the Democratic Party in the State and nation. In his letter Mr. Seabury bitterly attacked Charles F. Murphy, and said William R. Hearst and Tammany co-operated last year to work against President Wilson and himself. In his letter announcing his support of the Mayor, Mr. Seabury said:

"It is not just to charge that all the supporters of Tammany are pro-German in their sympathies, and I make no such charge, but I do assert that the Tammany candidate in receiving the united support of pro-German sympathizers I refuse to support any candidate whose position on this subject is in doubt. A victory for Tammany will be construed as an indorsement of Hearst and all the anti-democratic pro-German propaganda for which he stands. A victory for Mayor Mitchel will carry to the world the message that the great City of New York stands loyal and true to the American cause.

"I shall support Mayor Mitchel because the election will destroy the control which Tammany now has of the Democratic party in this State. The Tammany machine and Hearst cooperated last year to work against President Wilson and the Democratic candidate for Governor. This year they seek to regain control of the party by accomplishing the defeat of Mayor Mitchel.

"The Tammany ticket is largely a Hearst ticket. By virtue of what right does Hearst assume to dictate Democratic candidates? For the last six years he has consistently and persistently blackguarded the President of the United States. Today he stands as the most pronounced advocate of the pro-German cause who is still at large in the United States. I esteem him false not only to his own country, but to every ideal of decency."

INDICT 22 ON 2 COUNTS IN PRIMARY INQUIRY

Election Inspectors Charged With Filing False Canvass of Ballots and Neglect of Duty.

Acting on evidence presented by Assistant District Attorneys Nelson Olcott and James E. Wallace, the Grand Jury which has been investigating alleged frauds in the city primaries returned twenty-two indictments of two counts each yesterday against as many inspectors of election districts of four uptown Assembly districts. The first count charged the defendants with violating section 700 of the Penal Code, which makes it a felony punishable by ten years' imprisonment to file with the Board of Elections a false canvass of ballots. The second count charged willful neglect of duty, punishable by an indeterminate sentence.

These indictments, in the opinion of District Attorney Swann, were the forerunner of four or five hundred more which he predicted would be found within a few weeks.

Four of the defendants surrendered at the District Attorney's office yesterday afternoon. Nearly all of the others notified Assistant District Attorney Olcott through counsel or personally by telephone that they would appear today. The four men who appeared, all of whom were released in $2,500 bail, were Frederick Tillman, Democrat, 427 East Seventy-fifth Street; Thomas F. Hayes, Democrat, 421 East Seventy-fifth Street; Arthur Freilich, Republican, 400 East Seventy-fifth Street, and William Klapper, Republican, 351 East Seventy-second Street. These men were inspectors in the Thirty-first Election District of the Fourteenth Assembly District.

The fact that Democrats were indicted in a Republican muddle is explained by the fact that under the election law the canvass of the votes of all parties in a primary election is made by a bipartisan board of four men, all of whom sign the tally sheets. It is understood that eleven of the men indicted yesterday are Democrats and the others Republicans.

Assistant District Attorneys Wallace and Olcott said that tomorrow they would present data to the Grand Jury upon which they believed that body would return at least one hundred indictments.

ASSAILS MITCHEL BEFORE THE HOUSE

Representative Hulbert Leads Members from National Issues to Discuss Campaign.

CHARGES FRAUD AT PRIMARY

Denounces "Secret Sponsors" of the Mayor, Who, He Says, Is Displaying Selfishness.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—National matters were laid aside in the House for a half hour this afternoon when Representative Hulbert of New York, Democrat, denounced what he termed "the secret sponsors" of Mayor Mitchel. He charged an attempt to steal the New York Republican Mayoralty nomination, a situation which, he said, "developed the most outrageous primary frauds which have distinguished an American community," and which "exposed the desperate plight of the clique which has fattened on the people of New York for the last four years."

Although several members attempted to stop Mr. Hulbert, on the ground that he was not following a national subject, on which he had obtained permission to address the House, Representative Hulbert maintained that the New York political situation was a national matter. He was upheld, and entered into a long explanation leading up to the recount of votes in New York City.

During this explanation, Representative Sloan, a Republican from Nebraska, said:

"I am interested in the politics of the village of New York. Tell me. Is Mayor Mitchel a Republican?"

"He is supposed to be an enrolled Democrat," answered Representative Hulbert.

"Does not the gentleman think he is making a mistake to make this speech on the floor of the House?" asked Representative Garrett of Tennessee.

Says Mayor Was Repudiated.

Representative Hulbert answered:

"The charge has been made by the present Mayor of New York City; it has been made by the man whom the gentlemen, and I, and every other loyal Democrat, supported in 1904 for the Presidency, and is being argued by every backer of Mayor Mitchel in this campaign, that any man who votes against Mr. Mitchel in this election is a traitor to his country; and that if the City of New York shall repudiate Mayor Mitchel upon Nov. 6, as the members of the party to whom he appealed for nomination repudiated him upon primary day, that New York will go down in history as a traitor city. I do not propose to let that statement go unchallenged.

"I do not propose to permit those who are associated with Mr. Mitchel, including those who tried to steal the primary, having failed in their endeavor, to wrap him in the protecting folds of the American flag and parade him as the greatest American in New York, and to charge me with being disloyal, if I undertake my right of franchise and cast my vote for the man who I believe will be the best candidate for Mayor, and who is not Mr. Purroy Mitchel."

Continuing, Representative Hulbert said:

"In his campaign for renomination, the Fusionist propagandists selected as their motto, 'The best administration the City of New York ever had.' The result of the primary was a distinct repudiation of that claim, and had the Mayor sought to contest the designation of Judge John F. Hylan in the Democratic primaries, he would have been completely annihilated.

Ridicules City Hall Meeting.

"But exclusive of those who have been humbugged, Mayor Mitchel's partisans of today may be put in two classes—those who are making money out of his personal and official friendship and those who hate to admit that they have been trumpeters for the cleverest hypocrite of modern times. So with that cleverness which has characterized the ingenuity of the Mayor's personal friends throughout his administration, a meeting was arranged for in the City Hall Plaza, where any street faker could attract a crowd of substantial numbers at the lunch hour. With Colonel Roosevelt and former Justice Hughes and brass bands as an added attraction, 10,000 people, we are informed, many without a vote in New York, tendered him the popular nomination upon a platform dedicated to 'a strong and active standing with America and against Germany.'

"Realizing that his repudiation at the primaries would be ratified at the general election upon issues arising out of his administration of the office to which he seeks re-election, he has wrapped about him the protecting folds of the American flag, seeks to force the administration into the uncompromising position that it must accept and indorse his candidacy or stand repudiated in the event of his defeat, and apparently believes he can establish a superior, if not exclusive, claim as a patriot and a martyr to duty and consign every one in disagreement with him into the oblivion of disloyalty.

Fears Socialist Victory.

"If petitions are filed independently placing John Purroy Mitchel in the field after his repudiation in the primary, there will be four major candidates, the fourth one being Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate. If Mr. Hillquit should poll 25 per cent. of the total vote cast, he may be elected. Mr. Mitchel's determination to become a candidate will again divide all of the ballots that will be cast against Hillquit, and it seems to me selfishness rather than patriotism which the Mayor typifies by his active participation in this campaign.

"Mayor Mitchel, the would-be beneficiary of a stolen primary election, posing as a patriotic martyr in a last desperate attempt to make political capital for himself, is a spectacle that affronts the intelligence and insults the ideals of every high thinking American citizen."

Mr. Hulbert referred to his service upon the Rivers and Harbors Committee and his work in developing the Port of New York, and said that he never had any assistance from the Mayor in legislation affecting the welfare of the city. He said the Mayor had been trying to accommodate the New York Central Railroad along the Hudson River.

REINSTATES ARMY OFFICER.

President Pardons Lieut. Brigham, Who Posed as a Bachelor.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Wilson has remitted the sentence of dismissal from the army imposed on Second Lieutenant Arthur Brigham, Jr., Sixth Field Artillery, by a general court-martial following conviction of having represented himself as a bachelor when he was, in fact, married.

The officer was a corporal in his regiment, and when making application for examination for appointment as a Second Lieutenant was found guilty of having described himself as single on the official forms. No explanation accompanied the President's order remitting sentence.

ITALY HOPES TO SEE PRESIDENT IN ROME

Hope Expressed That Mr. Wilson Will "Consecrate Allies' Victory" at the Capitol.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 2.—"President Wilson's messages represent a new charter of liberty for democracies and a new declaration of independence for humanity," said Premier Boselli in a toast at a banquet given to the Commission of the American Red Cross by the Italo-American Union, which was followed later by a farewell dinner given in their honor by Gorham Stevens, Director of Fine Arts at the American Academy here.

Senator Maggiorino Ferraris, President of the Italo-American Union, said: "I hope that President Wilson will be able to consecrate at the Capitol of Rome the victory of the Allies and the triumph of the society of nations. Italy wishes as soon as possible to admire on the battlefield and in the Mediterranean your gallant army and brave fleet, fighting side by side with our soldiers and sailors for the same aims and same ideals."

Ambassador Page said: "Between America and Italy exist many more ties as unseen as those currents which the genius of an Italian discovered, which though impalpable carry a message from the heart of Italy to the heart of America."

This allusion to Marconi, who was present, caused great enthusiasm.

ITALIANS DESTROY ATTACKING AUSTRIANS

Enemy Onslaughts on Gabriele Die Away in Fire of Defenders' Batteries.

ROME, Oct. 3.—The official report from headquarters today says:

At dawn yesterday the enemy attacked our positions on the western slopes of Monte San Gabriele. The attack failed completely. The assaulting company was destroyed, and a battalion following it was caught in turn under our batteries and dispersed. One officer and seventy-nine men remained in our hands.

On other parts of the Bainsizza Plateau front we captured in successful patrol actions some additional prisoners and three machine guns.

Activity in the air was very lively during the day. One of our squadrons bombarded the railway station of Grahovo. Last night there were two successful raids. Military objectives at Pola were bombarded with four tons of projectiles and badly damaged. Two enemy machines were brought down by our airmen. They fell north of Auzza and near Poldmeletz.

SENATE TO POSTPONE ACTION ON LA FOLLETTE

Committee Decides to Shelve Question of Expelling Him and Others Accused.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The accusations of disloyalty against Senators La Follette, Stone, and Gronna are to be left over by the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections until the next session, according to a tentative agreement reached today.

No member of the committee favors making any report to the Senate either urging action against the three Senators or asking for a vote to dispose of the charges. The committee stands solidly against bringing before the Senate the accusations that have poured in during the last week urging the expulsion of the three Senators.

If any move is to be made against the trio it will have to be an individual matter taken up by some Senator. The committee has practically decided not to act. The sentiment of the Senate is strongly against decisive action now.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 3.—Resolutions directed at Senator La Follette, denouncing "all acts and utterances of a disloyal nature," were adopted by the Indiana State Council of Defense at its regular meeting today.

SANTA FE, N. M., Oct. 3.—Charles Springer, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the New Mexico State Council of Defense, today telegraphed Senator A. B. Fall urging him to introduce a resolution to expel Senator La Follette.

WAUSAU, Wis., Oct. 3.—Senator La Follette's expulsion from the Senate for "treasonable and seditious utterances and disloyalty to our Government" was asked in an appeal to the Senate sent in telegrams last night by W. B. Hennemann, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican State Central Committee.

DE PINNA

It is not enough that boys' and girls' shoes should be sightly,—they should above all else be made over lasts that are constructed to give comfort and allow for the growth of the child's foot.

Such shoes are "Anniped" Shoes, an exclusive De Pinna specialty.

The war has in no way affected the quality standard of "Anniped" shoes. They are today of the same high quality that they were before the outbreak of the war.

KAISER AND PEOPLE HONOR HINDENBURG

All Germany Pays Homage to the Field Marshal on His Seventieth Birthday.

AVIATORS JOIN TRIBUTE

Drop Thousands of Reminders That Contributions to the War Loan Are the Best Gift to the Hero.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 3.—The celebration of the birthday of Field Marshal von Hindenburg at German Main Headquarters yesterday began with a visit from Emperor William, who presented the Field Marshal with a marble bust of the "All Highest War Lord." The route from Hindenburg's house to Main Headquarters was lined with children, who strewed flowers in his path, while airmen dropped flowers and laurel wreaths.

At headquarters the Field Marshal was received by General von Ludendorff and the other officers of the General Staff. General Ludendorff greeted his chief as "the personification of the glorious development of the Prussian-German Fatherland." Hindenburg later reviewed veteran units and other soldiers in front of the headquarters and, in speaking of them, said:

"It is a special pleasure to me to know myself at one with the German people in their will to victory and their confidence in victory."

The Field Marshal praised the army and those who remained at home. He called for cheers for the Emperor, who invited to dinner all who had called to offer birthday congratulations.

In a speech the Emperor praised the Field Marshal as "the hero of the German people, to whom it is granted to accomplish deeds of world and historical greatness." The Emperor then thanked Field Marshal von Hindenburg in the name of the army and the people, and continued:

"Future centuries will weave legends around the beloved and honored personality of the Field Marshal. May God preserve him for further deeds until the victorious end of the war, out of which a strong, healthy and respected Germany will arise."

BERLIN, Tuesday, Oct. 2, (via London.)—Berlin dedicated today to the celebration of the seventieth birthday of Field Marshal von Hindenburg. Perhaps none of the previous war holidays has seen such a display of flags and bunting. Over the throngs in the streets flew a score of Albatross airplanes, whose aerial performances included the throwing down of thousands of printed reminders that cash contributions to the nation's war chest would be the best birthday gift to von Hindenburg.

The Berlin press dilates at length on von Hindenburg's influence on the conduct of the war, from the time he issued forth from oblivion to repulse the Russian invasion of East Prussia, until he was appointed chief of the German forces. His subsequent achievements also are described at length.

Up to last night the Field Marshal had been elected honorary citizen of thirty-six cities.

At Great Headquarters the day was marked by simple ceremonies, which did not halt the stern routine of war. The Field Marshal's wife and daughter went to headquarters from Hanover. Chancellor Michaelis also was a visitor.

The Bishop of Treves conducted special field services. Probably the most conspicuous part of the improvised shrine was the red silken altar cloth, one of many gifts to von Hindenburg. It is ornamented with an Iron Cross, from which myriads of rays radiate. Beneath the cross are embroidered these words of the prophet Isaiah:

"They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

GERMANS SEEK RELIEF IN STRIFE OVER PEACE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Monday, Oct. 1, (via London, Oct. 3.)—In admiration of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, whose seventieth birthday is made the occasion of a grand national rally this week, all Germans from the feudal Junkers down to the proletarians meet on common ground. For a few days, therefore, it is hoped that the feud carried on by the Pan Germans against the Peace Germans may subside to normal conditions.

The whole German people are divided today, the Pan Germans demanding a continuation of the war until the enemy is compelled to accept what is called a "German peace," meaning the annexation of occupied territory and compensation for war expenses. The peace Germans are willing to continue the war only until the enemy is ready to come to terms on the basis of the Reichstag peace resolutions, which, they say, is not far from that of the Pope's message. Thus, though the Pan Germans and Peace Germans are determined to fight to the bitter end, they cannot possibly agree on what the end shall be, and consequently they cannot be satisfied with any peace note by the Chancellor.

With great relief all the Berlin papers which still place patriotism above party interests hail Hindenburg's birthday, hoping that it will help to unite Germans in a determination to follow the Field Marshal to the end of the war and to dismiss all strife as to how that end shall be exploited until it is victoriously achieved. Any competent observer cannot help realizing that neither the Entente's verbal artillery nor its terrific military attacks have convinced the Germans that they can be beaten, nor does it seem probable that they will be starved into submission, if for no other reason, because they have become used to privations of all kinds in these long years of war and will certainly hold out as long as Hindenburg leads the German armies successfully.

The rejection by the Entente of the Reichstag peace resolution had aroused some of the most peacefully inclined Germans to bitter resentment but, it happens, the Pan German organs and parties immediately turned the movement into a campaign against the parliamentarization of the German Government and the large democratic movement among the people. "Parliamentarisation is nothing but the appeal by the enemy to the Socialist and democratic German elements, and an attempt to undermine our strength and thus defeat Germany by Germans," was the cry of the Pan Germans. This spirit soon seemed to pervade the ranks of the newly founded Fatherland Party to such an extent that both Pan Germans and Peace Germans and their organs, in the excitement over the bitter contest for and against democratization have overlooked almost entirely the purpose for which the party had been nominally formed.

Recently the German Government's answer to the Pope's note somewhat assuaged the antagonism between the Pan Germans and the Peace Germans, both parties claiming to be satisfied. This attitude on the part of the Pan Germans seems to have been assumed only to permit a pause for gathering strength.

Thus, when all Germany seemed again caught by the spirit of August, 1914, junkerdom, with its characteristic tactlessness, began its agitation against all German elements that did not share its own view of world affairs in general and Germany's affairs in particular. The foundation of the Fatherland Party has had the effect of increasing the antagonism between junkerism and socialism.

SWEDISH KING CALLS LEADERS OF PARTIES

SOCIALISTS DISSATISFIED

Branting Unwilling to Compromise —Liberal Ministry Predicted if Attempt Fails.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 3.—After the resignation of the Cabinet yesterday King Gustave summoned the leaders of the chief parties in the Riksdag, to urge them to use their best efforts to form a coalition Cabinet. Those summoned by the King were Admiral Lindman and M. Trygger, of the Right; M. Eden and M. Kvarnzellus, of the Liberals, and Hjalmar Branting and M. Thereon, of the Socialists.

The King told the leaders that in his opinion it would be most expedient to form a Cabinet representing the various parties, which would maintain the neutral policy of the country since the beginning of the war, safeguard the interests of the nation, and exercise a calming influence on the people during the present crisis. Saying that Sweden's difficulties were increasing daily, the King asserted that the greatest prudence would be necessary to maintain the position adopted. He appealed to the patriotism of the leaders, asking them not to let personal opinions and party platforms stand in the way of a successful solution of the question, but rather to have in view solely the welfare of the country.

The formation of a coalition Government is supported strongly by Conservatives. Many Liberals are not averse to this solution, but the Socialists generally are less disposed to co-operate with the Conservatives. They oppose the idea of compromise on various issues, such as woman suffrage and plural voting in municipalities, and are inclined to insist on summary acceptance and disposal of these questions along the lines indicated by the voters at the general election.

In the event that the formation of a three-party coalition is impossible, the construction of a cabinet doubtless will be intrusted to Professor Nils Eden, the Liberal leader.

Those under discussion for the foreign portfolio include Count Abrensvard, who was Foreign Minister in the cabinet of Premier Staff, was at one time at Washington and three years at Berne, and D. K. Bergstroem, Consul General at Montreal. Branting, the Socialist leader, probably will have the finance or interior portfolio.

GERMAN ASSAULTS VAIN ON WEST FRONT

Efforts to Drive the British from New Positions East of Ypres Prove Futile.

FEW PASS THE BARRAGE

Both Sides Are Engaged in Heavy Gunfire Northeast of Verdun.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Continued repulse of German attacks along the west front are chronicled in today's official bulletins of the British and French War Offices.

East of Ypres the German activity was especially violent. Following heavy gunfire, the foe advanced on the British lines, but British fire halted them, except north of the Menin road, where a few Germans passed the barrage. These were beaten back by the British infantry.

Heavy artillery fire is prevalent at Verdun, especially northeast of the city.

The night report of the British War Office says:

Shortly before dawn the enemy heavily bombarded our positions between Tower Hamlets and Polygon Wood. Afterward his infantry attempted to advance. Our artillery opened vigorously, and on the greater part of the front the assault broke down before reaching our lines.

In the area immediately north of the Menin road, where a few of the enemy succeeded in passing through the barrage, they were completely repulsed by our infantry. Our positions are intact.

There has been great artillery activity on both sides during the day east of Ypres.

Yesterday the weather was again misty, despite which much successful observation work was done and many photographs were taken, some showing damage by our bomb raids. Eight tons of bombs were dropped on various targets, and hits were observed on three airdromes in the Courtral area, near Cambrai. Huts and dumps near Douai and sidings at Roulers were also successfully attacked.

The enemy generally avoided our fighting airplanes, but attacked at long distance the bombing machines vigorously when far east of the line. Six German machines were brought down in the air fighting, and four others were driven down out of control. Six of our machines are missing.

The official communication issued by the French War Office tonight reads:

The day was relatively calm. It was marked only by artillery actions north of the Aisne and on both banks of the Meuse.

The day report from Paris says:

East of Rheims our artillery effectively shelled the German batteries and broke up preparations in the enemy trenches for an attack. West of Navarin French detachments penetrated the enemy lines and blew up several shelters, bringing back prisoners.

On the Verdun front the night was marked by violent artillery fighting on both banks of the Meuse, particularly in the region north of Hill 344, where spirited patrol engagements also occurred.

An incursion into the enemy lines in the region of the Casque gave us good results.

Everywhere else the night was quiet.

BERLIN, Oct. 3, (via London.)—German troops yesterday captured a section of French trenches 1,200 yards wide on the northern slope of Hill 344 to the east of the River Meuse, in the Verdun region, according to the General Staff. The official report says:

Army of Crown Prince Rupprecht—On the coast (Belgian) and between Langemarck and Zandvoorde yesterday the artillery duel again increased to great intensity. On the central sectors of the battlefront there occurred most intense outbursts of firing. In the morning the enemy again vainly made strenuous efforts to recapture the ground conquered by us the previous day north of the Menin-Ypres road. All the attacks were sanguinarily repulsed.

Army of the German Crown Prince—On both sides of the Laon-Soissons road the artilleries again have developed lively activity. On the Aisne, near Rheims, and in Champagne reconnoitring thrusts resulted in some prisoners and booty being brought in.

On the eastern bank of the Meuse early yesterday morning our Wurttemberg troops succeeded in taking by storm French trenches over a width of 1,200 meters on the northern slope of Hill 344, east of Samogneux. Throughout the day the French made eight counterattacks, with the object of forcing us to leave the conquered territory. At night also a stubborn enemy attack was launched.

During the bitter fighting the French on each occasion were driven back. More than 150 prisoners from two French divisions remained in our hands, while the sanguinary losses of the enemy increased with every vain storming attack. The artillery engagement spread from the fighting area to adjacent portions of the front and continued intense throughout the whole day and night.

LONG RANGE GUNS ARE BUSY.

Germans Drop Shells Far Behind British Lines Before Ypres.

BY PHILIP GIBBS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENT HEADQUARTRS IN BELGIUM, Oct. 3.—The artillery battle goes on across the country around Ypres. It is fierce and far-flung on both sides, and the Germans are trying to make things as bad as possible in our back areas.

The "high velocities" which come whanging into places twelve miles or more back from our line, made any walk to the battlefields unpleasant and perilous. Apprehension, which is the start of fear, begins to creep beneath one's skin if one happens to have been born with nerves.

One sees, and it is always astounding to see, how little difference this hostile shelling makes in the way in which our men carry on the war. This morning, for instance, it was pretty hot in the way of shellfire and the enemy was scattering his beastliness about the fields, but it made no difference at all in the general demeanor of our swarming soldiers—ants, though there was all the difference in life to the individual whose luck happened to be out. Our men went on with their jobs as they always go on with them unless they are stopped for a few moments by a nasty mess in their way which has to be cleared up before they can pass.

As for the weather, it is very uncertain. Last night rain fell and the ground in Crateriand is again filled with many pools and ponds. Weather makes all the difference in the world to the work of the soldier-ants on that great muck heap, the battlefield.

NEW AIR RAID ON ZEEBRUGGE.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Continuation of the bombing operations by British naval airplanes over German-held territory is reported in an official statement issued today by the Admiralty. It reads:

"On Monday night naval aircraft dropped many bombs on the lock gates at Zeebrugge. On Tuesday a quantity of explosives was dropped on sheds and machines at the St. Denis-Westrem Airdrome.

"During the usual patrols two enemy aircraft were shot down, out of control. All of our machines returned safely.

Air Raids in Baltic.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 3.—German air attacks on Russian Baltic Sea bases and attacks in reprisal by Russian aircraft on enemy camps in Courland are reported in today's official statement from the War Office. No important land operations have occurred.

RUSSIAN CONGRESS REJECTS COALITION

Vote Against Kerensky's Plan 813 to 180—Railroad Strike Called for Today.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 3. — The Democratic Congress, by a vote of 766 against 688 today declared in favor of a coalition Government. It then voted that the following amendment be made to the resolution:

First—Against inclusion in the coalition of the bourgeois element, particularly of persons concerned in the General Kornilloff revolutionary movement.

Second—Against coalition with the entire Constitutional Democratic Party.

The situation created by the contradictory movements led to a lively discussion, and eventually, by a vote of 813 to 180, the conference announced itself opposed even to the idea of coalition.

The demand for improved economic conditions recently made by the employes of the principal Russian railways not having been satisfied, the men today announced their intention of stopping work tomorrow.

It was officially announced today by the Provisional Government that the revolt which broke out on Saturday at Tambov, 300 miles southeast of Moscow, had been suppressed.

ALL THE ALLIES IN EMBARGO MOVE

not be countenanced. It was determined that it was far better for Great Britain and the other allies such as France and Italy to break trade agreements and suffer the consequences of interrupted trade with the neutral nations than for these agreements to continue on the present basis.

Wilson Position Firmly Upheld.

These problems have been the subject of international parley based on the refusal of the United States to permit any of its fodder, foods, and other materials to reach the northern neutrals either directly or as a result of trade agreements made by Great Britain or any of the other allied nations. The officials in charge of the embargo situation here were firm in the position that President Wilson's statement, made when he issued the first embargo proclamation that more of America's products should contribute either directly or indirectly to the cause of Germany should be carried out in fact as well as in theory.

Conditions in Sweden and Holland have been the subject of the closest investigation. Reports obtained, it is said, have shown that these countries, partly in order to meet the demands of Germany, which had coal and other materials they needed, and partly to enrich certain interests by reason of the high prices obtained, had drained their own resources to a dangerous extent. Where some of the northern neutrals might have hoarded up much needed fats, food, and fodder, they have given them to Germany, it is reported, in huge shipments. It has also been said that coal shipments to Sweden and Holland in many instances have been permitted by Germany only on the agreement that these shipments should be used in the operation of mines and manufactories, the output of which Germany should obtain. Germany, it is said, proved a stern master in carrying on such negotiations.

While such conditions existed the United States, it is understood, would not consent to a single shipment leaving American ports which might contribute to German welfare. Referring to the position which has been taken in regard to the embargo measures, a high official is quoted as saying:

"The United States is going as far as it can to prevent any supplies purchased in America from reaching this country's enemy. It would be absurd for the United States to expend billions of dollars and thousands of lives and then to permit our commodities to be used by the people who are doing the killing."

Swedish Aid to Germany.

As a result of the investigations made, it is understood, large interests in Sweden, and many of those in positions of the greatest influence, are frankly card indexed as pro-German, willing to make heavy shipments of engines, ammunition, ores, foods, and other vital commodities to Germany and receiving in return huge profits. Such a course has left large numbers of the population facing a critical situation concerning the food supply, while certain classes were getting rich on the trade.

At least one official who has watched this traffic going on, not without emotion, has held to the position that the United States should, if a rationing system were finally adopted to aid those actually suffering for want of food, refuse at the same time to supply this scanty ration to feed men operating mines and manufactories which supplied Germany with ores, explosives, and ammunition. These miners and factory workers, in order to keep the industries going under a full head of steam, need food supplies in greater quantity than the other portion of the population. It is extremely doubtful that the United States will listen to a future policy that will in any way contribute to their upkeep.

It is pretty generally admitted that these countries cannot continue the traffic with Germany on the present scale if the United States, Great Britain and the other allies enforce rigid embargo policies, and it is now reasonably definite that such a course will be followed. Interesting information in this connection came into the hands of officials today showing that Holland would be unable to keep the pace out of her own crops. A cablegram from the American Legation at The Hague read:

"Taking figure 100 as excellent, and 67 as average crop, Minister of Agriculture on September 15 rates this year's wheat harvest 57; rye, 65; barley, 65; oats, 56; meadow grass, 70."

Holland, it was said, would be obliged to consume practically all of these harvests for the upkeep of her own population.

Britain Clears the Way.

The action of Great Britain has made possible a concerted drive to starve Germany, which obviously could not be arranged on a satisfactory basis while Britain recognized trade compacts with northern neutrals of Europe which this country refused to accept as equitable.

British diplomats here were reticent about discussing the embargo, but it was intimated that the move was simply putting into effect in Great Britain the policy which has already been adopted in the United States. Great Britain will continue to use the licensing system for exports to certain directions, as it is employed here, but it is understood that the British policy will be practically the same as that adopted by the United States where neutral countries contiguous to Germany are concerned.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The view is taken here that the neutrals cannot exist without British and American supplies. Within the next two or three months all of them are expected to declare flat embargoes in the export of their commodities to all countries. This will hit England as well as Germany, but the British, who can draw on the United States, are in a position to do without neutral goods, while Germany, cut off from the rest of the world, cannot exist, officials here say, if neutral shipments cease.

EXCHANGE RATES SOAR.

Scandinavian and Dutch Quotations Stiffened by Embargo.

The absolute embargo put into effect by Great Britain against the neutral countries adjacent to Germany yesterday brought about a stiffening in Scandinavian and Dutch exchange rates in the local market. Brokers reported that exchange on Stockholm was reduced to a minimum, and that many merchants who put in bids for remittances could get only a part of their orders filled, and this, too, at a stiff price. The Stockholm quotation was as high as 37 at one time in the early afternoon, which meant that the kroner, whose normal value in this market is 26.70 cents, was worth 37 cents. At this level Stockholm exchange displayed a premium of more than 42 per cent. above the normal level.

Copenhagen rates ranged from 31 to 31.50, showing a premium at the top of nearly 18 per cent. The quotation on Amsterdam was firm, at 42.12½ for check transfers, showing a premium of about 5 per cent.

The apparent reason why Scandinavian rates rose sharply was that importers, believing that exports from England and the United States would be firmly withheld from the neutrals of Northern Europe, hurried to secure exchange before it became too scarce. If purchases of goods are denied here for Norway, Sweden, and Denmark, exchange will not be created, and American merchants with bills to meet in those countries will have to find another medium for settling them. As gold cannot be sent in payment for imports, the merchant here faces the possible necessity of buying Scandinavian exchange in London, a procedure which would entail considerable more expense than if it were secured here.

Bankers handling Scandinavian exchange received many telephone inquiries from local importers for quotations and opinions as to the future of the market. The general reply was that exchange was in limited supply, and the promise held forth by embargo plans was that the scarcity appeared likely to continue.

BRITISH ORDER EXPLAINED.

Exports to Northern Neutrals Put Under Control by Licenses.

LONDON, Oct. 3. — The Associated Press learns that the proclamation prohibiting exports to Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Holland involves no new policy, but is only an extension of the principle heretofore followed by the Allies. Its object is, briefly, to require licenses for the exportation of goods of all kinds, with the two exceptions mentioned, (printed matter and personal effects.)

Up to the present time certain classes of unimportant commodities have been exempt as regards licenses, but the new order will enable the authorities to control the whole export trade and direct its flow. In order to secure uniformity of practice it has been decided to treat all goods alike.

DUTCH PREPARE TO PROTEST.

Resent Suggestion That Holland Is a Dump for Contraband.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 3.—Reported statements by members of the American Cabinet that they had come to the conclusion that Holland was the dumping ground for contraband bound for Germany were made the subject of a question in the Second Chamber yesterday by Deputy van Leeuwen.

Dr. John Loudon, the Foreign Minister, replied that instructions had been sent to Minister van Rappard at Washington to make a protest against such unfounded conclusions of the American officials if they were reported correctly.

WARNS CANADIAN EXPORTERS.

Belgian Consul Says Rubber Is Sent to Germany Via Holland.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3. — Operation in Canada of German commercial agents who are sending rubber to Germany by way of Holland was referred to today by Clarence I. de Sola, Belgian Consul, in a warning he issued through the local press to Canadian shippers.

Mr. de Sola said that German agents had been playing a clever game, misleading Canadian exporters, especially exporters of rubber. The plot had been unearthed, he said.

Mr. de Sola declined to be more specific in his statements, but reminded shippers that they were laying themselves open to heavy penalties, even though they were innocent, as being party to a scheme to send war material to the enemy.

GERMAN SCARCITY WORSE.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Tuesday, Oct. 2, (via London, Oct. 3.)—All the prisoners of good education now speak of the growing scarcity of war materials, particularly of articles such as rubber, cotton, and copper, which can neither be produced at home nor obtained from Germany's European neighbors.

One of the prisoners taken in yesterday's outpost affair said that while Germany could not be conquered in the field, she would be forced to make peace because of her failure to obtain supplies.

GERMANS OMIT TABLE LINEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Tuesday, Oct. 2, (via London, Oct. 3.)—Table linen disappeared from nearly all restaurants in Germany today in accordance with an order issued some time ago. Excepted from this rule are only a few first-class hotels, which in their dining rooms have tables that would have to be replaced by new ones to comply with the rule, which would mean a comparatively large expenditure of labor needed elsewhere for the production of war material and the necessities of life.

The proprietors of the largest Berlin eating houses say that food can be served without tablecloths as cleanly as with them, and that the people will soon get used to the innovation.

Kempinski, on Leipzigerstrasse, has covered his thousand or more tables with oilcloth. One restaurant in Unter den Linden has pasted frieze over the tableboards, while the largest eating house in Germany, the Rheingold, has covered its tables with colored paper cloth.

EXPECTS EXPORT LICENSES.

Danish Consul Says Ban Will Not Stop All Trade to Neutrals.

The absolute embargo placed by Great Britain on the exportation of products to Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and the Netherlands was not received with any great degree of surprise yesterday by consular officials of the countries affected who are stationed in this city. The views of these officials may be summed up in the words of George Bech, Consul General from Denmark, who said that an embargo on virtually 90 per cent. of British products existed prior to the promulgation of the new order.

"The order merely extends the embargo to include the remaining 10 per cent. of goods," he said. "Hitherto, a merchant in Great Britain who wished to ship goods to the Scandinavian countries or to Holland had to examine a long list giving the description of all the articles banned. It took some time to find whether his goods were on the banned list.

"The merchants now know that all goods are embargoed, but that does not mean that no goods are being sent to the northern European neutrals. The goods are shipped, of course, only after the usual license is issued by the British Government.

"The effect of the complete embargo is to save the British officials and the merchants a great deal of clerical work which was necessary under the previous partial embargo."

At the British Consulate it was said that the complete embargo would have no effect locally. It was characterized by an official as "another hint" to the northern neutrals as to trading with Germany in goods which they may be allowed to receive under license from Great Britain.

POLICEMEN ACCUSE PHILADELPHIA HEAD

Give Evidence at Hearing in Murder Case That Smith Ordered Election Clubbing.

TOLD TO BRING IN CAREY MEN

Falconi, Brunnelli, Dennehy, and Burkhardt Taken from New York on Extradition Papers.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The alleged activity of the police, backed by Mayor Thomas B. Smith, in helping Isaac Deutsch to win the Councilmanic nomination in the Fifth Ward, which resulted in the killing of a policeman, was described in the Municipal Court at the second day's hearing of the Mayor and eight other defendants charged with conspiracy to murder, aggravated assault, and battery, and violations of election laws.

The interest aroused by yesterday's testimony connecting the Vare brothers with the Election Day happenings continued in the case today as witness after witness testified that the police "went the limit" to defeat James A. Carey, the leader of the ward.

"Club heads" was the order received from Police Lieut. David Bennett, one officer testified. "Bring them in, and if they are Deutsch's men I will excuse them. The Carey men I'll send down," was the further order given by Bennett, the policeman said. The penalty for failure to "turn in" for Deutsch was transfer to another police district or resign, eight policemen told the court. One of the policemen refused to be transferred, quit, and stayed in the ward to help Carey.

One transferred man said Bennett told him that "clubs would be trumps" in the Fifth Ward on Election Day. Bennett informed the policemen that he had the backing of the Mayor, and that whatever he or Deutsch told the police to do they must do. Witnesses also testified that the Mayor made a speech to a delegation of Deutsch men, in which he said that he wanted order preserved in the ward, and that if heads must be clubbed to maintain order the police must club them.

James L. Clark, an employe of the O'Farrell Detective Agency, who admits he steered the New York gangmen about the ward on primary day, testified that he protested to Deutsch against the use of blackjacks, and that Deutsch replied the New York men could not fight the pick-axe men from the Tenth Ward with their mouths.

Extradition papers were served on Sheriff O'Brien of Bronx County yesterday for the four alleged gunmen who were arrested here after the shooting of a policeman in the political feud in Philadelphia on primary day.

The men are Ruggiero Falconi, Louis Brunnelli, Michael Dennehey, and William Burkhardt. They were taken to Philadelphia last night.

GUILTY OF DRAFT BRIBERY.

Dr. Henry Seligman and Two Board Workers Convicted.

Dr. Henry Seligman, an examining physician for Local Draft Board 52 in Brooklyn, and two other workers of the board, were found guilty of "conspiring to defeat the provisions of the selective draft law by accepting a bribe" by a jury in the United States District Court in Brooklyn yesterday, and Judge Veeder remanded them to the Raymond Street Jail to await sentence. It was proved that Dr. Seligman sought to reject a man because money had been offered for exemption, and that Lazarus Jacobson and Nathan Erlich had acted as agents to make offers to men who wished to be rejected and to receive money from men called for physical examination.

Dr. Seligman was arrested on Aug. 21, after Joseph Levy of 183 South Second Street, Brooklyn, had reported to United States Marshal Power that Jacobson had offered to have him declared unfit for military service upon payment of $200. Levy paid $75 in marked bills to Jacobson, and the arrests were made immediately. Upon previous examinations by other physicians of the board Levy had been rejected because of a physical defect, and Dr. Seligman, not knowing that an examination had been made, told Levy that he would be rejected because he had flat feet. Then Jacobson told Levy he would be called for service unless he paid $200.

DRAFTED MEN WARNED.

Those Who Fail to Report Will Be Punished, Though Not with Death.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Draft army men who fail to report for duty will not be shot as deserters, though they are technically deserters in time of war, and will be punished by imprisonment and forced to serve their time in the national army. Announcement was made by the War Department today that the department appreciated that many of these men did not fully realize the gravity of their offense and that for this reason the department would be as "lenient as the interests of the Government will permit."

A most vigorous effort will be made to catch every deserter, and, with that object in view, a reward of $50 is being paid for "apprehension and delivery" of each drafted man who fails to report.

DUNN MUST SERVE TERM.

Judge McIntyre Upholds Workhouse Sentence for Attack on Jews.

Denying the appeal of Russell Dunn, a soap-box orator, who was sentenced on Aug. 25 to serve thirty days in the workhouse for disorderly conduct arising out of certain anti-Semitic remarks at an outdoor meeting, Judge McIntyre in General Sessions took occasion yesterday to praise the patriotism of the Jews, whose loyalty, he declared, was of the highest type.

"Thousands of Jews have enlisted all over the country," he said, "and the remarks Dunn is alleged to have made are to my mind highly offensive. The peace of the city may be disturbed by applying that language to a race or creed. To call a man 'a dirty Jew' in the presence of others might well lead to a breach of the peace."

Judge McIntyre ordered the re-arrest of Dunn, who has been out on bail.

AUDIENCE DECRIES SEDITION

Moffet's Attack on Disloyal Press Stirs Hippodrome Throng.

A crowd which filled the Hippodrome last night applauded vigorously a denunciation of seditious newspapers by Cleveland Moffett, head of the Vigilantes of the American Defense Society. It was Hippodrome night of the "Gala Week" of theatrical benefits for the American Defense Society.

"We believe," Mr. Moffett said, "that treasonable utterances, spoken or written, are as dangerous to this Republic as armed attack, and must be punished by law and by force of outraged public opinion.

"With the help of public opinion we have stamped out the treasonable campaign of the pro-German soap-box orators, but there are other traitors and seditionists in New York City that must be dealt with by patriotic citizens.

"There is one disloyal American newspaper here, printed in English. It has an enormous circulation, it has great power, it is carrying on a thinly disguised German propaganda, it does more harm in this community than a thousand soap-box orators. That disloyal American newspaper must be put out of business. It is intolerable that the loyalty of the American people to our national military policy and to the President of the United States should be questioned by an American newspaper owner. It is intolerable that the loyalty of the American people to our ally, Great Britain, shall be deliberately misrepresented by an American newspaper owner who finds advantage in these misrepresentations. That newspaper owner must be dealt with by outraged public opinion as the soap-box traitors were dealt with."

BAN ON BERGER'S PAPER.

Mailing Privilege Refused to Milwaukee Leader, Socialist Organ.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 3.—The mailing privilege has been refused to The Milwaukee Leader, organ of the Socialist Party in this city, following a hearing in Washington on Sept. 22. The order was issued under provisions of the Espionage act.

Victor L. Berger, editor of the paper, said he had appealed to the Postmaster General to lift the ban. He said he understood the chief complaint against The Leader was its general tendency, but that no specific violation had been pointed out.

Recently the attention of the Department of Justice was called to large billboard signs bearing the following text: "War is hell—caused by capitalism. Socialists want peace. The Milwaukee Leader, Victor L. Berger, editor. Read the people's side."

Thierichens Acquitted.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Captain Max V. Thierichens, ex-commander of the seized German commerce raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich, was today acquitted of smuggling ashore nineteen dutiable ship chronometers from the raider while interned at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

NEW OFFICER CAMPS FOR ENLISTED MEN

COURSE WILL OPEN JAN. 5

Character and Military Aptitude to Govern Selection of Candidates from Army.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Plans for the third series of army officers' training camps were announced today by Brig. Gen. Henry P. McCain, Adjutant General. These camps will start on Jan. 5, 1918, and will continue for three months. They will be opened to enlisted men of the regular army, National Guard, and national army, and to graduates and undergraduates of certain selected colleges, universities, and military schools.

The third series of camps therefore will differ from the first and second by restricting the candidates to enlisted men and collegians. The number of college men admitted will be limited to 2,400. The plan is in accordance with the War Department policy of encouraging the promotion of enlisted men to officers. Men trained in these new camps will be appointed to the line instead of to staff places. Officers for the staff will be trained in separate schools.

The official announcement regarding the camps read in part as follows:

"With the object of training enlisted men of the regular army, National Guard, and national army for appointment as officers to fill vacancies that may occur in those forces, a third series of training camps will be organized. The graduates of these training camps, who may be so raised, will be listed as eligible for commissions as Second Lieutenants and will be commissioned as vacancies occur. To these camps, which are primarily for enlisted men, it has been decided to admit a certain number of graduates and undergraduates of universities, colleges, and schools which have earned recognition by having had military training under army officers during the past ten years. The entire number of graduates and undergraduates to be admitted is 2,400."

The statement names universities, colleges, and military schools whose students are eligible. The list includes Yale University, Wesleyan University, Bowdoin College, Harvard University, Williams College, Princeton University, Pennsylvania College, Norwich University, Connecticut Agricultural College, University of Maine, Massachusetts Agricultural College, New Hampshire College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts, Rutgers College, Cornell University, Rhode Island State College, University of Vermont, Pennsylvania State College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Pennsylvania Military College.

The military schools include St. Johns at Manlius, N. Y., and New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-Hudson.

Location of the Camps.

The location of camps is given as follows:

"(A) One in each regular army, National Guard and national army division.

"(B) One each in the Philippines, Panama and Hawaii.

"(C) One each at Fort Bliss, Texas; Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and Chickamauga, Ga."

The quota of candidates, in addition to those from the educational institutions is to comprise: "From the regular army, national army, National Guard: One and seven-tenths per cent. of the enlisted strength of the organization. (Regiment or other smaller separate unit.)"

Graduates and undergraduates of the institutions listed must be between 21 and 31 years old on Jan. 5, 1918. Other qualifications are:

"Applicants may be married or unmarried, but, other things being equal, exchange officers will give preference to unmarried men.

"Graduates and undergraduates of these institutions who did not take the course of military training offered by the institution are not eligible for admission.

"Graduates and undergraduates who are eligible and who desire to be admitted to the camps," the announcement states, "must apply on the blanks provided for the purpose and forward the completed application to 'the Instructor in Military Tactics' of the institution from which the applicant graduated. Instructions on the application should be followed carefully. Letters of recommendation are not wanted, but only the names of three responsible citizens who know the applicant best. Each applicant must be examined physically at his own expense by a reputable physician, who will fill out the physical report forming part of the official application blank. Applications will be received between Oct. 15 and Dec. 1. No application received after Dec. 1 will be considered, but will be promptly returned to the applicant. Examining officers will be instructed to designate the full quota of principals and the same number of alternates, provided the number of qualified applicants admits of this."

"The Commanding General of each regular army, National Guard, and national army division will at once inform the enlisted men of his command of the fact that the school is to be held and that if they so desire they are authorized to apply to attend and that their application must be submitted to their immediate commanding officer before Dec. 1. From these applications the company or other unit commander will carefully select those of the most deserving men, not to exceed in number 10 per cent. of the enlisted strength of the organization, the age limits to be 21 to 40 years. These applications will be forwarded through the usual channels to the division commander, who will call a board of three regular army or National Guard officers to consider all applications and select and designate the men to attend. Should the application of any man be disapproved by any intermediate authority before reaching the division commander, it will not be considered by the board.

Selection of Army Men.

"In selecting men to attend the board will be guided by the following considerations: (a) Character of the applicant as regards conduct, leadership, ability to learn quickly, ability to instruct others.

"(b) General suitability; i. e., military appearance, &c.

"For enlisted men of troops which are not organized into divisions the following provision is made:

"Department commanders will at once inform the commanding officers of such troops in their departments of the scheme of training schools authorized and direct them to submit the names of enlisted men between the ages of 21 and 40 recommended for attendance, the number they recommend not to exceed 3.7 per cent. of the enlisted strength of the organization; any fraction to be regarded as one. Recruiting officers will send to the department commander the names of members of their recruiting parties who are recommended by them to attend, and the department commander will select not to exceed 1.7 per cent. of the total number of men on recruiting duty in the department from those recommended."

WOLF PUSHES RIFLE WORK.

Plattsburg Commander to Keep Students at Targets Two Weeks.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, Oct. 3.—A change in the camp program has postponed the starting of the trench warfare a week and gives the students two weeks on the rifle range instead of one week. Colonel Wolf, camp commander, spends much of his time on the range with the students and watches the rifle practice most carefully. The more important things now for the students to learn, the commander believes, are rifle practice and trench work.

On Oct. 13 there is to be a military tournament, with the usual field events, and, in addition, there will be driving competition, packing drills, equipment races, and a horse show.

Robert B. Peters of Brooklyn, a member of the Sixth Training Battery, asked for and received his discharge today.

Batteries A and B and the Headquarters company of the Sixteenth Field Artillery are on their way here, and upon their arrival it is believed that the First Regiment, Field Artillery, will go to Spartanburg.

CAMP UPTON RECRUITS GOING SOON TO FRANCE

Many Found to be Fitted by Civil Occupations for Immediate Service—Men Buy Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, YAPHANK, L. I., Oct. 3.—Active war service within a few weeks will be the fortune of some specially selected men from this cantonment. Although only 48 per cent. of the personnel of the Seventy-seventh Division has been sent to Camp Upton by local draft boards, it will not be necessary for the division to be at full strength or for a definite schedule of training to be effected before particularly qualified men can be sent to units already abroad or on the point of departure.

Because the possible military efficiency of every recruit reporting here has been recorded, the military authorities are now prepared to send men qualified by previous occupation to recently organized sections of the army now needed in France. According to a War Department announcement a few weeks ago, new units consisting of searchlight companies, gas and flame experts, and road builders have been assigned to the engineer corps. For many of these organizations men from New York City are especially fitted, while other regions will supply needed lumbermen and miners. A large number of New York recruits who have been engaged in subway and construction work are needed and will be assigned upon orders from the War Department.

A call was issued afew days ago from Washington for men qualified for camouflage work. In anticipation of this call Captain Francis W. Perry, the mustering officer, made a record of artists and painters among the recruits mustered into the Seventy-seventh Division who might be trained for this work. Articles are brought in.

While no definite figures have been reported yet, Camp Upton will subscribe at least its share to the second Liberty Loan. In company G of the 307th Infantry, the subscriptions have reached an average of one bond per man. Two recruits made application for $1,000 bonds. The field officers of the division subscribed $48,000 in a few minutes at a meeting yesterday.

LIEUT. G. P. HOWE KILLED.

Boston Medical Officer Loses His Life on British Front in France.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Lieutenant G. P. Howe of the Boston Medical Officers' Reserve Corps was killed in action Sept. 28, while on duty with British forces in France, the Adjutant General today announced.

His next of kin is Marion E. Howe of 154 Beacon Street, Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Lieutenant George P. Howe, a native of Lawrence, whose death at the front in France was announced today, had distinguished himself in the medical profession since his graduation from Harvard University in 1900, and Harvard Medical four years later. For two years he was house surgeon at the Boston City Hospital, and subsequently instructor in anthropology at Harvard.

Lieutenant Howe volunteered here for service in the Medical Officers' Reserve Corps last Spring and was sent abroad unattached. He was later attached as medical officer to a British infantry battalion.

ANOTHER RAINBOW REVIEW.

All Units at Camp Mills to be in Parade on Sunday.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP MILLS, Hempstead, L. I., Oct. 3.—Arrangements for another parade and review of all the units at Camp Mills on Sunday afternoon were completed today by the commander of the Rainbow Division, Major Gen. W. A. Mann, and his staff. There are now more than 25,000 men and officers at the camp, from twenty-six States, several units of which have arrived since the review recently in honor of Secretary of War Baker.

Picked baseball teams from the 165th Regiment (Sixty-ninth of New York) and the 166th Ohio Infantry will play at the Polo Grounds on Saturday afternoon. The proceeds are to go to the athletic funds of the two commands. Captain James A. McKenna of Company I., a former backstop at Harvard University, will be the catcher for the Irish boys. Hank Gowdy, formerly of the Boston National League club, is to be the boxman for Ohio.

Captain Robert J. Hill of the Maryland Trench Motor Battery and 150 of his men were entertained at the home of Mrs. Robinson, at Flushing, last night.

PREPARE FOR TRENCH WORK

Each Regiment at Spartanburg Will in Turn "Go Over the Top."

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 3.—The thoroughness that is to characterize the training of the Twenty-seventh Division was demonstrated today when a full battalion of the 102d United States Engineers, under Major F. Humphries and Captain D. H. Johnson, began the construction of a duplication of a French sector. The plot devoted to this mimic front embraces an area 600 yards by 400, and will be complete to the last detail, even including dugouts.

When the sector is ready, probably early next week, each regiment will take turns in going up to the "front." The program provides that each regiment shall spend twenty-four hours in the dugouts. On a night to be kept secret from the enlisted men, each regiment will be routed from the dugouts and ordered from the trenches for a night attack. This attack will be launched under a glare of rockets and the men will have to cut their way through two series of wire entanglements before they will be able to bring their bayonets into play on the dummies that will be awaiting them.

Early construction of the trench network was made necessary because the 107th Infantry, which is far in the van of the other regiments, will complete its bayonet drill next Friday. The next regiment to take up bayonet work will be the Second. Some idea of the "intensiveness" of there drills may be gained from the fact that the average of injured has been one a day.

With the arrival this morning of the Fourteenth the camp's quota of infantry was completed. The Fourteenth, 1,800 men and fifty officers, under command of Colonel J. R. Howlett, made the trip down in four sections, covering the distance in 44 hours, within an hour of the record for the journey. The men were in fine trim, but disappointed because they have been put in the second line. With the regiment came Major J. F. Loree, quartermaster's corps, who has been supervising the departure of the regiments.

The Seventy-first is destined to lose 1,000 of its 1,800 men under the transfer. It is said unofficially that they are to be sent into the Twenty-third.

Signal Corps Needs Stenographers.

The Aviation Section of the Signal Corps needs 100 first-class stenographers and 100 clerks for immediate service abroad. Only men with excellent references will be considered for this special work. Applicants from 30 to 35 years of age are preferred. These men will be enlisted as first-class privates, but three-fourths of the number will be made non-commissioned officers. Applications may be filed at the office of the Military Training Camps Association, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, where an officer will conduct the personal examinations next week.

Meat or Milk?

We Can Furnish Either

IF milk is not consumed, milk cows are killed for beef. That's an economic law which is unfortunately inevitable. Even now the dairy cows are being killed faster than they are being raised.

Our cows are like any other part of our farm factors—just like a department in your business. They must pay at least cost or be killed, so that our energies can go into other departments of farm work.

Meat or Milk?

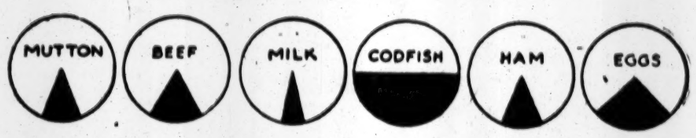
Meat is expensive. Milk at current prices is much cheaper than meat, eggs or fish. We eat too much meat—about twice too much the authorities say, for our well being. We consume too little milk—authorities agree on that.

We Can't Control the Cost of Milk

We can't keep down feed and labor costs and so we can't sell at lower prices than $.0697 a quart for Grade B milk testing 3.6% butter fat.

We make 2/10 of a cent a quart—practically nothing. We have nothing to do with the retail prices or retail profits, but we do know this, that milk is cheap compared with meat and eggs or fish and we believe that when people understand how nutritious milk is comparatively, they will buy more of it.

Compare These Values



The black portion represents the part of a dollar necessary to buy an equal unit of food value. It's common sense war time economy to increase your milk order.

For Children—a Quart a Day

Less than that prevents proper growth and nourishment. Grown-ups consume about one-half as much of Nature's balanced ration milk as they actually need.

Housewives should use milk freely and waste none of this valuable food. If cream is taken off, the skim milk is most valuable in building up nutriment and flavor in bread, cakes, soups, puddings. When milk sours make cottage cheese, a valuable food.

We court investigation and publicity. Our books and figures are always available.

It costs each of our members three cents a day to endeavor to save their herds and your milk through this advertising.

THREATENING NOTE IN CLAUSSEN CASE

C. M. Higgins, Standard Oil Director and Member of Jury, Gets Letter.

HEARING QUICKLY DROPPED

Mrs. Dona Says Letter Was Sent by "Interests" Who Have Long Persecuted Her.

The receipt of a threatening letter by Charles M. Higgins, director of the Standard Oil Company, containing a suggestion that his life was in danger and hinting that a criminal charge would be brought against his son, who is at the officers' training camp at Plattsburg, has caused the sudden termination for the present of the proceeding brought by Mrs. Ida Claussen Dona to have her brother, Matthew B. Claussen, removed as committee of her property on the ground that she is sane and competent to control her finances.

Mrs. Dona, who is now the wife of Francis A. Dona, lives at 330 West Seventy-second Street. Her petition was referred to a commission in lunacy, consisting of Wilbur Larremore and Dr. C. P. Oberndorf. The commission has been taking testimony before a sheriff's jury, of which Mr. Higgins is a member. A hearing that was expected to be the final one was fixed for Monday afternoon, but after Mr. Higgins had appeared with a letter received by him subsequent to the previous hearing a secret session was held, in course of which a stenographer was called in to incorporate certain matters in the minutes of the proceeding. It was then announced that the hearing had been adjourned, subject to call by the commissioners, but no statement concerning the cause of the adjournment was made. Commissioner Larremore and all the attorneys refused to discuss the case.

Mr. Higgins admitted last night at his home, 93 Riverside Drive, that he has received a letter threatening him and his son, and said he could see no reason why he had been singled out from the other members of the jury, because he had never heard of Mrs. Dona before she appeared in court, except in reading of her various actions in the newspapers. He said that no move had been made as yet toward starting criminal proceedings based on the letter.

Mrs. Dona insisted last night that the sending of the letter was done by the "interests" which have been persecuting her for years, and said that the purpose of it was to direct suspicion toward her. She suggested taking action against persons who have been opposing her present application. The writing in the anonymous letter sent to Mr. Higgins has already been compared with Mrs. Dona's conceded writing, but the result has not been made known.

CHRISTMAS MAIL TO FRANCE.

Packages for Our Troops Must Be Posted by Nov. 15.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—With the time approaching to give thought to bringing cheer to the American soldiers and sailors abroad, Postmaster General Burleson and Secretaries Baker and Daniels, in a joint statement issued tonight, warned the public that Christmas packages for the fighting men in Europe must be mailed not later than Nov. 15.

Arrangements have been perfected, it is announced, whereby the Christmas mail to the expeditionary forces is to be delivered Christmas morning; but this can be accomplished only by the fullest co-operation of the public.

"The three essential respects in which the public can aid in assuring a happy Christmas at the front," says the statement, "are to mail early, address intelligently, and pack securely. Every package must bear conspicuously the words, 'Christmas mail,' the complete address of the person for whom it is intended, and, in the upper left-hand corner, the name and address of the sender.

"Every parcel must be so packed and wrapped as to admit of easy inspection by the Postmaster. No parcel will be dispatched to France which has not the Postmaster's certificate that it contains no prohibited articles."

The rate of postage is announced at 12 cents a pound.

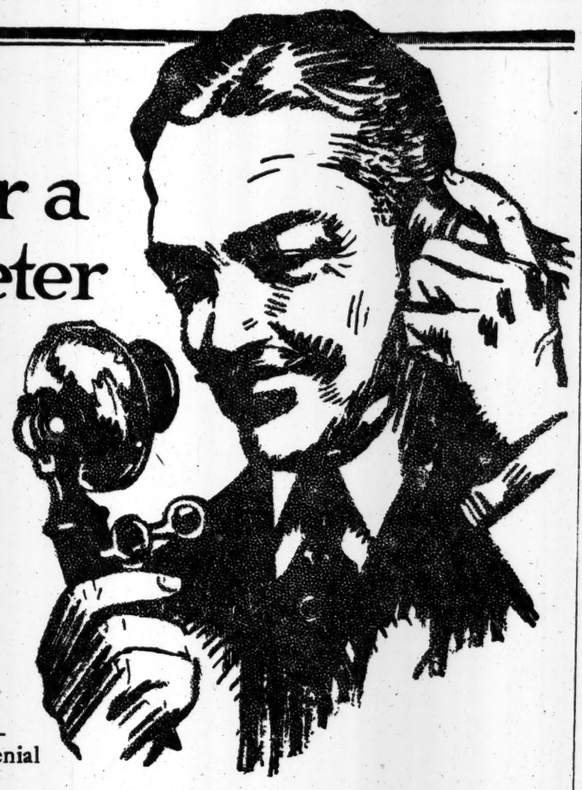
"Send over a Comptometer man—



Yes, bring a machine"

S. O. S. calls like that are coming in frequently these days. It is a signal for help which the Controlled-key Comptometer answers.

It answers the Bookkeeper's call for relief from the menial brain task of handling figures.

It answers the same call from the Bill Clerk, the Cost Clerk, the Auditor, the Cashier—everyone whose mental energy is being wasted on figure work—not only Addition, but Multiplication, Division, and Subtraction as well.

It answers the Manager's call for accurate results—more economical service.

It answers the call of short-handed offices where night work and overtime are necessary to keep even.

It answers the urgent call of business everywhere—regardless of kind or size—for that guiding information which only analysis of figure records will give.

Put in an S. O. S. call for a Comptometer man.

He'll be prepared to demonstrate in a practical way how the Comptometer plus the Controlled-key helps hold the line with a shortened office force.

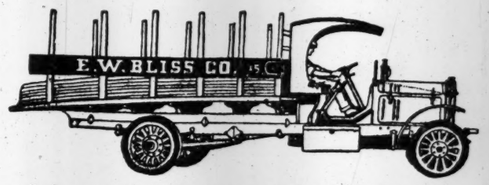
Meeting the Emergency

The resources of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company are organized to meet the nation's emergency. In speeding up industry, Pierce-Arrow Trucks are playing their part. Pierce-Arrow fleets are operating on emergency schedules in the service of many large manufacturers of munitions and supplies. Dependable mechanism, regular inspection service and interchangeable parts have enabled these standardized Pierce-Arrow fleets to set unusual records for sustained speed, efficiency and economy.

Pierce-Arrow
Motor Trucks

for example: Emergency war orders led to the organization of the E. W. Bliss Company's fleet of fifteen Pierce-Arrow trucks. Officials say the trucks do work impossible with any other hauling unit and write themselves off the books quicker than any other machinery used.



Such great commercial successes are built upon sound economies like those effected by Pierce-Arrow Trucks. A smaller business should not deny itself the advantages on which big business thrives.

LENORE ULRICH IN 'TIGER ROSE'

ATMOSPHERIC MELODRAMA

An Effective If Straggling Play by Willard Mack, with Belasco Settings.

TIGER ROSE, a melodrama in three acts, by Willard Mack. At the Lyceum Theatre.

Lenore Ulrich returned to the Lyceum last night in another of those Western melodramas, again playing a primitive and broken-English heroine whom every one loved but the policeman—and he had loved her, too, in his way until she spurned his base advances. Then he called her "Hell-cat," and every one else loved her all the more.

The play is by Willard Mack, whose turn for effective, if conventional, stage character and for no less effective, but far more original, theatric wit is as well known as his skill in handling scenes of exciting melodrama. For the first half of the three acts, it must be said, the story happened mostly off stage. Rose's love for her Bruce, and his murder of an arch-villain, came to the audience as hearsay. If it had not been for the amazingly atmospheric setting which Mr. Belasco had provided the plot must have seemed rather tame and futile. But at last Rose's young lover appeared, a fugitive from the Canadian mounted police, and from then to the final curtain those whom breathless melodrama deprives of their breath must have suffocated.

It was Mr. Belasco's setting that counted most heavily in the effect, and the work of the actors he has chosen. Void as the opening scenes were of excitement, they breathed the spirit of the great Northwest. The stage disclosed the living room of the Factor's house in a Hudson Bay trading post. The varied assemblage of Indians, French Canadians, Scotch, Irish (the Policeman), and Americans gave a cosmopolitan flavor, subtly blended with the spirit of the forest and of far adventure. While the story began without, the atmosphere was all indoors.

Then came a sudden thunder shower, and with it the plot took to cover. Mr. Belasco has done wonders in illusive realism, but never such a storm as this. The flashes of lightning and crashes of thunder, the scattered gusts of rain and the blowing of curtains and draperies were managed with discretion and precision of effect truly marvelous. Even the oil lamp (which the fire laws require to be electric) dimmed and flared up under the intermittent impacts of the wind. When the audience filed out in the entr'acte they were amazed to find that the streets were dry.

The melodramatic action centred in the familiar properties of trap-door and grandfather's clock, and it was waged with interruptions of gunfire and shouting. Miss Ulrich, a very effective cub tigress, was affectionate and passionate by turns, womanly weak and heroically masterful. With her aid the hunted and still somewhat mysterious young man escaped to a tumble-down hut in the forest.

Here again the art of the producer struck the prevailing note, creating a strongly imaginative effect. The hut was a mere battered frame, with a double bunk in the corner, above which one caught glimpses of the virgin forest and moonlit sky. When the redcoated bloodhound of the law seemed finally eluded, he rose from the upper berth and captured the hero. But Rose was an accomplished marksman, and shot the gun from his hand, once more thwarting him. Again Hellcat—and again a delighted audience. By this time it had transpired that the hero's crime was abundantly covered by the unwritten law, and with a priest conveniently at hand, Rose married her man and went with him to the halls of unwritten justice.

Rose's adoptive father was the Factor, a Scotchman whose speech is attested by expert authority to be genuine Hoot. He was admirably played by Thomas Findlay. Pedro de Cordoba was a dreamy, violin-playing Frenchman, hopelessly in love with Rose, whose music, now on stage and now off, was a powerful aid to the atmospheric illusion. Admirably simple in method, the performance was distinctly the artistic achievement of the evening. The redcoat Mounted Policeman was played by the author and, though a sorry lot in his morals, and by way of being the villain, had somehow managed to get almost as many of the bright lines as Rose herself. It was a very distinct character sketch and capitally played.

Melodrama the play undoubtedly is. Even the program admits it. But it is, on the whole, corking good melodrama, and the scenic investiture and the acting afford a sufficient palliative for the fastidious.

Germans Revive 'Der Bibliothekar.'

"Der Bibliothekar," the German farce which was used as the basis of William Gillette's play, "The Private Secretary," was revived last night by the German company at the Irving Place Theatre. Christian Rub, always an excellent comedian, gave a good performance in the title role, and brisk playing by the company in general did much to make the piece once more amusing.

"The Claim" for the Fulton

"The Claim," a drama by Frank Dare and Charles Kenyon, the latter the author of "Kindling," will have its premiere at the Fulton Theatre next Tuesday. The cast is headed by Florence Roberts, and includes Edward H. Robins, Geraldine O'Brien, and Florine Arnold.

Members of the commission present were Major Gen. Sugano and M. Ando, Lieut. Col. S. Tanikawa, Colonel N. Izamachi, Commander Viscount Hotta, and Matsuzo M. Nagai, Secretary of the Japanese Foreign Office.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3.—Viscount Ishii and the other members of the Japanese Commission arrived here tonight. The party will rest here a few days before starting for Japan. The visitors were met by Mayor Harry Bacharach and a special police guard, which escorted them to their hotel.

Dealers Refuse Orders for Coal.

Dealers on Staten Island have refused to take orders for coal, asserting that they cannot get coal at the present time, and that it would be useless, therefore, to accept orders. NEW YORK, THURSDAY, OCT. 4, 1917.

STAR CHAMBER LEGISLATION.

The vice of legislation by Conference Committee is that there is no public record of debate, no means of fixing individual responsibility for the proposal and adoption of amendments to the measure under consideration, and that, as in the case of the Tax bill, the report of the Committee, promptly accepted by both houses of Congress, goes at once to the President as an enacted measure, and by his signature becomes a law before the country, or even its representatives in the Senate and in the House, can have any opportunity to study its provisions and ascertain their effect.

The Committee print of the Conference agreement upon the Revenue bill makes a document of 183 pages, including matter struck out, and of these 183 pages more than forty are new language inserted by the conferees. These new provisions, adopted by the Conference Committee without the country having any opportunity to know what the changes were, include the most important provisions of the measure, those relating to excess profits tax and the income tax. Congress gave no consideration to the amendments; the Conference report was adopted and rushed to the President without the National Legislature having any opportunity to know what it contained.

A glaring evidence of the danger of this method of lawmaking is afforded by an entirely new provision of the bill, of which the country has not been informed, and to which very little attention has been given. In the bill as agreed to by the Conference we find this provision, not contained in either the House bill or the Senate bill, entirely new, entirely the work of the Conference Committee:

> Section 209. That in the case of a trade or business having no invested capital or not more than a nominal capital there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid, in addition to the taxes under existing law and under this act, in lieu of the tax imposed by Section 201, a tax equivalent to 8 per centum of the net income of such trade or business, in excess of the following deductions: In the case of a domestic corporation, $3,000, and in the case of a domestic partnership, or a citizen or resident of the United States, $6,000, in the case of all other trades or business, no deduction.

In Section 200, which as drafted is also the work of the Conference Committee, we find this definition:

> The terms "trade" and "business" include professions and occupations.

Section 201, which is also new, is the excess profits section, imposing taxes ranging from 20 per cent. to 60 per cent. on corporation incomes in excess of the pre-war period. Section 209 imposes a special tax "in lieu" of the excess profits tax. Section 209 plainly imposes a special tax upon persons whose income is the fruit of their labor, upon persons engaged in trade or business, including professions and occupations. It is a tax in addition to the individual income tax, already made sufficiently burdensome. It does not apply to incomes derived from bonds, interest, dividends, or rents, or other "unearned income"; it is a tax upon the fruits of individual toil.

What is the purpose of this Section 209? By what arguments were the members of the Conference Committee persuaded to impose double taxation in this manner on salaries, wages and incomes from professions or other occupations? A person in receipt of an income in part from investments and in part from salary would pay the individual income tax upon his entire income from both sources, and in addition, under Section 209, a levy of 8 per cent. upon all that part of his income which came to him in the form of a salary or other reward for personal service in excess of $6,000. It is inconceivable that both houses would have assented to this exorbitant double taxation had they been duly informed concerning this new provision, with opportunity to acquaint themselves with its workings. The somewhat overworked word "job" applies with startling force to this section of a measure palmed off upon the country without notice or warning by the Conference Committee.

IT RESTS WITH THE REPUBLICANS.

Mr. MITCHEL or Judge HYLAN will be the next Mayor. Mr. MITCHEL is the representative of good government achieved in all departments of the city administration, of the continuance and improvement of good government. His defeat would mean the restoration of the Tammany system of graft, incompetence, favoritism, pantatalism, and the old degradations of the Police Department, now the pride of the city, recreated, disciplined, physically and morally strengthened, honest, efficient, a friend of the honest citizen, not as it used to be a partner of the gunman and the divekeeper. It would mean the revival of slovenliness, politics, and neglect in the charitable institutions, in the schools, in the parks; the district leader, with no other training than that of the worst school of politics for the offices and the money, taking the place of experts, the finances of the city in the hands of men taught to regard the filling of Tammany's pockets as the complete duty of a city official. It would mean the unchecked rule of jobbery.

Does the Republican Party of New York, do the Republican county organizations of Greater New York, do any Republicans but a scanty handful of devotees of the "regular" fetich, want Tammany government, whose habitual maladministration and inevitable harvest of scandals are fresh in their memories?

Mayor MITCHEL is the representative of the loyalty of the city, of its resolution to support to the uttermost the war against Germany. The protagonist of pro-Germanism, of a German peace, of constant opposition, open or not too subtly veiled, to the war, is Judge HYLAN'S sponsor and patron. While the great mass of Tammany men are loyal, the notorious servants of Germany, and the men who hate England more than they love the United States, are behind Judge HYLAN. There rather than in the Socialist camp are they to be found. The Socialist disloyalty is hopeless. It rests with the Republicans to decide whether, by the adherence of many of them to a barren party formalism, disloyalty shall triumph by the election of Judge HYLAN.

By a paltry majority in a primary, where the vote was but a beggarly percentage of the whole number of Republican voters, Mr. BENNETT won the nomination. Sound party policy, consideration of the welfare of the Republican Party here, aside from loftier considerations of the welfare of the city and the nation, forbid the Republican local leaders, many of them favorable from the first to Mr. MITCHEL'S nomination, from following Mr. BENNETT in his curious passion. It would be wronging all but the shallower heads among the local leaders to attribute to them no nobler reasons than partisan reasons for rejecting the accident of the primaries. In the maintenance of honest, efficient municipal government, in the maintenance of the war for democracy, Republican and Democrat are indistinguishable names. As good citizens, as good patriots, the Republicans will vote for the candidate of good citizenship and ardent patriotism.

THE LIBERTY LOAN.

The Liberty Loan responses in small amounts are so many that their total is not known, and grows before it can be announced after each totaling. The local subscriptions in large sums exceed $100,000,000 within three days of the offering, or more than in a fortnight for the first issue. Concurrently there is an oversubscription for $400,000,000 of Treasury certificates of indebtedness, which puts the Treasury in funds for current expenses to a total of $1,250,000,000, or 40 per cent. of the loan offering. To that extent the Treasury will have anticipated the receipts of the subscriptions, and will have paid them out, thus averting any great or sudden demand upon the money market. In reserve there are two resources, one the issue of $2,000,000,000 of United States one-year certificates of indebtedness exchangeable for bonds, and the other the $2,000,000,000 of war savings certificates in denominations as low as $5.

There is as good reason in this for pride and satisfaction in this country as there is for disquiet in Kaiserland. There is a particular reason for saying this, and for hoping that the underground route will carry the news across the sea. German officials are watching what is going on here, and are misreporting it to German citizens. Thus Imperial Chancellor MICHAELIS, in his speech to the Main Committee of the Reichstag, said that our Government is attempting "by "all methods, even by unparalleled "terrorism, to stir up war en- "thusiasm, which has been non- "existent among the wide masses." The free-will offering of the people's money in billions gives the lie to the Chancellor. He probably knows, and his predecessors certainly knew, that the only terrorism here is by the pro-Germans, and is "made in Germany." We learn that

> In an interview in the Neues Pester Journal of Budapest Admiral von TIRPITZ, former German Minister of Marine, characterizes America's military help in the war as a phantom.

A single cantonment of this "phantom" contributed yesterday $48,000 to the Liberty Loan, whose progress is not such a mystery as the German loan on the market simultaneously. The American "phantom" is not yet in the class with England's "contemptible little army," but it is young yet, and really does not deserve the insults heaped upon it. Perhaps when the Germans meet it face to face they will not be of the opinion of the Leipziger Neueste Nachrichten that the American regulars resemble "Falstaff's Guards." Perhaps "HINDENBURG will make short work of the "recruits and volunteers from the "other side of the great pond. * * * "Conscientious and cautious study "enables us to say that we need not "overestimate the American danger." There is no necessity to overestimate it, but it may be dangerous to underestimate it in reliance upon what their officials tell them.

This loan is for the support of the Falstaff's Guards. It is for the protection of the rear of the trenches, where the war is being fought as truly as in the front of them. The factories and food sources are behind the men behind the guns in illimitable supply. Other nations have outspent us in total, because they have been spending and bleeding for years. But none of them began so lavishly as ourselves in money matters, and there is no record that any fighters are braver than Americans. German false reports and insults, German methods of warfare and propaganda, are the best ammunition of our bond salesmen. The more despicable the Germans, the more resolute and generous will Americans be. The bombing of babies, the submarining of merchantmen, the drowning of peaceful travelers and sailors, tell the tale of why these billions are necessary, if the world is to be safe for democracy, or if humanity is to survive Kultur.

THE RED CROSS PARADE.

Fifth Avenue, which has seen so many and various processions, will see this afternoon a strange and noble spectacle. Twenty-five thousand of the Atlantic division of the Red Cross, graduate and pupil nurses, probationers from the hospital training schools, hospital units, ambulance units, will be seen. Most notable, perhaps, in that great company of unarmed soldiers of humanity will be the thousand graduate nurses soon to sail for France, to take care of our men, to brave the sure instinct of the German airmen who violate the sanctities of the Red Cross, and slay doctors, nurses, and wounded men. New York salutes, gratefully and reverently, this thousand, and all those hearts of courage and heads and hands of skill and tenderness, dedicated to unselfish service, this army that goes or will go to help our other army in France.

BIG AIRPLANES NEEDED.

Among those who do not believe that the German air raids on London are inspired solely by some peculiarly Teutonic desire to inflict on the non-combatant part of Great Britain's population the punishment which the fighting forces have declined to take except on terms of immediate repayment with interest, there is an expanding concurrence in the theory, first cabled to this country by Mr. GRASTY in a dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES, that Germany is preparing for an aerial investiture of London on a scale not yet attempted in the overhead activities of any of the warring nations. There have been indications in plenty that this is a sound theory, and the attack last Friday night contained its own bit of testimony in support of it.

The dispatch to THE TIMES referred to the raiders as "moonlight visitors" and again spoke of the condition of the sky as being "not altogether favorable for night flying." The enemy airplanes were clearly visible, as they have always been in the past, not only to the defenders who mounted into the air at the first alarm but to the gunpointers of the anti-aircraft batteries which surround London. Two of them were shot down. Yet the raiders might as easily have selected a night moonless and made dark by storm clouds: there was no apparent necessity for making their attack on Friday night.

The explanation lies in the theory of a tremendous attack, as yet only in preparation. Military experts of the air, among them officers of the British Royal Flying Corps, have expressed themselves as satisfied that the raids are made by moonlight so that the raiders may have a clear view of London and its environs, so that they may learn the air path which must be followed from the German base most quickly to reach a strategic post over England's capital. And they are satisfied, too, that in each raid the personnel of the enemy squadron is different, with, perhaps, a leader or two who have made the journey before, to snow the way. They see Germany, with characteristic persistence and disregard of relatively small losses, slowly training a company of airmen whom she may launch at London in a single tremendous squadron of two or three hundred airplanes.

What preparation England is making to offset this danger has not, of course, been announced, but it is fair to guess that the British airplane plants are hurrying huge machines to completion. It has been officially stated that the ordinary type of warplane on which both English and French have heretofore centred their constructive efforts is no match for the huge Gothas of Germany which carry three airmen each and three machine guns so mounted that the former sought-for position of attack—the "under-the-tail" position—has become no longer an advantage, but an actual menace to the airman obtaining it.

Alone among the Allies the Italians have built machines structurally capable of meeting the raiding Gotha on even terms. Members of the Royal Flying Corps of Italy have brought several such machines to this country. It was one of them in which ten men flew from Langley Field to Washington a little more than a week ago. The flight was designed to give an idea of what Italy can do with the giant 'planes on which she specializes. Italy wants airplanes and airplane parts; she wants motors and spruce and she wants the United States to furnish them. America's new Liberty Motor can be fitted exactly to Italy's needs and, thanks to its standardization, it can be produced in quantities impossible to attain under Italian methods of construction.

There should be no other argument needed to persuade the United States to assist her ally in the construction of more and greater Capronis. If there were, however, London's unhappy situation should supply it.

MAKING PERSHING A GENERAL.

It is inevitable that the rank of General should be revived for Major Gen. PERSHING, as the War Department has proposed to the Senate Military Committee. In one aspect the thing is regrettable, for it parts company with an old American tradition. That tradition is that the rank of General is a rare and exceptional honor, never to be given except in recognition of the full performance of most extraordinary services, such as Major Gen. PERSHING has never had the opportunity to perform. It has been held only by WASHINGTON, GRANT, SHERMAN, and SHERIDAN. Between the death of WASHINGTON and the end of the war of secession no one held it, not even SCOTT, who commanded the army so long and who was the military idol of his time. In creating the rank of Lieutenant General for him the Government considered that it was making a notable concession.

Throughout the war of secession no one was elevated to that rank. It rewarded GRANT when the war was over, and SHERMAN was appointed General after the death of GRANT. SHERIDAN in turn succeeded SHERMAN, but on his death the title was allowed to lapse. The office has been held sacred, like that of Marshal of France, which no Frenchman of today is permitted to hold except JOFFRE, and which was not accorded even to him until he retired from command, until his record was completely made.

In this view of things it seems a pity that the old tradition cannot be maintained, as has been the similar tradition in the navy, which has reserved the rank of Admiral for only three men, FARRAGUT, PORTER, and DEWEY. But "it is a situation, not a theory, that confronts us," and the reasons for PERSHING'S promotion are practical. He is to command an army which will grow to a million men, and such an army can hardly be commanded by an officer holding no higher rank than that of a corps commander. When the American army comes to hold its part of the line, it will be cheek by jowl with French and British armies commanded by men who hold the highest possible rank in their respective services, and the inconveniences of having the Americans commanded by an officer of inferior rank will amount to real obstacles. His countrymen have no doubt that PERSHING will win the rank which is thus bestowed on him in advance.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Triumph Against Great Odds.

It was a victory indeed—the one gained by the dairymen in the Senate on Wednesday when the nomination of GEORGE W. PERKINS for head of the State Food Control Commission was defeated by a vote of 25 to 20. To be sure, the majority against Mr. PERKINS might have been greater, but to emphasize that point would be unfair to the dairymen, and it will not be done except in forgetfulness of the fact that they, a little people, so far as numbers go, had no positive arguments to offer that were avowable, none negative that had not been refuted. On the other hand, they had to contend against the obvious interests of the vastly larger body of consumers all through the State.

Yet they won the day and secured the appointment of a man who, whatever his merits and abilities, is a specialist in a domain far remote from that of food conservation and is quite without the present qualifications for his new post that are known to be possessed by Mr. PERKINS. Mr. MITCHELL is credited with intelligence and good intentions. In time, presumably, and after he has given to the many and complex problems relating to food distribution the study that has already been bestowed on them by the at least equally intelligent and well-intentioned Mr. PERKINS, he may become a competent head for the commission.

We can all hope so, and for that matter we must all do so, but meanwhile this year's crops will be bought and sold much as were those of previous years, or if immediate changes in the old methods are made, they will have to be experimental and dependent for success more on luck than on knowledge.

The mysteries of the decisive vote are deep. Why the up-State Senators voted against Mr. PERKINS can be guessed without much danger of error, but to explain why certain city members, both Republican and Democratic, were against a selection that promised benefits for the great mass of their constituents, and for one that disquiets those constituents because it was hotly favored by the class personally interested in the maintenance of high food prices—to explain that would require excursions into the misty field of motive and could not be undertaken without risk.

A cynic might congratulate Mr. PERKINS on his rejection, in that it relieves him of a task which for him had "nothing in it" except an enormous amount of the hardest kind of work. But of course he wants no congratulations of that sort; he will prefer commiseration because he has been deprived of an opportunity to render a great public service.

He Uses Words Strangely.

Among the congratulatory telegrams sent to Field Marshal von HINDENBURG when he attained his seventieth birthday this week was one from Dr. RICHARD VON KUEHLMANN, who is Foreign Secretary of the German Empire, a high position, the occupant of which is expected to know many things and to know them well. One sentence in his dispatch reads: "Glorious deeds of imperishable greatness make this a national fête day."

It is not quite clear whether these words refer to the Field Marshal's own achievements or to those of the German armies taken together as a fighting force. In either case, however, they suggest an eager and interested inquiry: Just what were the "glorious deeds" of which the "imperishable greatness" deserved celebration by the whole German people?

Search memory as one will, there is to be found in it credited to Germany only deeds the effect of which, in sum, has been to create for her not respect, or admiration, or even fear, but the bitter condemnation of more peoples than ever ranged themselves in armed antagonism against any other nation since the world began. Germany today has a few allies—and such allies!—but she has not one friend in east or west, north or south, and she confronts a future blacker and more threatening than even the most unhappily fated races ever faced in the past.

That she has won military victories is true, but all of them, like the one upon which the reputation of General von HINDENBURG largely or wholly rests, have excited more of horror or of anger than of appreciation, even from the military standpoint. As war goes, the slaughter of the almost weaponless Russian thousands in the Mazurian marshes had its merits, but why it should be counted glorious is hard for non-Germans to see, and the rush through Belgium into France necessitated real fighting only when the Marne was reached.

What happened then is worth celebrating—but not in Germany. Since then there have been the Lusitania and many another merchantman to consider, there have been Serbia and Rumania and Armenia and Poland to examine—all supplying deeds that are indeed "imperishable," but strangely few that in the record of history will pass as "glorious."

Promising to Make Reprisals.

Reluctant as has been the British Government to undertake reprisals in kind for the aerial raids on London, the present indications are that sooner or later the popular demand for them will become irresistible, and it begins to look as if they would not be long deferred. Already Mr. LLOYD GEORGE has answered an informal cry for vengeance with an equally informal promise that it shall be attempted, and while the promise was conditioned on getting the advice and consent of the military authorities, the ominous words have been spoken—the dreadful policy contemplated as something like a necessity of the situation.

The feeling and the attitude of the Londoners are easily comprehensible, and they cannot be blamed for asking what they do, but the wisdom of granting their requests is still more than dubious to remote observers, and it still can be hoped that entrance into a nearly hopeless competition in savagery may be avoided.

If it were certain, or even probable, that the raids could be stopped by return raids, resort to them could be without hesitation. But the imitation of German methods as regards the use of asphyxiating gases and liquid fire has not stopped that use, and the bombing of undefended German cities promises no better result than the depriving of the Allies of a moral superiority they now possess. And that is not worth while.

A CHANGED GERMAN TONE.

Having Missed World Power, They Talk of Peace Leagues.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For over two scores of years before the war Teutonic prophets were preaching certain Pan Germanic schemes regarding the political and economical supremacy of Germany in the world. As to the time and means of realization of their aims they held that the State itself was the supreme authority, the absolute, for they did not recognize any higher moral law that could bind it. Germans have had nothing to do with right, for they taught that the principle of right was an invention of the weak, of the decadent and the old who want to keep the acquired position which no longer corresponds to their degree of vitality. To the German mind, only war shows each people its place in the world proportioned to its strength. The right of the conqueror is unquestionable, for in war God is with victory. It is His will that the way should be opened to true force. Thus Germans have invented a new religion, that of Force, and they started new teaching.

Germans wanted to enthrone the Prussian idea of State despotism. They wanted world power, world markets, and world Kultur. They wanted to conquer all these things, and quick, too. But they did not. Hence a strategical retreat on all lines. The language of Teutonic prophets has changed. We hear now that Germany was fighting for self-defense, for the protection of small States, for the establishment of international arbitration, for disarmament, and for the prevention of war in the future. Everybody knows that "World Power or Downfall" was the German motto. As the first part of it fell through, the second one is now threatening Teutonic false prophets and the people deluded by them.

FOR AN INDUSTRIAL DRAFT.

Many Men Idle While the Country Calls for Workers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Government last Spring urged that general effort should be made to increase the crops for the present season, so that it could be possible to meet the calls of our allies abroad and the needs at home. The response was wide and the quantities of food products have been tremendous. Now the danger is imminent that a serious loss of food will come from the inability of the farmers to procure labor for the harvesting. All over Eastern Massachusetts, where I am best acquainted with the actual condition of things, potatoes are being abandoned to rot in the ground, trees heavy with apples are left ungathered, and busy men with small holdings who in response to the call of last Spring had land turned over to farming, men whose business prevents their doing much in the way of securing their crops themselves, see their labor and expense go for nothing. The same story comes from all parts of the country; and the labor famine is evident everywhere. The Government is in honor bound to prevent the waste of effort it has stimulated.

In the mean time there is probably not a park in a city of the United States which is not decorated with able-bodied loafers. The unemployed because they choose to be unemployed, who sit about and discuss the injustice of the distribution of wealth, were never more in evidence. On every Sunday afternoon at least, and on other days not infrequently, Socialists and anarchists harangue in public places, urging strikes and the shirking of labor.

The necessities of the case make the existence of these two conditions side by side a monstrous inconsistency. The time has come for Congress to pass, as quickly as it is possible for the measure to be properly framed and handled, a bill establishing industrial regiments, filled by conscription. Every man able to work and unemployed should be subject; he should be paid a minimum or at least no more than an average wage; and the penalties for evasion should be near enough in severity to those for shirking military service to insure that the draft be taken seriously. If this country is to go through the present grave crisis and emerge in anything like decent condition, the industrial shirkers must be utilized or disposed of. Some of them will go into the army, but many men who are not eligible for military service are abundantly able to work. Moreover, the industrial draft should not be selective, but universal.

The idea of the establishment and maintenance of industrial regiments was the one important contribution of Thomas Carlyle to practical economics, and the working out of the scheme would not be difficult if once the principle be accepted. England has been at last forced to constrain the industrially unwilling; this country should take the matter up at once, without waiting for matters to become so bad that half the energy utilized must be devoted to remedying evils which might have been avoided.

Any system of compulsory labor would undoubtedly meet with the opposition of the labor unions, and it is not unlikely that the tyranny of these organizations is too firmly established to allow of the necessary legislation. Something of this sort is, however, imperatively needed, and it would solve more than one of the perplexing economic questions of the day. It would also be in the spirit of true democracy, as distinguished from a tyranny of labor agitators and politicians.

Librarians and Army Libraries.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been delighted to observe the amount of interest created in the subject of libraries for the army and navy. The communication in your issue of the 1st from Dr. Rossiter Johnson, giving his thoughts as to the manner in which such libraries should be handled, indicates that he has comparatively little confidence in the ability of librarians to handle such a matter intelligently. He will be glad to hear, however, that no catalogues are to be insisted upon, meticulous or otherwise, that classifications are to be confined to fiction and non-fiction, and that access to the shelves will be insisted upon in each instance. "The prettiest librarian in the country" will not be present—not on account of Dr. Johnson's objection, but by reason of the fact that the Secretary of War has barred women from this service.

Inasmuch as a simple charging system has been adopted, it may be said that the Committee of Librarians and Dr. Johnson are practically agreed as to the essentials. These buildings, good, strong, serviceable one-story affairs, will be in service within a short time, and we shall be glad to have Dr. Johnson examine the result and pass judgment thereon.

A Lincoln for London.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The London County Council possesses the power to refuse to erect any work of sculpture offered the metropolis. It is to be hoped in the case of this Lincoln they will exercise their power and not give Britons permanent proof of what they believe, that Lincoln was a guy and that American sculpture is funny. If, as you say, a statue of Lincoln is wanted to add to the awful marble yard or bronze foundry in Parliament Square, let us send a replica of Saint-Gaudens's Lincoln, a dignified presentment of one great American by another. It should prove an interesting object lesson to England in art and history.

GUYNEMER.

The hero of a hundred fights,
With fiery soul to fear unknown,
No longer scales empyreal heights
Nor ranges depths of air alone
To mark the foeman's albatross
Limned 'gainst the blue of distant sky;
Who counted death a gain, not loss,
As swift he onward sped on high,
Could he but grapple with that foe
And send him hurtling far below!

Sky scout was he in heaven's blue
Who trailed his foe through fields of air,
Or scanned with sight as eagle's true
The hidden battery in its lair!
Around him burst the screaming shell
As dauntless he sped on his way,
While far below flamed fires of hell
That showed where battle held its sway.
A knight in quest of joustings there,
The king of airmen, Guynemer!

Dead eagle of aerial plains
Who half a hundred fights had won,
In years to come when Silence reigns
O'er fields where War its course has run,
Proud France will mourn above thy tomb,
And travelers from distant lands
Will note where poppies reddest bloom
Above thy dust, and reverent hands
Will tend and guard his resting place—
This knightliest soul of France's race!

MASON STIRS HOUSE.

Illinois Member Defends Vote Against War and Draft, and Avows Patriotism.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Representative William Mason of Illinois, one of the men on whom Representative J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama cast suspicion in the recent exchanges of charges in the House of Representatives, today made his reply. It was a remarkable reply, in that Mr. Mason, known to American political audiences for forty years as a firebrand and a master of invective, today played on a minor key, and instead of arousing the House to a frenzy, when he took his seat there were many men openly dabbing at their eyes with handkerchiefs, while on the faces of several streams of tears were running.

Mr. Heflin, whose methods of debate are not of the softest, endeavored to make another speech, promising this time to name the "thirteen or fourteen" suspected. But the House refused to give the time. Representative Garner of Texas, a Democrat, blocked the request.

Representative Mason, taking the floor soon after the House met, read statements from the Congressional Record, wherein Mr. Heflin had made a broadside attack on him, coupling him with anarchists, I. W. W. men, traitors, German spies, and the powers of darkness in general. Mr. Mason read a letter he had sent to Mr. Heflin, asking for a retraction. He received no reply, he said, and had hesitated a long time before asking for an hour in which to take up the subject on the floor. He explained that Mr. Heflin had attacked him for introducing a bill to repeal the draft law. This, said Mr. Mason, was not a fact, as his bill would not repeal it, but would modify it in accordance with his own ideas.

"We are at war," he said, "and I feel like apologizing to the House for taking the time to reply to the statement of treason that has been made against me; and I say to you frankly that if he were as well known in my State as he is in Congress I should not waste time answering him."

After discussing the terms of his bill, which Mr. Heflin had called treasonable, Representative Mason said: "When the gentleman from Alabama says I am trying to keep or prevent any one from raising an army in defense of this country he state what is not true, and he knew it was not true when he said it to this House."

Representative Heflin flushed, and several members jumped up to stop the Illinois man. Representative Kitchin of North Carolina moved to strike the words from the Record, and on a viva voce vote the House noisily refused to take this suggestion. On a rising vote, in which only half the members present participated, the Kitchin motion was again rejected, 84 to 71. This rebuke to Mr. Heflin was received with applause by the Republicans and many Democrats. Mr. Mason then turned to the Speaker and withdrew the remark himself.

"Let me see what the facts are in my defense against this charge," he continued, "I voted against a declaration of war. I voted against conscription; and I have no apologies to make here or elsewhere for these votes. But when I voted for war in this forum I declared that if a majority wanted war I would under God give every power I had to maintain the army and the navy and the integrity of my country.

"And I have kept my word. Any man or any newspaper who says I have advised any one directly or indirectly, remotely or contingently, to disobey the conscription law states a malicious falsehood and the truth is not in him."

Mr. Mason denied vigorously the Heflin charge that he was holding and inspiring German meetings, but said he had called attention to the things "the war lords are doing to the treasury." Turning to the Southern members, he said:

"Treason! Why, from the time I was eleven years old until I was fifteen I stood guard nights along the river when I was too young to be enlisted. Ragged, I suffered as your boys did in the South; patched trousers, shirt made of a flour sack. I nursed the sick and stood at night with the old men and young boys of the Home Guard. When you declared war here I was disappointed; but within twenty-four hours the only son I have at home wired me asking me as to his duty. If I had been pro-German, if I had been guilty of treason, if I had not been willing to surrender my individual opinion to the majority, the result would have been different. But before the sun set on the day war was declared my son had the permission and the blessing and the consent of his father and mother.

"You talk of sacrifices—that boy was the only one left at home—it took more sacrifice and more patriotism to say 'Go' than the man ever had who raises any question as to my loyalty."

Committee Expects to Raise $1,500,000 to Buy Books for Army.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Library War Council, of which Frank A. Vanderlip is Chairman, reported to Secretary Baker today that $800,000 of the proposed million dollar camp library fund was in the hands of its Treasurers. The members of the council believe that the million dollars it originally aimed to raise will be oversubscribed by nearly five hundred thousand dollars.

New York City reports the largest receipts with its local fund well over the $100,000 mark. Chicago has collected more than $50,000, and Boston $40,000.

SAYS PEOPLE BACK WILSON.

'Wonderful Solidarity' Here, Frankfurter Zeitung Writer Thinks.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 3.—Rudolf Kommer, former American correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, in a long editorial admits that President Wilson has a majority of the American people behind him and encounters little opposition from Republicans.

"It almost seems," he writes, "as if Wilson were hit with his own weapon, since if all opposition were withdrawn he would suffocate in an atmosphere of agreement.

Kommer says the news from America is naturally "only too American" and in "skyscraper style." He mocks at reports of large sums voted for the war.

Apparently he wishes to warn Germans, as he admits the American situation looks more menacing for Germany. He asks whether the American people would not be interested to hear of the aims of the war, as "after a half-year of phrases about democracy and autocracy more substantial nourishment will be required."

The writer says President Wilson's temperament will not tolerate a strong personality in his vicinity and that he went into the war with a "Cabinet of subalterns." He says the Republicans were disappointed that Wilson had outdone their wildest dreams of strenuous war measures and that no one can reproach the present Administration with lukewarmness, though he refers to the former "triumvirate of milk, lemonade, and cider," meaning Wilson, Daniels, and Baker.

"President Wilson," he writes, "was a pacifist until 1916, Daniels a pacifist until 1915, and Baker a social reform Mayor and pacifist until 1917." He finds it remarkable that even Bryan supports Wilson.

"The first half year of war," he comments, "has brought a tremendous and wonderful solidarity in the enormous crucible and the uniform domestic front must be recognized as the biggest triumph of Americanism."

POPE ASKS MERCIER VISIT.

Falkenhausen Will Let Cardinal Go to Rome Only on Conditions.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Belgian newspaper correspondents announce, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph Company, that General von Falkenhausen, the German Governor General of Belgium, has received a request from the Vatican to permit Cardinal Mercier, the Primate of Belgium, to visit Rome some time before Christmas on an important political errand.

General Falkenhausen is understood to have replied that he could only grant passports to the Cardinal if the prelate undertook not to misuse his trip for purposes of anti-German propaganda.

DISMISSAL ILLEGAL, CATTELL DECLARES

DENIES ANY ACT OF SEDITION

Has Taken Part In No Agitation Against Government, Conduct of War, or Draft Law.

Professor J. McKeen Cattell, who with Professor H. W. L. Dana was dismissed from the Faculty of Columbia University on Monday because of pacifist activities, yesterday broke the silence he had maintained, and in a formal statement said his dismissal was unfair and illegal. His statement follows:

> It is contrary to academic traditions, maintained for six hundred years, to dismiss a university professor on account of his opinions expressed in a proper way to experts in the subject. It is illegal to dismiss a professor in the middle of the academic year on false charges, without payment for the year and without the pension which he had earned by twenty six years of service.
> I am opposed to war and to this war, but I have undertaken no agitation against the Government nor against its conduct of the war. I have written nothing against the draft law or against sending armies to Europe, although I regard both measures as subversive of the national welfare.
> In August, 1914, when President Wilson was telling us to be neutral in thought as well as in deed and Mr. Roosevelt was "pussyfooting," I wrote in a journal that I edit:
> "The official German justification of the mad and wanton European war is that it is a defense of the Teutonic culture and people against the semi-Asiatic and barbaric Slav hordes. The verdict of history will probably be that it was a war of calculation for caste and national aggrandizement, and a war of miscalculation. The German Emperor and his bureaucratic militarist entourage probably held that the time was ripe for an extension of German influence in the Balkans and towards Asia Minor with an increase of its African possessions at the expense of France. But it is by no means clear why, if the serpent was prepared to use its fangs, it did not show its alleged wisdom. * * * We may look for a second Napoleon the little rather than for a second Napoleon the great."
> In June, 1917, I began a letter to the New York Evening Post with the words:
> The letter that I wrote on Aug. 23 to members of the Congress, on account of which I have been dismissed from the chair of psychology at Columbia University, asked support for a measure then before the Senate and the House to prohibit sending conscripts "to fight in Europe against their will," there is no law requiring or permitting the President to send "conscientious objectors" to fight in Europe. To do this would be contrary to the intent of the constitution and to the uniform policy of the nation. It would provide a less efficient army and might cause disorder and possible revolution at home. Surely this should not be done without careful consideration by the Congress after efforts to ascertain the will of the people. I have done nothing except exercise the constitutional right and fulfil the duty of a citizen to petition the Government to enact legislation which I believe to be in the interest of the nation. For this I am dismissed from the Division of Philosophy, Psychology and Anthropology of Columbia University, which I have made the strongest in any university in the world. Professors in every university are terrorized, so that they dare not exert their influence for peace and goodwill.
> The peoples of all the European nations long for peace, but are kept at war by the kleptocratic classes. In spite of the institutions and the instincts which we have inherited from a barbarous past, I believe that our people have no heart for this war into which they have been driven. But even if the nation should become a mob, mad for war, it is none the less the business of each of us to do what he can for righteousness as he sees it. If that is forbid by force, then, indeed, we need a new national anthem, such as Shelley once wrote for England:
> God prosper, speed, and save,
> God raise from England's grave
> Her murdered Queen!
> Pave with swift victory
> The steps of Liberty,
> Whom Britons own to be
> J. McKEEN CATTELL.

Newspaper offices were called on the telephone yesterday and told that there would be a meeting of students in the School of Journalism at Columbia yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock to protest against the ousting of the two pacifist professors. The meeting was not held.

FINDS SEDITION LAW AMPLE.

Magistrate House Quotes Authorities on Disorderly Conduct.

In a memorandum prepared for City Magistrates in war time, made public yesterday, Magistrate Frederick B. House declared that the disorderly conduct law was ample to meet sedition. Quoting from legal authorities and court opinions of this and other countries, he showed that the present law of New York embraces the offense of seditious publication or anti-American soap-box oratory, and expressed the opinion that the Legislature might well give the courts power to impose heavier penalities in cases of disorderly conduct if the nature of the offense justified it.

"Speaking of the constitutional right of a free press and of free speech," said Magistrate House, "the Court of Appeals of this State—People vs. Most, 171, N. Y.—has said that all courts and commentators contrast the liberty of the press and speech with its licentiousness, and

REGINALD RONALDS TO MARRY DIVORCEE

WED IN MANHASSET TODAY

His Former Wife, who was Thora Strong, Was a Social Leader—Bride-to-be Once Chorus Girl.

Reginald Ronalds, prominent socially, and a former Rough Rider with Colonel Roosevelt, will be married today to Mrs. Mildred Combs of Elm Point, Great Neck, L. I. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Charles L. Newbold, Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, in the rectory of the church at Manhasset, L. I.

The first intimation that Mr. Ronalds, who was divorced from his first wife in 1910, was to remarry came yesterday, when he and Mrs. Combs visited the office of Town Clerk Thomas O'Connell at Manhasset and obtained a marriage license.

After the ceremony at the rectory, which will be in the afternoon, a large reception will be held at the home of the bride.

In the application for the license Mr. Ronalds gave his age as 46 years, occupation retired, and said that he and his former wife were divorced in this city on Nov. 23, 1910. Mrs. Combs gave her age as 26, and said that she received a divorce in Denver on June 18, 1915.

Mrs. Combs was married to Albert H. Combs of this city, a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Combs, in 1912, at Summit, N. J., after a brief courtship. Before her marriage she had appeared in the chorus of several musical comedies. In her divorce proceedings she charged her husband with cruelty, and the suit was not contested.

Mr. Ronalds's first wife was Miss Thora Strong, a daughter of Charles H. Strong, President of the Erie & Pittsburg Railroad. They were married in February, 1906, and lived at 876 Fifth Avenue. They had one daughter, Miss Thora Strong Ronalds, and the mother received the custody of the only child at her divorce four years after her marriage. The former Mrs. Ronalds was prominent in society, and was presented at the Court of St. James in London, shortly after her marriage, which was arranged by her then mother-in-law, Mrs. Pierre Lorillard Ronalds.

Last July society was surprised to learn that she had remarried. Although she was married on June 28 to Clyde B. Leavitt, a teller of the First National Bank at Erie, Penn., it did not become known until a week later.

Mr. Ronalds lives at the Racquet and Tennis Club and is also a member of the Knickerbocker and Brook Clubs.

HAVE YOU A SWEETHEART,

Son or Brother in training camps in the American Army or Navy? If so, mail him a package of ALLEN'S FOOT=EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath. The British and French troops in Europe, and the American troops use Allen's Foot=Ease, because it takes the Friction from the Shoe and freshens the feet. It is the greatest comforter for tired, aching, tender, swollen feet, and gives relief to corns and bunions. The Plattsburg Camp Manual, chapter on General Advice, states: "Every morning shake a little talcum powder or Foot=Ease in each shoe." Ask your dealer to-day for a 25c. box of Allen's Foot=Ease, and for a 2c. stamp he will mail it for you. What remembrance could be so acceptable?

MRS. CATT ASSAILS HER WAR CRITICS

CALLS KAISER CHIEF ANTI

Also Asserts That Anarchists and I. W. W. Leaders Are Enemies of Cause She Represents.

Accusing the anti-suffragists of impugning her loyalty to the country, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, after consultation with her lawyer, is sending an open letter to Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage; Mrs. Robert Lansing, and Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, President of the State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. A copy was also sent to Mrs. Margaret Robinson of Cambridge, Mass., who is Chairman of the Press Committee and responsible for literature sent out to all parts of the country.

The letter addressed to Mrs. Robinson says that the attention of the writer has been called to the fact that she, Mrs. Robinson, is circulating statements in public letters and bulletins "that impugn my loyalty as an American and thereby put in jeopardy my good name and reputation."

"These statements are made by you with willful intent to injure my name and standing in the community or are statements which you are publishing without having made effort to establish their proof. I hereby set forth the facts which you have distorted into untruths either by contrary statements or by implications."

A statement in Bulletin 168 says that Mrs. Catt as a "pacifist and Socialist" brought Frau Rosika Schwimmer into this country, that Frau Schwimmer formed the People's Council, and Mrs. Catt is, therefore, responsible for the work of the council which "demands the overthrow of the Government. Mrs. Catt believes in suffrage first; she has proposed that the Constitution be torn into shreds if it stands in the way of woman suffrage," says the bulletin.

Another bulletin allies the suffrage movement with the I. W. W., whose leaders, it says, are ardent advocates of woman suffrage and are doing in America what they are doing in Russia—betraying the cause of democracy.

Mrs. Catt says she did not bring Frau Schwimmer to this country, that Frau Schwimmer is not an officer of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, and that although she believes in her integrity as a woman she does not sympathize with her "sincere if impractical peace plan." Of the I. W. W. she says:

"Your effort to link me by implication with the I. W. W. activities is also untruthful and malicious. As a matter of fact you can be aligned with them by a far straighter connection than you have dared to make in your attacks upon me. The I. W. W. is almost the only large labor organization that has not indorsed woman suffrage. Its leaders are antis, and their well-known supporters, Bill Haywood and Emma Goldman, share your views, not mine, on the suffrage question. The most vigorous opponent of woman suffrage in the world, and consequently an ally of yours, is the Kaiser of Germany.

"Would you call it anything short of malicious and wilful injury should I imply I shall hold you accountable for any charges you make that insidiously declare me responsible for activities which render our country a prey to a foreign power."

OPEN SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGN.

Men's Experience Meeting Held at Carnegie Hall.

On a platform decorated with many flags and a few suffrage banners men representing varied interests gave their reasons for believing in woman suffrage at a "men's experience meeting" at Carnegie Hall last evening, opening the 1917 campaign for the woman suffragists of New York. James Byrne presided.

Richard Billings said that a household of women devoted to charity had made him a suffragist. "It is a splendid thing to be a Lady Bountiful," he said, "but better to be a good citizen. The world now thinks less of charity and more of Roosevelt's square deal. I believe the women are back of that in New York."

Commissioner John A. Kingsbury said he could not remember when he was not a suffragist.

"If justice is denied woman because of her sex, you might as well keep her from work, society, and church as the ballot box," said Judge W. H. Wadhams.

"It took us ten years to pass a child labor bill in New Jersey and keep children from working all night," said Everett Colby, "because every Senator had some factory owner to please. Every organization of women in the State was for that bill, and I believe if they had had the vote we would have passed it in a day."

"Wise women need the vote to give their wisdom to the world," said Walter Damrosch," and foolish women to learn that there are things more important than their petty vanities."

John Mitchell, before he began a strong speech for woman suffrage, told the audience that since he had been appointed Tuesday night as Chairman of the State Food Control Commission, he had been asked if he had solved the food question. "I go to Albany tonight, ladies," he said; "I will solve it tomorrow."

"I am supposed to say something on the relation of the nervous system to the vote," said Dr. Frederick Peterson. "Experts differ. One neurologist thinks it is a neurotic symptom that women desire the vote. I can say that in my experience several of the most neurotic patients I ever had were militant anti-suffragists."

OPPOSES SUFFRAGE PARADE.

Antis Warn Women "Not to be Misled" by Patriotic Features.

Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, President of the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, has issued a protest against the suffrage parade which is to take place Oct. 27, and the State anti-suffrage organization has taken up the subject at a meeting. The anti-suffragists have issued a warning to their members not to be led astray because the parade is called a "woman's parade," with divisions for "mothers of soldiers and sailors" and "women rendering patriotic service."

"As there are more than 512,000 women in this city enrolled for woman suffrage," Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Chairman of the Suffrage Party of New York State, said yesterday, referring to the warning, "and more than 1,011,500 women enrolled in the State, it can easily be seen how many mothers, wives, and sisters of soldiers and sailors there are who will welcome this opportunity to show their patriotism. Certainly we do not expect any anti-suffragists to march unless they become converted and see that love of country and a desire to serve are the basis of the overwhelming demand for suffrage on the part of the women of New York State."

Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, Editorial Chairman of the Leslie Suffrage Bureau, said:

"The anti-suffragists have figured that 25,000 paraders will actually waste in walking up Fifth Avenue five years, five months and eight days that should be given to patriotic work. How about the several thousand Red Cross nurses who will parade on Thursday? Wouldn't they be better employed in nursing the sick and wounded? And those many parades of soldiers? Shouldn't they be in the training camps hard at work?"

NEWTON HITS AT PICKETS.

Malone's Successor Refers to Them as "The Freaks of Their Sex."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The press agent of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage has given out an interview by Byron R. Newton, the new Collector of Customs at New York, which quotes him as saying of the defeat of suffrage in Maine:

"In this great world crisis I feel like thanking God that there are in this country still left so many real women who appreciate the power womanhood has always had and exerted in the development of civilization. I believe that the war may be a blessing to our country, in checking what I regard as a menace to civilization—and by menace I mean that group of restless, abnormal women who seem to have a perverted and diseased ambition to do anything and everything except those things which God Almighty and nature designed them to do.

"Women have set the milestones of progress along the path of civilization in this world, and I am truly thankful that the American women—despite the freaks of their sex—are rising to the occasion and continuing to do that splendid work. The true woman knows that working in a woman's way she exerts a force in the world superior to that of man. But when women attempt to leave their own realm and do man's work in a man's way they lose their power in the world, just as men would become weakened and ridiculous if they should attempt to invade the realm which nature and civilization have set apart for women."

DENIES CRITICISM OF LOAN.

Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer Says Speech at Baltimore Was Misquoted.

Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer, member of the Advisory Council of the National Woman's Party, emphatically denied last night a report that she had urged Suffragist leaders not to work for the second Liberty Loan. Mrs. Havemeyer was quoted as having, at a Suffrage meeting in Baltimore last Tuesday, denounced the Government for its attitude on the woman suffrage question in general, and its action in regard to White House pickets in particular. She was reported to have said: "I haven't the nerve to ask for money for a battle for democracy when we, who demand true democracy, are thrown into jail for doing so."

A reporter's error was the way in which Mrs. Havemeyer explained the misquotation.

"The newspaper men who reported my speech must have misunderstood me," she declared. "I did subscribe to the last Liberty Loan, and I intend to subscribe to this loan. I would love to get out and work for it. You know I am a suffragist who favors action by Constitutional amendment, and I feel very keenly about my party. I did say that, feeling as I do, I couldn't speak for the loan as heartily as I might wish. I also expressed the wish that we women in America might be given our democracy in order that we, like the women of England, would be better able to reveal the true splendor of American womanhood."

A protest was made at the headquarters of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, 171 Madison Avenue, yesterday, where news of Mrs. Havemeyer's denial of her reported assertions had not been received. The National Board, which was in session all the afternoon, passed a resolution repudiating Mrs. Havemeyer's reported words and urging the members of the association to work for the success of the second Liberty Loan.

"The last thing I did before I left Washington last Friday," said Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Honorary President of the association, and Chairman of the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense, "was to urge the women of the country to put aside all other service until the Liberty Loan was raised. Mrs. Havemeyer, in speaking as she does, represents her own opinion, but not that of the great body of suffragists in this country."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, National President, who is a member of the Liberty Loan Committee, said that Mrs. Havemeyer's reported statements were not representative of the feelings of the big body of suffragists.

"There was not a State in this Union," said Mrs. Catt, "where the organized suffragists did not work for the last Liberty Loan."

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 3.—The activities of the Just Government League of Maryland, before the members of which Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer of New York spoke yesterday, and its publication, The Maryland Suffrage News, have been called to the attention of the District Attorney's office here. The local committee issued a statement today criticising the meeting.

GIANTS END SEASON WITH DOUBLE VICTORY OVER PHILLIES AND START WESTWARD

GIANTS WIN TWO IN SERIES REHEARSAL

FERDIE SCHUPP ON MOUND

Holds Moran's Men Hitless During His Four Innings in Box—Rookies Take Second Fray.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 3.—The obsequies of the National League season were held here today, 3,000 mourners suffering as the Phillies went down in a double defeat by the Giants. The cream of McGraw's talent, lined up just as it will face the White Sox in Chicago on Saturday, ran away with the first game, 11 to 1, while a troupe of rookies won the second game, 6 to 0. The event gave New York the official grasp on the National League championship. The Giants won 98 games and lost 56, an average of .636. They won over the Phillies by a margin of ten games.

The Giants held a regular full dress rehearsal in the first game, with the fielding, batting, and pitching power turned on to the limit. Zimmerman and Herzog did some fielding tricks which were astonishing, while Ferdie Schupp showed that he was in great shape, holding the Phila hitless during the four innings he was on the hillock. The Giants made nineteen hits off Lavender and Fittery, one a homer, and seven two-baggers. Why, even Jim Thorpe got the fever and laced out a couple of hits.

McGraw had his men on their toes in this first session, and they looked like real champions. The two scouting Chicagoans, Eddie Collins and Cicotte, got their four eyes full today. As a final rehearsal the Giants' performance was a whoop of a success. They all knew their parts perfectly, and if they don't stutter and hem and haw at the first performance of the world's series circus in Chicago Saturday, their part of the show ought to be a success.

Giants Off for Chicago.

Just as soon as the season was declared interred the Giants hurried into their latest fall clothes, boarded the Manhattan special, and started on a swift flight for the Great Lakes region, where they have an important date to keep with a certain crowd of Chicago citizens.

It cost Joe Oeschger, the Quaker twirler, just $500 for losing the second game to McGraw's kid players. Joe was to have received a bonus of $500 if he won fifteen games this season. He had won fourteen up to today, and he thought he already had the money in his wallet when he was sent against the rookies. McGraw's youngsters, however, proved about as effective as the pennant winners, so Oeschger will have to give Palm Beach the go-by this Winter.

The Giants' first run in the opening game came in the nature of a gift from Johnny Evers in the second inning. After Burns singled to left, Herzog hit a grounder at Evers, who was trying his hand at third base, and he threw the ball high over Luderus's head. Burns scoring and Herzog going to third. Herzog scored on Zimmerman's single to left.

Lavender got a hard bumping in the fourth. Robertson poked a homer over the barricade in centre field. Holke singled to left, and McCarty's fly sailed to Whitted. Schupp doubled to left, sending Holke to third. Burns's sharp grasser through short scored Holke and Schupp. Burns going to second. Then Herzog's single to centre pushed Burns across.

Fletcher Hits in Vain.

Fletcher made a rousing double in the fifth, but he was declared out by Lord Byron for batting out of order. A bonehead play by the typesetter who set up the score card caused the mistake. Fletcher didn't care, for in the next inning he got another two-bagger. He went to third on Holke's single, and when Rariden grounded to Dugey, Fletcher was run down between third and home, Rariden going to third on the play. He scored on Smith's out at first.

Schupp pitched four innings and didn't give a hit. Pearce got the first Philadelphia hit when he got a lucky double off Smith in the fifth, Kauff losing the ball in the sun. Kauff got an infield single in the seventh, and Zim's single sent him to third. Jim Thorpe, batting for Robertson, doubled to left, scoring Kauff and sending Zim to third. Heinie was run down at the plate after Fletcher grounded to Fittery. Holke's single sent Thorpe home.

The Phils saved themselves from a whitewash in the seventh, when Luderus singled and scored on Dugey's double to centre. The Giants kept up the fusillade in the ninth, and singles by Zimmerman and Robertson, followed by Holke's double, gave McGraw's men two more runs.

A flock of Giant understudies infested the second game, the collection being a crowd of perfect strangers to the natives here. With two down in the second, Jimmy Smith doubled to right and scored on Gibson's single. Smith was then excused for the day, Young doubled in the third and scored on Baird's single. Kauff's one-base rap sent Baird to second; Thorpe's out sent the runners along a station, and when Hemmeway got a scratch hit Baird scored, but Kauff was out at third.

McGraw's kindergartners got another in the fifth. Ross Young, the "phenom" from Texas, soaked a three-bagger to centre and scored on Baird's single. This Young plays ball like an oldtimer and looks like the best of all the colt players.

Young slammed out another triple in the seventh and scored on Baird's single. The rookies' final count came in the eighth, when Onslow doubled, went to third on an out, and scored on Young's sacrifice fly. Young was one busy lad. The Giants used Anderson and Tesreau as pitchers for four innings, and then George Kelly made his début as a boxman. He's a better pitcher than he is a pinch-hitter.

DODGERS DIVIDE HONORS.

Fail to Dislodge Braves in Seething Contest for Sixth Place.

Last reports from the Flatbush frontier had the Brooklyn Robins a little more definitely fixed in seventh place in the final standing of the National League season of 1917. Yesterday at Ebbets Field the champions of last year split the honors of a double-header with their rivals for sixth place, the Boston Braves, and nothing short of beating Boston in the season's closing two games this afternoon will save the leaders of a year ago from next to the last rung in the league ladder.

Before a crowd of about 500 shivering fans the Bostons disposed of the Robins in the first game in a businesslike fashion. Sturdy stickwork produced a victory by 9 to 3. In the second encounter conditions were reversed, and Brooklyn won, 3 to 1. The only thing that reminded the handful of fans of the champions of last year was the calico flying to the breeze from the fence in centre field, which boldly declared Brooklyn champions of the N. L., 1916. Otherwise things happened as they did in years before 1916. The crowd was impassive; it hardly emitted a full-sized cheer through the two games.

Brooklyn never really got started in the opening encounter, although they did manage to show in front for the first inning. Larry Cheney was chosen by Manager Robinson to tame the Braves, but Larry works best on warm days, and yesterday wasn't warm at all. The result was that veteran Larry was relieved of further duty in the fifth, after Boston had jumped to a lead of 4 to 1. Colby Jack Coombs went to the mound in the sixth, but he was less effective than Cheney. The first Brave to face him, Covington, belted a home run to left centre, and then Smith tripled to left. All told four Braves' runs were tallied before the third out, and this was enough for Colby Jack. In the seventh Jack Miljus went in and he prevented any further serious outbreaks.

The Robins gave vent to their feelings in the second game and humiliated Lefty George Tyler for the suffering that had been imposed in the opener. Rube Marquard twirled for the Robins and while he allowed more hits for Boston than Brooklyn collected off Tyler, the Rube kept himself out of danger while his teammates batted out a victory and played good defensive ball.

DR. ADAMS HAS BEST SCORE.

Won Prize for Best Gross Card in Union League Club Golf Tourney.

Forty-five golfers, members of the Union League Club, played over the links of the Knollwood Country Club yesterday in their annual one-day tournament. The individual honors were won by Dr. W. Adams, who carried off the prize offered for the best gross score with a card of 75, and in addition was one of the winning team in a four-ball match in the afternoon. Dr. Adams' partner in the afternoon competition was J. G. Robinson and their card was the best returned of any of those who took part. Dr. Adams further displayed his prowess with the clubs by finishing second in the battle for the low net prize. This was won by Dr. C. S. Carter, whose card showed 84, 16-68, while Dr. Adams was second, with 75, 6-69.

YANKS' SAD STORY HAS HAPPY ENDING

They Win Last Half of Twin Bill from Macks as Curtain Drops on Their Season.

Whatever have been the shortcomings of the Yankees, and even the most ardent fan will not deny that there have been many, at least there was a happy ending to the season of lost hopes at the Polo Grounds yesterday when the Donovan clan secured the last game of a double header with the Athletics and gracefully bade adieu to about 300 hardened baseball fans, who braved the cold to see the last act of the baseball tragedy. The score of this game was 3 to 2, and it was won by a spirited bit of play and a fine batting rally, which made the Yanks look rather better than sixth position team.

The first half of the double header was not so gratifying, for this went to the Connie Mack men at 3 to 1, but for all that it was good baseball. There was, however, a persistent thought of why play so hard or so well when there was nothing to be gained and nothing to be lost.

Bill Piercy, the same who has worn a Yankee uniform at intervals, took upon himself the task of curbing the Athletics, and the recruit did fairly well, except for the eighth inning of the first game, when his curves lost some of their elusiveness and the pellet bounded away for a series of three singles, which, combined with an unfortunate pass, spilled the game beyond redemption. In one thing at least the Yankees were consistent; they couldn't hit, and hitting has a lot to do with winning most ball games.

It looked for a time as if the second game would go the way of the first, and that the Donovan men would not have even the consolation of a final victory to tide them over the long Winter. The Quakers were not absolutely ferocious. However, for a team in last place they played with rather more than expected strength, and by dint of timely hitting and a wild pitch on the part of J. Franklin Baker, sometime home-run hitter of ability, the Athletics garnered a 2 to 1 lead, which looked as comfortable as an old shoe when the game passed the seventh inning stage.

No one expected the Yankees at this late moment in the struggle to rise in wrath and flay the ball in a way that would snatch them from the brink of a painless baseball death. When Pipp loosed up a smashing single through the box that Myers never even saw at the start of the eighth inning, the peanut venders stopped shouting their wares and took note of the game. Lamar, who had been doing some nifty fielding, singled right, and the rally was fairly started. Then came Vick with a double to left that scored Pipp. Fewster walked, and Nunamaker sailed a sacrifice fly to left that gave Lamar the opportunity to score. Mogridge forced Vick at third and Miller died out to centre.

The mention of Mogridge's name is a reminder that it was he who saved the last game of the season. Recruit McGraw was on the mound for two innings, and while his delivery was not much damaged, still one run was scored by the Athletics, and more were in sight. Furthermore, even the dyed-in-the-wool fans were getting peeved at his deliberate pitching. Just about three minutes elapsed between the balls he pitched, and it was dreary and cold in the stands.

Somebody, not Bill Donovan, for he was in the stand himself, decided that torture was not advisable, and Mogridge went in and pitched masterly ball. He omitted the long pauses, wherefore the game of an hour and fourteen minutes stands as a record for the Yankees, who, whether they win or lose, are in the habit of devoting a couple of hours or more to the fray.

New York scored the first run, a pass to Baker and a single by Pipp through short contributing the situation for a double steal that worked well, Baker romping home. The Athletics tied things up in the next inning after two were down. Shannon singled to right and stole second. He scored when Grover singed to left. In the sixth inning Jamieson singled to right, and Baker's wild toss of Witt's grounder, on which he made a pretty stop, let Jamieson complete the circuit.

JOHNSON BLANKS RED SOX.

Victory Brings with It Trophy Offered by 101st U. S. A. Regiment.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Walter Johnson pitloted Washington to a 6 to 0 victory over Boston today. He outpitched Ruth, who performed for Boston, and with the bases filled in the eighth inning cleared them with a two-base drive.

Johnson was presented a large silver trophy for his triumph. The cup was offered by the associates of the 101st U. S. A. Regiment, formerly the Ninth Massachusetts, to the pitcher of the winning team. The Boston club's share of the gate receipts of the game was given to the 101st Regiment.

CONQUERING SOX GET HOME

Practice for World's Series Begins Today—Giants to Meet Cubs.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Bringing with them the first championship Chicago has won in the American League in 11 years, the White Sox returned today to begin final practice for the world's series with New York, which begins Saturday.

Practice will be started tomorrow morning, Manager Rowland announced. The players will be kept on the field practically all day. Rain prevented the practice game today with the Cleveland Americans. The players received congratulations from Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club, during the afternoon. Tonight they were banqueted by the Woodland Bards, an organization composed of Mr. Comiskey's friends. Covers for 1,500 persons were laid.

Chicagoans will have a final opportunity tomorrow to see the New York club in action before the series. The National League champions will play an exhibition game with the Chicago Nationals at Weeghman Park. The contest is designed to put the Giants on edge for the series. The New York club will arrive from Philadelphia at 2 p. m. Automobiles will be waiting to rush them to the ball park.

Manager Rowland of the Chicago club, announced tonight that he would extend an invitation to Manager McGraw of the Giants to use the White Sox field for practice Friday any time the club desires.

"If my team is on the field and McGraw wants to use it, I'll call the players off," Rowland said. "There will be no repetition of the 1914 series when George Stallings, manager of the Boston club, raised a protest because of the alleged turndown he received from Manager Mack of Philadelphia over the use of the Athletics' field for practice."

With the distribution of the reserved and box seats set for tomorrow, scalpers tonight assured inquirers that they would be able to purchase tickets. The speculators said they will place seats on sale at noon tomorrow. The scalpers are asking $50 for three box seats, which sold for $5, and $35 for reserved for the three games. These seats have a face value of $1.50.

Chief of Police Schuettler and a score of his captains will meet tomorrow and officers will form plans to prevent scalping at the ball park. The speculators, if caught, will be arrested.

Penn Eleven Overwhelms Albright 73 to 10 in Opening Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 3.—The University of Pennsylvania football team overwhelmed the Albright eleven 73 to 10 in the opening game of the season on Franklin Field today. Although minus the services of several 'Varsity players, who have enlisted in the Government service, Pennsylvania smashed through the visitors' line almost at will, scoring ten touchdowns and a field goal.

Yates of Albright, when Pennsylvania put its team of second string players in the last period, captured a pass, and raced three-quarters of the length of the field for the visitors' only touchdown.

The lineup:

ST. PAUL DOWNS FREEPORT.

Garden City Eleven Wins by a Score of 50 to 0.

St. Paul's School football eleven, showing a marked improvement over their form of a week ago, yesterday trounced the eleven of Freeport High School in a one-sided game on the former's gridiron at Garden City, L. I., by the score of 50 to 0.

Against the efforts of the Freeport team the work of the Garden City eleven was easily effective, the latter aggregation employing the forward pass successfully on four different occasions. Touchdowns were made by Bigelow and Peixotto, who made two each; Johnson, three, and Vanderbilt one, while Cole kicked two goals from touchdown. The touchdown by Vanderbilt was the most spectacular, coming, as it did, after a spirited twenty yards dash through the Freeport line.

N. Y. U. HAS SIGNAL DRILL.

Formations Rehearsed for Opening Game of Season.

With the first game only two days distant, the coaches at New York University yesterday laid particular stress on signal drill, as well as actual scrimmage. Both before and after the scrimmage the squad was put through a signal drill, using all plays and formations. In the scrimmage both the scrubs and regulars were given opportunities at offense and defense in order to let the coaches rehearse each play under game conditions. Delayed runs and the forward pass were both tried. At the latter play Gardiner, a newcomer from the School of Commerce, showed an uncanny ability to pick the pigskin out of the air.

Yesterday marked the first appearance of Fernandez, who has returned to college and is trying for the position of tackle, for which his height and weight well fit him. Another newcomer in the regulars' lineup yesterday was Crams, a medical student, who plays in the backfield.

The combination that was used most and seemed to give the best results in the tussle with the scrubs

Silk Underwear Much Sought.

Never before, it is said in the trade, has silk underwear for women been so much in popular demand as during the Fall season thus far. And while once the mere fact that a garment was silk was enough to make it sell now, it is said, cheap silk or skimpily cut garments are not acceptable. The call is for quality in materials and workmanship and trimmings, and price seems to cut but a small figure. Though crêpe de chine and washable satins still hold the lead, novelties also are moving vigorously. Pink is everywhere the prevailing color, with blue in many instances running a close second.

Silk Market Still Inactive.

Dullness, according to report, continues in the local silk market with but little interruption. Prices, however, seem to be holding up fairly well with the possible exception of taffetas, in which here and there, it is said, there has been more or less price shading to get business. Crêpe de chine is not quite so active as last week, though other crêpes and georgettes are said to be holding up very well. Satins, in the darker colors for Fall and Winter and the lighter shades for Spring, are fairly active. Feeling throughout the trade, in spite of the momentary dullness, is good, and renewed demand is anticipated in the near future.

Women's Neckwear in Demand.

Manufacturers of women's neckwear, as a resut of the coming into prominence of the high-necked collar, are said to be doing a thriving business. Filet, because of its durability and because it launders easily, is said to be most favored for general use. Satin for semi-formal occasions is also a large item, being particularly well adapted to the narrow roll shapes that are the mode. The impossibility of laundering satin collars, however, is pointed to as an indication that continued reorders will result in much expense to the purchaser that ultimately they will be discarded as impractical. Domestic embroidery and handiwork are said to be getting a fair share of the increased sales in neckwear.

Gray Goods Prices Higher.

Higher prices on gray cloths in this market followed the further rise in cotton here yesterday, and, while there was plenty of inquiry reported, especially for printcloths, business was hampered because most of the propositions made by buyers had to be referred to the mills for final acceptance. Because of this, the actual yardage disposed of was not as large as would otherwise have been the case. Notable among the day's business were sales of nearly 2834-inch 64-60s at 10 cents, with an eighth more asked for spots. Business into 1918 also was reported on this construction, and it was said that if any buyer got the goods out for this delivery under 10 cents he did well. More or less scattered business was done on other printcloths and on heavy bag sheetings. In several cases, however, the prices quoted below were what the mills wanted for spot goods, rather than those established by actual sales:

39-inch, 72-76s.. 14½@15¼-inch, 64-68s.. 9¾c
39-inch, 68-72s.. 14½@15¼, 60-52s.. 9¼c
39-inch, 56-44s.. 8¾@9¼-inch, 60-48s.. 8¾c

The Buyers Are Getting Wise.

The delays that buyers of knit goods have met with in the last several seasons, in getting deliveries of orders that were held off a bit, are apparently responsible for the amount of business that is being taken by jobbers' salesmen now on the road with Spring lines. In spite of the increased prices, buyers are said to be covering their needs much more fully than it was expected would be the case, particularly in view of the fact that formal openings have not yet been made by certain factors in the trade and that the salesmen are on the road with some lines missing from their samples. The current season is not producing much in the way of news, aside from the complaints that are heard about slow deliveries. In the primary markets there is very little new in relation either to Spring or Fall goods.

Drug Prices Still Advancing.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that the stringency of supplies of crude materials of this kind has limited transactions here in the last week and caused a further advance in prices. Some manufacturers who are filling Government orders find it difficult to make deliveries on outstanding contracts. Distillers have lowered the price of denatured alcohol, and reductions also have been made in acetphenetidin, caffeine alkaloid, and refined camphor. The requisitioning of vessels by the Government is causing some unrasiness among exporters. Complaints of delays in obtaining export permits and difficulty in getting shiping room are still heard.

Waistmakers Doing Big Business.

The spurt of the last few weeks in suit sales is said to be reflected in an increased call for waists, according to a number of local manufacturers. Many of them are said to be doing a larger volume of business this Fall than they have experienced for many years, and the prediction is made by many in the trade that business for next Spring will be even greater. The fact that prices in most cases are way up, due to labor costs advancing from 10 to 15 per cent. and to a 25 to 50 per cent. increase in raw materials, does not seem to be affecting the trade adversely. As usual, the cool weather trade runs mostly to georgette and crêpe de chine.

Big Purchases of Onion Seed.

American buyers have taken practically all of the largest crop of onion seed ever produced in the Canary Islands, according to Consul G. K. Stiles, who is at Teneriffe. Final shipments brought the 1917 value of the seed sent to this country up to $137,289, of which $5,407 worth went to Porto Rico. While good results had been expected, according to Mr. Stiles, even the most optimistic planters were surprised by the great quantities of high-grade seed produced and the large buying orders from the United States. The increased size of these purchases may be gained from comparison with the 1916 and 1915 shipments, which totaled $84,387 and $40,828, respectively.

To Establish New Trade Bureau.

Activities growing out of the appointment some time ago of a Committee on Retail Co-operation by the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association will result in the establishment of a Bureau of Business Economics within the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. This bureau, according to Secretary-Treasurer Thomas A. Fenn of the wholesale association, will work for the co-operation of all activities of merit that are now being carried on by the various national trade associations of the country. Those include, among others, the standardization of business methods, elimination of waste, conservation of resources, and the promotion of community development. A meeting will be held soon in Washington, at which the matter in question will be worked out in detail. The proposed bureau will offer an opportunity for constructive work that will be of great benefit to the business interests of the country.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Lose More Ground on a Late Afternoon Slump—Bethlehem Shares Weak.

The usual story was repeated yesterday in the stock market, when prices gave way easily before a selling movement in the afternoon after holding fairly firm throughout the earlier part of the session. The afternoon drive was aimed at Bethlehem and carried the prices of that company's shares down at a rate which was a reminder of the most severe breaks that have been seen in the war order stocks. The Bethlehem A shares closed at 87¼, off 7¾, and the B stock, on very heavy dealings, ended the day at 86½, off a full 7 points.

The selling of Bethlehem was not accompanied by any new stories of unfavorable conditions, although it was coincident with publication of a report that the underwriting syndicate for the $30,000,000 of new 8 per cent. preferred stock, which was offered to shareholders at par, had been called upon to take up something like 30 per cent. of the new issue. It had been known for several days that the stockholders were not taking the full amount of the new issue, but the Street was not prepared for the break to 92½ in the price of the new preferred which took place on the outside market yesterday. The public's liking for Bethlehem has undergone a great change since the discovery that the company had found it necessary to enter the market for funds with which to meet the new war taxes.

Numerous other industrial issues were unfavorably affected by the passage of the new war revenue measure without any changes in the bill as it left conference. Mexican Petroleum lost 2 points, Texas Co. 3½ and Industrial Alcohol, 3. Most of the steel issues declined in sympathy with Bethlehem, United States Steel common ending the session at 108½, off 1⅝. Most of the rails were fractionally lowered, St. Paul touching a new low for this movement at 49¼, while Delaware & Hudson sold off 2½.

Bankers do not like the new war revenue act, but they long since abandoned hope that Congress would take a leaf out of England's book and draft a law that would make saving compulsory among the great mass of people, while leaving them enough of their profits to stimulate them to greater activity. The principal objection to the individual income tax, which is probably peculiar to Wall Street, is that it takes too large a percentage of the big incomes and not enough of the smaller ones; to the excess profits tax, that it penalizes the firm or corporation doing business on borrowed capital and favors competitors amply supplied with capital. It is to be hoped that the expectation held in financial circles that the new law cannot be administered without seriously restricting business activity will not be realized, but no forecasts in this regard can take the place of a test of the law in actual practice.

Money was easier yesterday, most call loans being made at 4½ per cent. The Federal Reserve Bank will discount notes of customers of member banks, backed by a pledge of Liberty bonds or Government certificates of indebtedness, at 3½ per cent., making it possible for the banks to carry subscribers at 4 per cent. with a small margin of profit. Cotton continued its sensational rise on the unfavorable Government report and is now near the highest prices ever reached.

LONDON MARKET IS FIRM.

Marconi Shares Feature of Trading, Especially American Issue.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Money was in better demand today. Discounts were steady.

The stock market was quietly firm. Scandinavian bonds were in good demand. Argentine rails and Grand Trunk shares recovered, but British funds were dull on the new war bonds. The favorite rubbers and oils were active. Marconis were a feature of the trading, especially the American issues, which changed hands freely over par. There were more markings than usual in the low-priced American rails.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

Federal Reserve Board Acts Favorably on Bank's Application.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Federal Reserve Board today acted favorably on the application of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York to become a member of the Federal Reserve System.

The step taken by the Guaranty Trust Company is regarded by members of the Federal Reserve Board as one of the most important events connected with the Reserve System since its creation. There are now in the Federal Reserve System, counting the new acquisition, only eighty-five banks that originated under State charters, whereas there are in the United States 26,000 State banks. New York up to this time has had but five State banks that came over to the Federal Reserve System. Chicago, however, has had twenty-four and Boston seven.

The resources of the New York banks of State origin are $196,000,000, while the resources of the Boston banks of the same class are $202,000,000 and those of the Chicago banks $395,000,000. The total resources of the eighty-four banks that preceded the Guaranty Trust Company into the Federal System amounts to $1,217,464,272.

GOETHALS NEW HEAD OF AIRSHIP CONCERN

SAYS DUTY IMPELS HIM

Will Participate Actively in Corporation's Work—Government Order for 4,000 Motors Now on Its Books.

Major Gen. George W. Goethals was elected President of the Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation at a meeting of the Directors yesterday. He will take at once an active part in directing the corporation's affairs. Since his retirement as General Manager of the Shipping Board, as the result of friction with Chairman Denman, General Goethals has been engaged chiefly in undertakings of his engineering firm, Goethals, Jamieson, Houston & Jay, 40 Wall Street. As head of the airplane company he will continue to act in an advisory capacity on projects in which his firm is interested.

General Goethals's election as a Director of the Wright-Martin Corporation occurred at the annual meeting of shareholders before the Directors met yesterday. When the other Directors decided to make him President he accepted with this statement:

"I have seriously considered and discussed my acceptance of the position to which you have elected me, and I have accepted it with the view of doing some work that will be useful and assist in the prosecution of the war. My acceptance is from a sense of duty, and for such time as I can be helpful, or during the war period."

J. F. Alvord retired from the Presidency to make way for General Goethals. He was elected temporarily last May when a shake-up in the management occurred. George H. Houston, a partner of General Goethals, is to continue as Vice President and General Manager of the Wright-Martin Corporation. Marshall J. Dodge of Bertron, Griscom & Co. was elected a Director, and the retiring members were re-elected for another year.

The Wright-Martin Corporation recently obtained a large order from the Government for Hispano-Suiza airplane motors. It is understood that the order calls for about 4,000 motors of 250 horse power each, to be delivered before the end of 1918. The output of the Wright-Martin plant at New Brunswick, N. J., is to supplement the Government's production of Liberty motors to equip the airplanes now in process of construction. The company a year ago engaged to build 450 Hispano-Suiza motors, in part for the French Government, and is still at work upon them.

The annual statement yesterday said that as soon as the last of the motors was completed, which would be in a few weeks, the full plant capacity was to be devoted to United States Government work. The balance sheet showed, as of May 31, a profit and loss deficit of $1,030,387, the result chiefly of losses in making the first motors turned out. Cash on hand amounted to $2,570,680. Inventories to $1,987,437, and total assets to $10,506,538.

The company manufactures the Simplex automobile. The statement said that the cost of materials had risen so that automobile making was unprofitable. Orders for airplane engines received in recent months, the statement said, had proved profitable because the prices were higher than that fixed for the motors in the original contract.

WOMEN DOCKERS IN JAPAN.

They Handle American Supplies Destined for Russia's Armies.

TSURUGA, Japan, Aug. 20, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Strong-bodied coolie women are carrying the burden of keeping Russia supplied with products of the United States and Canada. At the docks here, the principal port of exchange between Japan and Russia, and the half-way point between America and Petrograd, thousands of tons of freight are moved by the women every time a ship docks.

They smoke cigarettes and sing as they work. Bare-legged, with short kimono skirts, they wrestle with huge boxes and packages that would seem certain to bear them down. Many of the supplies for Russia's armies pass through this port, and the women dock laborers add one more picturesque touch to the natural scenic beauty of the harbor of Tsuruga.

Now that the Russian frontier is open and the day of the dread of Siberia passed, exiles by the thousands are returning home to Russia. Many of them pass through this port. They are of all classes, all types, and maintain in Tsuruga a chatter so complexly Russian that the Japanese merchants now print their signs in duplicate, Russian and Japanese.

Commission Announces New Rate Policy—Intermountain Case Reopened.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission today notified the railroads that hereafter, before granting applications for increased rates, it proposed to place such applications before the shippers interested. The notification was made public in a proposed order upon which argument will be heard Oct. 15. The change is to be made to meet the situation arising out of the recent amendment of the act to regulate commerce, prescribing that no rates shall be increased without the commission's approval. The order will not be made final until after the railroads, shippers and other interested parties have had an opportunity to state their views to the commission.

By an order of the commission the celebrated intermountain rate case was today practically reopened for consideration of new tariffs proposed by the railroads, which would effect increases ranging from 10 to 60 per cent. on about 70 per cent. of the present schedules. Under amendment of the rate law the commission will have to consider each increase on its merits. Thus a final closing of the case probably will long be postponed, as the investigation will be a large task. The whole intermountain territory west of a line drawn north and south through Denver is affected.

COTTON RISES AGAIN

Net Advance of 105 to 125 Points Marks Day of Steadily Climbing Prices.

One day's session was not enough to adjust the cotton market to the surprise of Tuesday's Government crop report, and prices went steadily forward yesterday, closing at a net advance of over a cent a pound for the day, and upward of 2½ cents since Tuesday morning. It was significant yesterday that the buying appeared to be speculative to only a slight extent, but showed a strong and steady trade demand from both foreign and domestic sources. At times some months jumped 40 to 50 points on single sales, and the closing figures were near the highest levels of the day. The net closing ranged from 105 to 125 points above Tuesday's figures, with several months above the 26-cent level.

The action of cotton growers in conference at New Orleans on Tuesday in recommending that cotton be held for a minimum price of 30 cents a pound, may possibly have stimulated the buying movement. A few years ago any suggestion of a concerted holding movement in the South at this season of the year would have been derided in local trade circles, but since the beginning of the war, the South has so demonstrated its ability to market slowly under prevailing financial conditions, that the attitude of the holder has become a matter of prime importance.

The smaller crop figures, combined with the possibility of an early frost, are factors which local traders concede are calculated to promote firmness among growers for the immediate future at any rate, and the volume of hedge selling yesterday was not heavy enough to create contrary sentiment. Otherwise the trade found little in the day's news to attract fresh bullish comment. Immediate weather conditions were considered favorable. The forecast for lower temperatures in the Southwest emphasized the approach of the frost period, but held out no immediate threat of damage, and nothing fresh developed with reference to shipping conditions.

The market opened firm at an advance of 30 to 48 points, and quickly sold 113 to 127 points net higher. This advance was followed by a period of hesitation and irregular fluctuations, after which there was another wave of general buying which sent prices 123 to 130 points above Tuesday's closing figures. A break of about 40 points followed but was partly recovered, prices closing within 15 or 20 points of the top. No exports were reported for the day. Southern spot markets were unchanged to 100 points higher.

WHEAT.

Private crop reports on wheat indicated a yield somewhat in excess of last month's Government estimate of 668,000,000 bushels. The Snow report indicated a total yield of Winter and Spring wheat of 682,000,000, and Clement, Curtis & Co. suggest a crop of 680,000,000. The Price Current said that the Winter wheat acreage this Fall will be by far the largest on record; some sections of Kansas show a gain of 25 per cent. over last year, and conditions are even better, there having been beneficial rains, and plowing and seeding progressed rapidly.

RYE.—Market easy; No. 2 Western, $1.96, coet, insurance, and freight, New York. There is said to be a fair export movement in rye, owing to the delayed receipts of wheat.

CORN.

The corn market showed resistance to bearish influences and closed firm with net gains of ⅜c to ⅝c. There was further evidence of a good demand, and offers were readily taken. Cash corn in the West was a little firmer, relatively speaking, on small offers, and many are now fearing that the early movement of corn will not be large enough to cause much pressure on the market, and farmers appear to have assumed a holding position in all grain, and so far receipts of both wheat and oats have been much below normal. In the local cash market old corn was lower, with No. 2 yellow quoted at $2.08 and No. 2 mixed at $2.06, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was rather quiet, but prices were firmer, closing with net gains of ⅛@¼c. The December position was particularly strong and the market was influenced by continued light receipts at primary points, which suggested a continued absence of accumulation. The local cash market was firmer; standard quoted at 67@67½c; No. 2 white, 67¼c; No. 3 white, 66½@67c; No. 4 white, 66@66½; fancy clipped white, 68½@70½c; ordinary clipped white, 66½@68¼c; all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was again nervous and irregular, closing steady for lard but lower for ribs and pork. The hog movement is picking up a little, but is still running far below normal, and hog prices were firmer. There is a noticeable tendency, however, to curtail bullish operations, and this is doubtless responsible for the hesitation manifested among buyers. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 18,000; estimated for Thursday, 11,000. Kansas City received 6,000 and Omaha 7,000 head.

COTTONSEED OIL.

While the cottonseed oil market was more or less unsettled by the efforts to curtail outside operations, the undertone was strong and final quotations were 16 to 31 points net higher. Underlying conditions were bullish and the market reflected the influence of the sharp advance in cotton as well as the dryness in crude oil in the South, where sales were said to have been made at $1.20 per gallon. Total sales were 44,900 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

There was a further decline in the coffee market yesterday. The scattered selling seemed to come from practically the same sources as recently, and was again attributed to liquidation by foreign and domestic longs influenced by the sagging tendency of Brazil. After opening unchanged to 2 points lower, active months sold about 6 to 12 points under the previous closing figures, with December touching 7.15c and May at 7.54c. Rather a better demand developed at these prices, attributed partly to covering, and there were slight rallies, with the market closing at a net decline of 3 to 6 points. Sales, 36,500 bags. The local spot market was quiet and unchanged, at 8½c for Rio 7s and 9¾c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

RISE IN MILK PRICE STARTS 4 INQUIRIES

STATE AND NATION TO ACT

John Mitchell, New Food Controller, Will Consult Whitman Today —Hoover to Seek Cause.

The confirmation of John Mitchell as head of the new State Food Control Commission cleared the way yesterday for four important investigations of the mounting cost of necessities, and especially of the cost of milk. Mr. Mitchell went to Albany last night to confer with Governor Whitman on the work of the commission, which will probably have its headquarters in Albany.

This morning the officials of the Dairymen's League, and of the Borden's Condensed Milk Company, responding to subpoenas, will appear in the office of District Attorney Swann with the records of their organizations. The District Attorney announced last night that he hoped to go before the Grand Jury on next Monday with nine specific charges against the Dairymen's League, and that he had requested the production of all available data this morning with the view of obtaining indictments. Among the records of the Dairymen's League asked for are minutes of proceedings, books of deposits, contracts with farmers and dealers, and lists of officers and members.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the same officials of the Dairymen's League, carrying practically the same records, will appear in the Assembly Room of the Department of Health at the first public hearing to be conducted by Mayor Mitchel's new Committee on Milk. Commissioner of Accounts Wallstein will question the witnesses at this hearing. And within a few days a fourth inquiry probably will be undertaken by a Federal Food Controller for the State, to be named by Herbert Hoover. It is possible that Mr. Hoover may appoint John Mitchell, in which case the inquiries of the State and Federal boards may be joined.

None of these proceedings, however, seemed to be considered seriously by the officials of the Dairymen's League, and D. Cooper, its President, sent the following telegram last night to Governor Whitman:

October 3, 1917.

Governor Charles S. Whitman,
Executive Chamber, Albany.

Dear Sir: Now that the Food Commission has been appointed, the Dairymen's League requests that the commission at once investigate the milk situation and the correctness of our position.

D. COOPER,
President of the Dairymen's League.

Says Swann Plays Politics.

Of the investigation being conducted by District Attorney Swann Mr. Cooper said:

"The sole purpose of Mr. Swann's investigation is to make political capital. Nevertheless, we will, of course, produce the records he desires. We would produce them without any subpoenas. We will be there, as he desires."

Of the inquiry undertaken by the Mayor's Milk Committee, Mr. Cooper said:

"The officials of the Dairymen's League were requested to appear before the committee by Dr. Charles E. North, its Chairman. Dr. North called our office on the telephone and left word in my absence. We will gladly respond. I shall attend the hearing, accompanied by F. H. Thomson, Vice President, and Albert Manning, the Secretary, of the Dairymen's League. As I understand it, the committee will inquire particularly into the cost of production, and the league has requested Professor G. F. Warren of the State College of Agriculture to bring to the meeting data compiled by his college with the records of their organizations. On the cost of distribution we have asked him to be a witness so that the committee may have the benefit of unbiased and disinterested testimony, and because the league has taken into consideration the figures of the college in establishing a fair basis for the prices asked by the dairymen.

Mr. Cooper said it was not true, as had been charged, that the league controlled 90 per cent. of the cows in the six States in which it operates.

"Our records show that there are 1,351,372 cows in New York State," he said, "and the members of the league own only 436,033 of these cows. This shows that our members own only 32 per cent. of the cows. In that part of Pennsylvania in which we operate there are 51,857 cows, of which our members own 6,239; in New Jersey there are 30,279 cows in our territory, of which 2,236 are owned by our members; in Connecticut there are 6,856 cows in the territory covered by the league, of which our members own 588; in Vermont we have members in territory in which there are 4,218 cows, and of these we have 268, and in Massachusetts of 1,324 cows in the territory in which we have members, we have only 108 cows. This shows that how much of a monopoly we enjoy."

Mr. Cooper added that the league had "no reason to believe that John Mitchell, the head of the State Food Control Commission, is not a fair, square man."

Abnormal Profits Immoral.

Mr. Mitchell was not able yesterday to talk at length on the plans of his commission, but he said that "the milk situation, of course, will be one of the subjects to be inquired into.

"This is a very important question, and vitally affects the people of New York. I do not want to make a general statement at this time, but, of course, it is highly immoral for any one to take advantage of the nation's stress to gain profits. I think that so far as lies within the power of the State and the Federal Government normal prices should be maintained."

Mr. Mitchell said that the headquarters of the new State Food Control Commission probably would be in Albany, although meetings of its members to learn food conditions would be held in many cities.

"When I talk to Governor Whitman tomorrow we probably will decide when and where the commission is to meet, and lay out a plan of work," he said.

"I take it for granted that the headquarters will be in Albany, since that city is more convenient for the other Commissioners as a meeting place than New York."

Mr. Mitchell explained that he would retain his place as Chairman of the State Industrial Commission, a position he has held for two years and a half, and that he would conduct both offices by leaving more of the details than heretofore to his subordinates.

The District Attorney and the Mayor's Committee devoted most of their time yesterday getting ready to interrogate the officials of the Dairymen's League. The Mayor's Committee selected Dr. North as its Chairman at a meeting at the Department of Health. He is a sanitarian and Secretary of the National Counsel on Milk Standards. The other members are Willim Collins, an organizer for the American Federation of Labor; E. B. Lewis, Advisory Counsel of the Department of Health, and Bailey B. Burritt, General Director of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. It will have its headquarters in the Municipal Building. In addition to Commissioner Wallstein, who will question the witnesses, the committee selected Dr. E. C. Levy, until recently the health officer of Richmond, Va., as a special investigator.

"This is not to be a talkfest," said Dr. North of the coming hearings, "but real business."

Milk Dealer Forced to Quit.

Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, in direct charge of the Prosecutor's milk inquiry, announced yesterday that he had received the following statement from Louis Cavans, a milk dealer of 308 Greenwich Street:

"A few days prior to Oct. 1 I went to the offices of the Dairymen's League at 110 West Fortieth Street and saw President Cooper and Messrs. Thomson and Manning, and asked about new contracts for the coming year. I refused to sign a contract they handed me. I told them that I could not afford the prices. I was told I'd have to pay $3 per 100 pounds of milk containing 3 per cent. of butter fact and $4 for milk richer than 3 per cent. in butter fat. The officials of the league said to me: 'Our price is stated in the contract. You can sign that or not. We will notify farmers not to deliver milk to you on Oct. 1 or after.' No milk was delivered, and when I asked farmers who had been delivering milk to me why it was, they replied: 'We have orders from the Dairymen's League not to deliver until you sign the contract.' I said it would mean bankruptcy for me, and I got the reply that 'this is a matter involving the existence of the league, and we can't give you any milk until the officers of the league tell us to.'"

As a result, Cavans said, he was compelled to close his place of business.

In a statement to Assistant District Attorney Talley, yesterday, John F. McCauley, treasurer of the Model Dairy Company, doing business at 248 Eighth Avenue, said he was a member of the New York State Milk Dealers' Conference Board, which had been compelled to submit to the advances demanded by the Dairymen's League. He asserted that the producers had threatened to hold up every quart of milk if the new price was not paid.

Mr. McCauley said that at a meeting with the officials of the Dairymen's League the President of Borden's By-Product Company had asked Mr. Cooper if he did not think it unjust for the League to "make the poor people on the East Side pay for the manufacture of milk that is not worth within a dollar a hundred pounds of what the League is demanding," but Mr. Cooper had replied, "we haven't taken that into consideration."

Mr. McCauley added that after a consultation the members of the Conference Board decided there was no use to fight the League, in view of the cost of the last strike, and that they had decided to submit to the new price, but to reduce their purchases.

General Barnett Deplores "Ad."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Major Gen. Barnett, commandant of the Marine Corps, has received a copy of a recent advertisement in New York newspapers, signed "Chairman of the Comforts Committee of the Navy League, 509 Fifth Avenue," and calling for knitters to make "5,000 pairs of heavy Winter service socks for the United States marines now in France—which are desperately needed." He says he is astonished and regrets that "such a misleading advertisement has been published."

JURY GIVES $100,000 TO MAYO'S WIFE

Radiator Manufacturer Charged with Concealing Earlier Marriage When He Wed Her.

MET HIM FIRST IN JAIL

Other Matrimonial Adventures and One Suicide Brought Out— No Defense Made.

A jury before Justice Goff began taking testimony yesterday morning in the $250,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Wilhelmina Meyer-Mayo against Virginius St. Julian Mayo, radiator manufacturer, on the charge that he induced her to become his wife under the false representation that he was single. The case went to the jury early in the afternoon, and after being out only thirty minutes a verdict for $100,000 was returned. There was no defense.

The plaintiff, who has called herself Wilhelmina Meyer since learning that Mayo had another wife living when he married her, testified that she first met Mayo in the Raymond Street jail in Brooklyn, while she was calling on her sweetheart, a Mr. Peterson, who had been sent there for nonpayment of alimony to a former wife. Mayo was then in prison under a body attachment arising out of a judgment against him in a business transaction. He married her on April 2, 1904. James W. Osborne, counsel for Mayo, contended that the measure of the damages suffered by the plaintiff should be the $2,500 a year he earned when he first deceived her into marriage, and not based on the fortune he accumulated during the dozen years he lived with her. The court upheld him.

Testimony was offered bearing on the suicide of Mayo's stenographer in New Haven, which brought about the disclosure that Mayo had lived in Brooklyn with Lois Dudley, by whom he has three children, and finally the statement of Mrs. Florence Weeks Mayo in Scranton, Penn., that she was the legal wife of Mayo. The plaintiff then left Mayo and the real Mrs. Mayo got a divorce. Counsel for Miss Meyer showed that even after the first Mrs. Mayo received her decree the defendant refused to marry Miss Meyer legally because he was obligated to Lois Dudley. Miss Meyer testified that while she lived in Mayo's home he told her his income from his radiator manufacturing business was $100,000 a year, and that he had $100,000 insurance.

Justice Goff reserved decision on a motion to set aside the verdict as excessive.

POLICE MOVE TO STOP NOISE OF NEWSBOYS

Public Annoyed by Shouting of War Calamities For Which There Is No Basis.

Many complaints have been received at Police Headquarters in the last month about newsboys who disturb the peace by shouting sensational war news extras when there is nothing in their papers to justify their clamor. This practice has become especially annoying since the United States entered the war. Knowing the people to be keenly interested in European events, the newsboys, to stimulate sales, often take advantage of popular concern by converting occurrences of no significance in Paris, London, or Petrograd into stupendous disasters.

This practice has unnerved men and women who have relatives in the service and to whom the war is of vital and personal concern. Not only in the city but in the suburbs newsboys have aroused neighborhoods late at night with their fictitious sensations.

"We are doing our best," said Police Commissioner Woods yesterday, "to stop this nuisance, but it is one of those things that depends very much upon the mood and attitude of Magistrates. If a policeman, on his own initiative, takes a boy to court for making a public nuisance of himself, sympathy is so much with the boy that unless the policeman has a strong complaint to back him up he is likely to be laughed out of court. It is difficult to get a citizen to prosecute a boy, no matter how much he may resent being disturbed by his noise.

"Excepting in so far as it tends to create a public nuisance, there is no law which could be utilized to suppress the practice, but in view of the annoyance that newsboys are causing, precinct Captains have received special instructions to put it so far as possible. They are eager to act upon complaints, provided the complainants will go to court. Without a citizen's complaint to back him up, a policeman bringing a boy into court will get very little support from the bench. On the contrary, he is more likely to be told to transfer his activities from the capture of newsboys to the capture of burglars. It is a human situation very difficult to control."

BREWERS PLEDGE WAR AID.

Ready to Make Any Sacrifice, Says National Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3.—Resolutions pledging support to the President in any measure for the success of the war and declaring "readiness to make any sacrifice" were passed today by the annual convention of the United States Brewers Association. The Executive Committee was directed to offer the co-operation of the brewers to the Administration, to begin a campaign for the sale of Liberty bonds among all employes, to encourage the naturalization of aliens, prevent waste of foods and grains, to increase the production of food, and to aid in the enforcement of all laws regulating the industry.

"Ours is no divided allegiance; whether by birth or by choice this is our country," the resolutions read in part. "We affirm our absolute conviction in the necessity of our country's success, and declare our readiness to make any sacrifice that shall advance it, and we record our unswerving faith that ultimately it will triumph and restore peace and contentment to a distracted world."

The crop improvement committee presented a report designed to show the relatively small amount of food grains consumed by the breweries in the manufacture of beer. The report admits that 20 to 35 per cent. of the barley crop is purchased each year for malt used in making beer, but it is asserted that if the breweries did not buy the barley, at a premium amounting at times to 20 cents a bushel, the area planted would be greatly curtailed at considerable loss to the farmer, as there is no other market for barley.

TELLS WOMEN HOW TO HELP

Conservation Leader Outlines Ways to Aid in Prosecution of War.

Speaking before 500 members and guests of the Rainy Day Club at a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Hotel Astor for the purpose of discussing woman's responsibilities in the winning of the war, Charles A. Rieser of the National Conservation Movement said in an address on "Industry, War and the Woman," that there never was a time in the history of the world when the aid of woman was needed more than at the present.

"There are many ways in which woman can aid in the successful prosecution of the war against a common enemy," said Mr. Rieser. "In my opinion woman can best help to win this war by molding a more fervent public attitude toward business and industry in order that the country may be strengthened to meet the demands of the war. The three greatest sources of present waste in the conduct of the war are friction between capital and labor, incompetent business laws, and public antagonism to business. The last condition, I believe, is chiefly responsible for the other two."

Mr. Rieser told of the extent and scope of the conservation movement throughout the country. Mrs. Owen Kildare read a paper on "Woman's Efficiency." Mrs. A. M. Palmer, President of the club, presided.

Mrs. E. H. Harriman has signed one of the pledge cards being circulated by the United States Food Administration Publicity Department asking the women of the nation to join in a campaign to control food administration. Mrs. Harriman accompanied her card with the following message:

The bureau announced that it had received favorable responses from hundreds of others who desired to be enrolled in the 20,000 volunteer division that will make a house-to-house canvass in the interests of food control. This canvass will start on Oct. 31. Borough President Pounds of Brooklyn yesterday sent the bureau the following message: "Count me in to help the ladies." Brooklyn will make a clean job of it."

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Fair activity and strong prices characterized the wool market the last week, with sales of 6,000,000 pounds. Much material bought is going into army goods. Scoured wools have been selling well. The market has been broadening considerably in the last two weeks.

"In the woolen goods market there is comparatively little buying for ordinary purposes. Most of the strength is based on special orders.

"Activity in the cotton goods market has varied on different days and altogether there has been an increase in the buying, compared with previous weeks. This market remains steady.

The demand is not large, but mills are moderately well protected with orders. High prices will cut down distribution noticeably, but the large Government requirements will tend to hold the market steady."

Sherrill to Discuss Guard Plans.

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, Adjutant General of the State, will address the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York today on the plans relating to the formation of the new State Guard. Resolutions in memory of Isaac N. Seligman, for many years an active member of the Chamber, will be presented by the Executive Committee. Before the regular meeting of the Chamber a special meeting will be held for the purpose of electing three Commissioners of Pilots of the Port of New York.

Keep the above dates in mind. Obtain a booklet and maps. Go and look these properties over thoroughly; close inspection will convince you that they have good, substantial values. All the properties are well located and with good transportation facilities.

AN EXCELLENT TIME TO PURCHASE

There is no demand for real estate at the present time. Experienced real estate men say they have never known so little activity in real estate sales, and therefore this opportunity for the Homeseeker, Builder, Investor and Speculator to purchase at low prices has not been so clearly indicated in many years.

REMEMBER

These will be absolute auction sales in the strongest meaning of these words. No bidders representing the seller directly or indirectly will be at these sales. There will be no dummy bids.

For maps and booklet giving full details and terms address Benj. D. Haight, Special Deputy Supt. of Banks, 61 Broadway, New York City.

The following letter, concerning the Rosemary National Red Cross Pageant, which will take place at the Rosemary Open-Air Amphitheatre, Huntington, Long Island, tomorrow afternoon, has been received from President Wilson by Mr. Davison, Chairman Red Cross War Council:

White House,
Washington, D. C.,
Sept. 28, 1917.

My Dear Mr. Davison:

I am very much impressed and pleased by what you tell me in your letter of yesterday of the plans of the leading actors and actresses of the country to present a pageant and of the arrangements you are making in connection with that plan. I wish with all my heart that I could be present to show my very deep and genuine interest. I know from experience only too well that it is going to be impossible, but I want you to know and I want them to know how much I regret the impossibility.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Mr. Henry P. Davison, American Red Cross.

The spectacle begins at 2:15 o'clock.

OPEN BASE HOSPITAL FOR USE OF ARMY

President Butler Formally Transfers Columbia's Gift to the Government.

CONSTRUCTION WAS RAPID

Site Was Unbroken Countryside on April 1—National and Red Cross Flags Raised.

United States Army General Hospital No. 1, on the old Columbia Oval at Bainbridge Avenue and Gun Hill Road, the Bronx, was opened formally yesterday afternoon with exercises at which Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, announced the presentation of the hospital by the university to the Government, and Colonel E. R. Schreiner, the commanding officer at the hospital, accepted it on behalf of the Secretary of War. Between the addresses the United States and the Red Cross hospital flags were raised on the historic pole which stood for many years at McGown's Pass, in Central Park.

In his address, Dr. Butler, who was introduced by Major William H. Bishop, narrated the history of the hospital, which was known as the Columbia War Hospital until the Government took charge of it on July 18. The hospital, said Dr. Butler, represented "American effectiveness in action," and he reminded the audience that on the first of last April the ground where the hospital with its accommodations for 500 patients now stood was "unbroken country side." He said that the Trustees of Columbia University authorized the building of the hospital on April 2, and four days later appointed a committee to take charge of the work. From then on rapid progress was made.

Dr. Butler said that he would be unable to name all of those whose cooperation had made the hospital possible, but that he wished especially to mention Dr. J. Bentley Squier, Major in the Medical Reserve Corps and a member of the Council of National Defense.

"Dr. Squier," said the speaker, "first conceived the idea of the hospital and was the first to take up the work of making it a reality. To a great extent we owe the hospital to his efforts and those of a group of men among whom should be mentioned Dr. Samuel W. Lambert, dean of the College of Physicians and Surgeons; Frederick A. Goetze, Treasurer of the university; W. H. Woodin, Willard V. King, Dr. Adrian V. S. Lanwert, Dr. William H. Bishop, Dr. Francis Carter Wood, and Walter Blooer, the architect.

"This hospital represents one of the finest aspects of American life. It does not represent work done or money given under compulsion or by request. It represents one aspect of the determination of the American people to see to it that the Government of the United States, the navy, the army, and every branch of the service are aided and assisted by every contribution and sacrifice at their command. Of the total of that determination on the part of the American people, this hospital represents our little bit."

Colonel Schreiner then told how the Surgeon General of the army had been looking for a hospital site near New York when the Columbia Hospital was offered to him. The hospital, he said, was "something immediately ready," and was gladly accepted by the War Department to fill a real need. It was opened, he added, as the first military general hospital to be put into service after the declaration of war. There had already been a demand for the services of the hospital, he continued, both by patients and by nurses and physicians going abroad who had used it as a mobilization centre. The buildings of the hospital had accommodated 500 persons at one time, he said.

The hospital was receiving soldiers disabled through illness and accident, he continued, and probably would receive soldiers sent home from the front. He announced that plans had already been submitted for enlarging the hospital to accommodate 1,000 instead of 500 patients.

Following the exercises, the visitors, among whom were those who had done most to make the hospital a success and others interested in the project, were taken on an inspection tour of the buildings. These are single story frame and metal structures, especially designed for use as parts of a regulation base hospital. Though standing firmly and for permanent use in their present position, if desired they can be taken apart and shipped in sections ready to assemble on any site selected. One of the advantages of the hospital considered of practical value is the fact that the nurses and doctors who work there will become familiar with the exact style and character of the regular army base hospitals.

When the plans for the hospital were first announced on April 3 public-spirited citizens volunteered contributions in large and small sums. Within twenty-four hours $20,000 had been received, half of it from Mr. and Mrs. Barend van Gerbig, and the other half from Daniel Guggenheim. Other contributions of $200 or more subsequently received were as follows:

Mr. & Mrs. W. G. Ladd.....$25,000	Grant B. Schley.$1,000
F. W. Vanderbilt 10,000	Willard V. King.1,000
E. C. Converse...5,000	Miss A. B. Jennings 1,000
Miss E. F. Southmayd 5,000	Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss 500
Mrs. H. R. Rea.5,000	A. E. Uihlein.....500
Through W. B. O. Field 3,675	Isaac N. Seligman.500
A. & S. Lewisohn.2,500	Henry Seligman...500
Mrs. R. A.Rainey.2,000	Frederick Strauss..500

Dudley Olcott 24.1,000	John G. Agar.....250
Dr. Ludwig Kast.1,000	Henry Parsons....200
	Hudson M. Car Co.200

Altogether more than $100,000 was received in popular subscriptions and was spent in the construction and equipment of the hospital buildings, which were purchased with $175,000 contributed separately for the purpose by Daniel G. Reid.

HIT ROCK IN TYPHOON WITH 2,000 SOLDIERS

Major General Bailey Tells of Thrilling Trip Across the Pacific.

DELAYED FOR THREE WEEKS

Transport, Although Badly Damaged Herself, Towed a Disabled Schooner 180 Miles to Port.

Major Gen. Charles J. Bailey, relieved from command in the Philippines to help train the national army, arrived in New York last night and told of the perilous voyage of a United States transport, carrying 2,000 soldiers, on which he returned to this country from Manila. The transport arrived at San Francisco three weeks late because of an encounter she had with a typhoon off the coast of Formosa, which, as the General said, came very near robbing the United States of some good fighting men.

The vessel left Manila on Aug. 15 and started on her twenty-one-day voyage to San Francisco. When she was two days out the ship ran into a typhoon, and the Captain stuck her straight through it. General Bailey said the wind was blowing 100 miles an hour when they fought through the first side of the typhoon ring, while in the centre it was dead calm.

It was when the vessel started out of the typhoon that she got in real danger, for she could not push through. It was an anxious time, the General said, with the more than 2,000 persons held below deck, all wearing life preservers. Three sailors did venture on deck. One was swept away, and the other two saved themselves by catching the railing of the ship when a wave washed them from their feet. One of them suffered a broken jaw.

"For four days," said General Bailey, "we fought with that storm. We couldn't get through it. We seemed to be moving, but the storm seemed to stick to us. Then on the night of the 20th we struck a rock. The Captain had suspected because of the actions of the ship that we were in shoal water. He was moving cautiously, almost out of the storm, when by some intuition he gave the deck officer the order to back the engines. Scarcely had the order been given when there was a crash—we had struck a rock. Had we been going full speed ahead we would have been there yet. But just after we hit the rock a big wave lifted the ship, and as her engines were reversed she jumped backward.

"In a short time we were out of the storm, which seemed to move away. The ship had taken some water through a hole stove in the bow by the impact with the rock. We found out that the rock was jutting from one of the little islands off the north of Formosa.

"Then we found that we were short of coal. So, after battling our way out of the storm, we had to start back to Formosa after fuel. On the way we ran across the Irmquard, a schooner out of San Francisco, which had been hit by the typhoon and was almost foundering. Her Captain, who had his wife on board, made a pitiable plea, and our Captain, with all his troubles, gave him a line and towed him 180 miles to port.

"From Formosa we went to Nagasaki and had the Japanese repair about fifty feet on the bottom of our vessel. It took five days to get to Nagasaki; we were there fourteen days, and sailing from there made the trip to San Francisco in seventeen days.

"I think the action of the soldiers down beneath decks, unable to see what was going on but hearing an awful lot, was the best example of discipline I ever saw, and I have seen a lot."

General Bailey received the news of his promotion from a Brigadier Generalship to a Major Generalship while the vessel was going from Formosa to Nagasaki. He had been in the Philippines for three years. He said that conditions in the islands were the best in many years. He stated that there was very little disaffection, and no one seemed to be disposed to make trouble for the Americans at this time. The crews of the interned German ships, about two hundred men, are being held at Baguio by the insular authorities.

JAPANESE LEASE SHIPS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Word reached Washington from Tokio today that the Mitzui Bishi Company of Japan had entered into a contract with the Chinese concern in charge of the fourteen German and Austrian steamers seized in China for the chartering of these vessels. The contract was signed on Aug. 27. It is understood that the steamers will be used by several Japanese and some foreign concerns.

Three ships, representing an aggregate of 19,353 tons, were launched at Japanese shipbuilding yards during September, according to advices received today. During August twenty-six vessels, each exceeding 1,000 tons and aggregating 109,021 tons, were launched at Japanese yards. If Japan succeeds in obtaining the necessary steel from the United States, the advices say, merchantmen of a total tonnage of 180,000 tons will be built in Japan within the next six months, beginning in October.

SUIT AGAINST KAISER TRIED.

Prince Friedrich Leopold's Action Is Heard in Secret.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The action brought by Prince Friedrich Leopold of Prussia against Emperor William and Count von Eulenburg, Prussian Minister of the Household, as a protest against the restraint placed upon the Prince, came before a secret court at Potsdam yesterday, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

All efforts to force the Prince to renounce the action proved futile. The decision of the court will not be published.

According to an announcement made in the Official Gazette at Berlin on Aug. 10, Prince Friedrich Leopold of Prussia, who is 22 years old, was charged by Count von Eulenburg with extravagance and was placed under the guardianship of Captain von Heyden, the Prince's military escort.

Prince Friedrich Leopold received the usual military training, but owing to a defective heart failed to qualify for active service. One of his brothers was killed several months ago in a flight over the western battlefront.
